Woman's Enlarging Sphere.

At twenty-five a man used to begin to live, but a woman was on the shelf. Up to a few decades ago the woman of twenty-five, married or single, was usually a passive. If married she swore romance and spent her days in dull and commendable faithfulness to "kinder, kirche, kueche;" if unmarried and minus an independent income, heaven help her! She passed gently into the maiden aunt stage—household helper in general to any married sister, brother, cousin that ever wanted her; subject to call when there was illness, dire need, a new baby or bustling preparations for some important event; to take errors and omissions meekly and without complaint. Sometimes she persisted in being young even at twenty-seven and curled her hair and squeaked her voice to a childish treble and trained in a set of kitchenish manners for social purposes. She hated to give up the thought of ever being married.

A COOL HERALD.

A LUXURIOUS COAT.

With warm weather and vacations still with us it seems far-fetched to bring in our furs. But furs and more of them are the coming note, and this handsome design of black seal, in rippling fullness and edged with skunk, suggests one new design. Please observe the smallish size of the muff.

New Towel Ends.

The ends of the newest embroidered towels are surely trying to emulate the latest of dress fashions, for they are showing every variety of scallops. Where one was once content to hem-stitch the ends of a buck towel and place a simple embroidered letter in the middle of one end, to be strictly up to date one must now slash the towel into some new cut of scalloping. There are square scallops, pointed ones, wide and shallow and deep rounded scallops and scallops within scallops. And they are embroidered in colors, often with a finish of a second buttonholing of another color or a ruffled picot edge. Fillet crochet inserts are quite the thing now for towel ends; sometimes one sees a piece of fillet insertion with three initials of the intended owner crocheted in the mesh. Cutwork initials or gold initials with an oval background of cutwork are very effective and are not difficult when one considers the results obtained. The plain woven ends of Turkish towels are now being embroidered, most often with a flowered border of darned work or French knots.

EVENING GOWN.

A GEMLIKE DESIGN.

This simple frock is developed with white net or chiffon over pale pink. Its shortish skirt is finished with a wreath of roses, which also complete the unique sleeves, while two rose clusters finish the corsage and belt line.
 It seems remarkable that a deadly mechanical toy like the submarine should be regarded as essential to anybody's comfort and happiness.

Pure, clean, flavory and strong, in sealed packets.

CHIC SHIRTWAISTS OF WHITE TAFFETA.

Now Being Worn With the Modish Fall Street Suits.
 Chic in every detail are the new shirt waists for morning and tailored wear, observing all the latest features and at the same time maintaining strictly severe lines.
 Although crepes and soft silks in white and flesh tints are much in vogue, the blouse of the moment is developed in pussy willow taffeta, and is white. A very smart shirt waist of this variety is shown by an exclusive shop, noted for its advance portion of the taffeta is shirred on to a narrow shoulder yoke cut circular. Long, fairly tight sleeves have deep cuffs with turned-back sections slashed and made double thickness to flare. The waist buttons in the centre front, with a broad hem stitched on either side and button-holed with silk twist. The buttons are of medium size, slightly smoked pearl. Patch pockets and a high collar flaring over a simple black bow tie are attractive features.

 In Novelty Silks.
 Quite a number of the new waists are fashioned in novelty silks with self-toned stripes or tiny colored figures, but always the touch of modish black is present in the buttons, a jaunty cravat or pipings at the yoke, shoulders or cuffs.
 Some models approve of the raglan sleeve, but the set-in styles are more numerous. Neck finishings are very interesting, the most popular designs introducing the one-sided jabots or high, round-faring collars of the chiffon type slightly modified. Yoke novelties are numerous and the most popular trimming buttons. These are pearl, jet, amber or self, and in a few cases crocheted. Cuffs are usually unadorned.

FROCK OF SUBMARINE CHIFFON POPLIN.

for poplin and worn with adjustable collar and cuffs of organdy.
 Despite their long run, poplins are meeting with general approval for Autumn wear and will continue their popularity until some substitute is provided. They are to be had in both dress and suiting weights and are shown in the newest colors, one of the favorites being submarine—a rich, dark grayish-blue. The frock shown here finds eloquent expression in chiffon poplin, which is very serviceable despite its lustrous finish. The bodice is trimmed with collar and cuffs of natural color organdy, and the two-piece skirt has inserted side sections forming pockets.
 Chiffon poplin ranges in width from 36 to 40 inches and about 4 1/2 yards will be required for this dress if duplicated in medium size. In addition 1/2 yard of organdy will be needed for the collar and cuffs, and 1/2 yard 3-inch belting for the stay.
 The dress can be cut very economically if the various sections of the pattern are advantageously placed on the poplin. First the material should be folded in half, then placed into position first in the back gore, right on the lengthwise fold of the goods. Following this is the collar, and after the collar the front gore.
 Retracing slightly, the space between the back and front gores is filled with other sections of the pattern—namely, the plecter for the back gore and the belt, the former laid on a lengthwise thread of the material and the latter along the selva edge. So far there is practically no surplus material. Now, skipping to the lower edge of the front gore, the front of the waist is laid on the poplin, to the right. Opposite the back is the inserted side section that forms the pocket, and following this, as closely together as they can be placed, are the cuff and sleeve.
 All is now ready for the cutting, and when the dress is completed one has a design admirably adapted to girlish figures.

A very chic costume of youthful design, fashioned of submarine blue chiffon.

Pictorial Review Costume No. 6364. Sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Price, 15 cents.

Sandwiches and Sandwich Fillings.

Honey-Sandwich.—Spread thin slices of bread with very thick honey that will not run readily; spread other slice with butter stirred with cream. Press one slice of each together and cut into fancy shapes if something fancy is desired for an afternoon tea.
Baked Bean Sandwich.—Reduce the beans to a pulp (red kidney beans preferred). Mix pulp with melted butter, onion juice, a pinch of dry mustard, a few olives or pimientos chopped and a dash of tomato ketchup or chili sauce. Spread the mixture between slices of brown bread. Chili sauce is generally used.
Deviled Ham Sandwiches.—To make deviled ham chop very fine one pint of boiled ham (more fat than lean), six hard boiled eggs, one teaspoonful of mustard (the made kind), season and press in a mold. This will keep for weeks and is a good filling for sandwiches.
 Fillings for sandwiches are numerous and nearly always on hand. First there come the sweet fillings, such as creamy fudges of all kinds, mashed chocolate creams, maple fillings, creamy maple fudge, caramel fudge, candied ginger as a garnish for outside of sandwiches, also as a filling; raisins chopped and mixed with fudge or chopped and mixed with butter, etc. They make a good filling. They do not attack digestion quite so harshly when used in this manner and may be used between crackers, cookies or bread with good results and are always liked by those who use them. Second come the cheese fillings, American cheese and Swiss cheese, and they may be cut wafer thin and served in many ways with pimientos or buttered bread. Nuts and raisins are popular now as sandwich fillings, as are also the meat, chicken and vegetable fillings.

Darning Hint.
 When darning run the thread around the hole first, drawing the hole up until the edges lie flat on the darning. The hole will seem much smaller, and the darn can be made more satisfactorily.

THE soap you use for your toilet should be so mild that it is pleasant to use; so pure that it can be used freely without injury.

It should lather freely so as to save time. It should rinse easily so as to leave the skin really clean. It should float so as to be convenient. And it should be white.

Ivory Soap meets all of these requirements. In every way it is the soap for your toilet. And it costs but a trifle.
