SUBMARINES WERE AFTER CANADIANS
Second Contingent Disembarked When Ready to Leave Folkestone.

Gunner W. H. Mackie, a former well-known newspaperman of Ottawa and the west, and a former Kingstonian, in a letter to his sister, Mrs. E. M. Henry, Ottawa, gives a rather graphic description of the recent departure of the 2nd Canadian Division for active service in France. Gunner Mackie came east from Medicine Hat, Alberta, last winter to enlist with the 25th Battery, C. F. A., at Ottawa, and is now in training with the overseas draft of that battery at Ross Barracks, Shoreham, Eng. In his letter, dated Sept. 19th, he says:

"The Second Division has gone to France. About four or five thousand of them left every night last week, and they nearly all marched past our barracks. It surely was a wonderfully inspiring, but also a rather sad, sight to watch what seemed like a never-ending parade of men going down to embark on a journey from which they may never return. But do you think they were thinking of that? You never in your life saw such a happy-go-lucky bunch—all singing and in great spirits. The last of the division, all western battalions, were to embark on Thursday night. They marched from Otterpool Camp to Folkestone, a distance of nine and a half miles, each man carrying his pack, weighing 31 pounds, besides his rifle and other equipment. This embarkation was proceeding rapidly when suddenly the order came 'unload.' It appears now that the Admiralty learned there were five German submarines waiting for the transports, also that the channel was strewn with mines. The upshot was that the men marched back to Otterpool, carrying their packs and equipment. It was a real test of stamina, and these men began to realize about then that they were at war. Well, they have all gone now. That 2nd Division is a wonderful bunch of men, and just watch them."

THANKSGIVING SUPPER
HELD BY BROCK STREET METHODIST CHURCH LADIES

W. F. Nickle, M.P., Presided and Gave an Address—A Fine Musical Programme Was Given.

The annual Thanksgiving supper in connection with Brock Street Methodist Church took place Thursday evening and was a splendid success. Despite the threatening weather there was a large attendance and everybody was happy. The church and Sunday School room were elaborately decorated with flags, and a generous display of the finest products of the harvest fields and gardens gave the genuine Thanksgiving atmosphere.

Promptly at six o'clock the people sat down to a sumptuous supper, and the large staff of efficient ladies did their part so well that no one was kept waiting and all were ready for the programme in good time.

The pastor Rev. George S. Cleodinnen, after opening the proceedings in due form, called upon W. F. Nickle, M.P., to take the chair, and the genial parliamentarian in responding, gave one of his graceful and effective speeches. He dwelt upon the many reasons that should move all classes in Canada to be in thankful mood at this time.

The musical programme which followed was most enjoyable, consisting of a piano selection by Miss Grace Pound, and vocal solos by Mrs. John Evans, Miss Florence Valleau, Mrs. VanLuven and Miss Frankie Davies. Mrs. T. R. Carnovsky and Clara Smith were the accompanists.

Brief and happy addresses were given by Revs. A. Brown, H. E. Curry and Captain Campbell, all uniting in congratulating Brock Street Church and its pastor on the successful fathering and also the prosperous condition and bright outlook of the congregation.

In a brief closing address, Rev. Mr. Cleodinnen paid a warm tribute to the work of the Ladies' Aid Society and official board and expressed cordial thanks to those who had contributed to the programme. The National Anthem brought to a close a most successful entertainment.

MARRIED IN WINNIPEG.
Former Kingston Girl Becomes Bride Of R. Y. Wilcock.

A quiet wedding took place in St. Matthews Church, Winnipeg, on Tuesday, Sept. 7th, when Hazel Goldie, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Atkins, formerly of Yorkville and Kingston, was married to Richard Yates Wilcock. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, and wore a military suit of navy blue and a black velvet hat trimmed with white birds. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcock left for a wedding trip to Vancouver, and on their return will reside at 581 Bessford avenue, Fort Rouge.

Mr. Wilcock, an accountant and member of the firm of Joseph Maw & Co., at Winnipeg, was presented with a beautiful cheque for the wedding present being made by C. W. Fairbairn, secretary of the company. This was followed by the personal presentation of a beautiful chair, given by the president, Joseph Maw, while the directors gave the groom a substantial increase in salary, in recognition of his thirteen years standing with the firm.

WILL BE BIG EVENT.
Wrestling Match At The Armouries On Oct. 20th.

One of the biggest events ever put on in Kingston, will be that at the Armouries on the evening of Oct. 20th, when Eugene Tremblay, champion wrestler of the world, will meet "Jack" Herman, Montreal. In view of the fact that the match is being put on for the benefit of the horse ambulance for Col. Ross, there should be a large attendance.

In addition to the big wrestling match, there will be several preliminaries between members of the different units at Barrifield Camp. Two bands will be in attendance.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY
Will Provide Chamber For Asphyxiation of Animals.

A meeting of the Kingston Humane Society was held on Friday afternoon. J. B. Wakem presided. After full discussion, it was decided that a lethal chamber be installed for the asphyxiation of animals. The chamber is an air-tight box in which the animal is put. A series of pipes lead gas into the chamber and the animal is killed in the most humane way.

J. R. C. Dobbs reported that he has $1,700 for the Col. Ross Horse Ambulance, and expressed his satisfaction with the way the people are responding to this call.

Night Classes.
Night classes for final registration will be opened in the Board of Education rooms as follows: Dressmaking, next Monday, 18th inst., at 7.30 p.m.; millinery, Tuesday night; domestic science, Wednesday night. Register early and secure places in these classes. Applications will also be received from those who wish to attend men's classes in the following subjects: Mechanical drawing, electricity, shop arithmetic and English. Enrollment fee, $1, to be returned on a 75 per cent. attendance. Phone No. 265 for information.

PLEASED OVER THE FAIR
Directors Held a Meeting To Wind Up Some Business.

That the members of the Board of Directors are more than pleased with the results of the Kingston Industrial Agricultural Association's Fair, was shown Thursday afternoon, when the directors held a meeting to wind up some business in connection with the big show. In the absence of the president, A. E. Weller, the chair was occupied by J. L. F. Sproule, the second vice-president.

Reports presented showed that the fair had panned out one hundred per cent. better than last year, and this, in spite of the heavy expenditure, it is expected that there will be a neat balance in the Board's favor when all the expenses have been met.

Secretary, R. J. Bushell, who works every day of the year to boost the event, and every night as well, is deserving of much praise for the showing. He is already boosting for the results of the Board's favor when it will far surpass that of 1915. When he winks his eye and says this, you can depend upon it that there is something doing, so look out for next year's programme.

The members passed a resolution thanking Dr. G. W. Bell for the part he took in the exhibition, looking after the horses.

FROM FAR WEST.

- As a result of an extract which appeared in the Whig a short time ago, from a letter received from Col. A. E. Ross referring to comforts for Canadian soldiers at the front, a cheque for $5 was received in the city on Friday morning from a resident of Craig, Sask., to help on the good work.

HAD A LIVELY TIME.
Soldiers Made Merry on Princess Street Thursday Night.

A number of the overseas soldiers had "a gay old time" on Princess street on Thursday night. They paraded up and down the street, sang songs, and did all sorts of "stunts," much to the amusement of several hundred people who lined the sidewalk on both sides of the street, and who remained out until a very late hour. A strong military guard paraded the street to see that the soldiers did not overstep the mark while in such a jubilant mood.

For a time there was a regular street carnival. One very amusing item on the programme was that of a game, "Follow the leader," started by one of the soldiers. The leader went around telegraph poles, in and out of laneways, stores and other places, with the noble band of followers at his heels.

"Till the Boys Come Home," a Boy's Production, Is New British Song
Ivor Novello, Who Composed the Air Which Rivals "Tipperary" in the Affections of Tommy Atkins, Is but Twenty Years Old.

(Special to the Herald.)
Herald Bureau,
No. 130 Fleet Street,
London, Sept. 22.

High up in a pretty flat over the Strand Theatre lives Ivor Novello, the twenty-year-old young man who composed "Till the Boys Come Home," which is certainly the most popular war air here since "Tipperary." For months the men in khaki have sung it as they swing through the streets and lanes; no concert is complete without it, every office boy whistles it and recruiting bands blare it forth and the few Italian street organs that remain grind it out with variations.

It is not a ballad to fire the martial spirit, but rather a reminder of home set to a swinging yet most touching melody. Here are the words of the chorus:

"Keep the home fires burning,
While your hearts are yearning,
Though your lads are far away
They dream of home,
There's a silver lining

Through the dark cloud shining,
Turn the dark cloud inside out,
Till the boys come home."
Young Ivor Novello, a born composer, is a brilliant pianist and was one of the most accomplished choristers in England, but it was "Till the Boys Come Home" which has given him fame.

"I do not know what inspired me to compose the song," he remarked to me. "I had in my mind the idea of keeping the homes as happy as possible while the soldiers are away, and in half an hour I had invented the air, not a note of which has since been altered."

His later song, "Laddie in Khaki," strikes a catching note, but "Till the Boys Come Home" remains the favorite, in fact, there is no escaping it. Of this song Lady Tree wrote to Novello thus:—"It must be a great pride to you to see the soldiers' delight in your music. How splendid for you to have written the war song! That half glad, half wistful song haunts one now wherever one goes and it will echo all over the world."

THE WHIG READ ABROAD.
A 21st-Private Wants It In the Trenches.

Pte. Leonard Beswell, of the Army Medical Corps of the 21st Battalion, now in France, writing home to his father, asked him to send him the Daily British Whig. While in England he read the Whig belonging to his chum, Pte. James Duffy, but they have since become separated.

Lieut. Col. H. R. Duff, Kingston, who is now on his way to Cairo, Egypt, to join Queen's Stationary Hospital, in writing home, stated that while in England he discovered a number of Kingstonians who regularly received the Daily British Whig.

When the colonel arrives at Cairo he will find that nearly all the Kingston officers in the Queen's unit take the Whig.

His Fingers Damaged.
Henry Corcoran, blacksmith, is in the Hotel Dieu with the tips cut off a thumb and two fingers due to an accident with a corn-cutting machine on Friday morning. Mr. Corcoran was repairing the machine at Dr. G. W. Bell's farm, Williamsville, when his hand was forced against the morning fly-wheel and against a piece of tin. The wound was dressed in the Hotel Dieu.
