

PRESSING BACK INVADING HUNS

Gen. Russky Frustrates German Turning Movement--Enemy in Tight Corner--Germans Exhausted And in Danger of Being Pressed Westward.

Petrograd, Oct. 15.—Gen. Russky has again scored a success in the defence of Dvinsk. Westward of Illukst he has occupied the heights in the region of Schlossberg and thus frustrated the German attempt at a turning move.

Experts point out that General Russky's skillful manoeuvring has brought the Germans against a natural barrier where it is impossible for them to move farther to the eastward.

The London Times correspondent at Petrograd cables: Noting recent important changes in the Russian dispositions from south of Pripet to the Roumanian border, Colonel Clerget, in the Russian Invalid, dwells on the fact that the Russians have generally pressed back their foe, especially in the extreme south on the Stripa.

west of Pinsk they have ejected the Germans from Porhok at the point of the bayonet and recaptured the village, compelling the Germans to flee in disorder, abandoning many of their killed and wounded.

South of Pripet, on the left bank of the Stry, the Czar's cavalry carried out a series of dashing raids on the German rear with considerable success, while the German retaliatory attacks in the region of Rafalovka and Czartorysk and an attempt to cross to the right bank of the Stry below the latter place terminated in failure.

As a result of the rupture of the lines of Pfannerz and Bothmer's forces, the Russians have advanced a day's march westward, and now hold the eight-mile stretch of the Stripa from Semichovic to Havaronka. Since a portion of the forces of the above Generals is known to have been removed to the Serbian front, their defeat may be regarded as the first result of the stop taken by the Germans in the Balkans.

The Man on Watch

Put the orphan youngsters on the farms. That is the best Grand Jury idea the Lampan has read in many a year.

The Grand Jury's other idea is also a good one, but where the infant's Home Board is going to get the money to buy new wash tubs.

At a Frontenac County wedding, a minister sang "It's Just Like Heaven To Me". The Lampan submits that the groom should have been allowed to sing that solo.

It's a pretty safe bet, says the Lampan, that the next minister of the Scotch church up on Princess street will have a Scotch pedigree, even though he may be a Canadian.

Following in the footsteps of the Russian Czar and of King George the Lampan notes that the Kingston Curling Club has decided to cut out the "hard stuff". Time was when a curling club couldn't exist without a jug of Scotch.

"The Last Rose of Summer" doesn't apply to Archie Strachan's Custom House garden, where the Lampan sees the Killarney roses merrily blooming in October despite frosty mornings.

"Dan" Couper has them all going when it comes to a showdown. The anti-tariff man went down with the coin when they were given a chance to cover Daniel's wager. Next time the "Antis" wish to spring anything against tariff, they had better have a few housewives, whose carpets have been soiled, to appear at the right moment.

The evening anthem announcement of a Kingston church last week was "Make a Joyful Noise." It might be all right to do that in a church, but just let some happy individual do it on the street at night and see what the cops will do to him.

Some people take the view that fourteen town councilmen are just fourteen too many. They think the mayor will enough to govern Kingston well enough. But then that would be the German way. We must have town councilmen, the Lampan says, even if only to attend the mayor's banquet.

Cooke's congregation is having a hard time of it. The "Cooks" of Sundays past have been acting in the capacity of judges, hearing candidates for their pulpit. So far it would appear that none of the applicants have struck the 75 per cent mark. Some of the members of Cooke's say they would prefer to umpire a baseball game rather than sit in judgment on a preacher.

Why under the sun did the Court House fraternity hand over to the High Court judge last week the sum of $190 to take back with him to Toronto? Kingston has patriotic funds and all money subscribed here should be given to the local bodies of workers and not shipped to Toronto. The County Council might also take notice, for that body's vote of $250 also went to Toronto instead of to the Kingston Red Cross Society.

PALE, FEEBLE GIRLS.

Weakness Generally Comes on as Womanhood Approaches

Girls upon the threshold of womanhood often drift into decline in spite of all care and attention. How often one sees girls who have been strong and lively become suddenly weak, depressed, irritable and listless.

It is the dawn of womanhood—a crisis in the life of every girl—and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood pure and rich with the red tint of health. If the blood is not healthy at this critical stage the body is weakened and grave disorders follow.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have saved thousands of young girls from what might have been life-long invalidity at an early death. They are a blood-builder of unequalled richness, strengthening weak nerves and producing a liberal supply of red, healthy blood which every girl needs to sustain her strength.

When I was approaching the age of womanhood I suffered greatly from bloodlessness, or anemia. My work was a drag to me, I had no appetite and never felt rested in the mornings. I could scarcely walk for five minutes at a time without taking a rest.

I was indeed, as I doctored for a long time and got but little, if any, benefit. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and did so and after taking them for a time felt better. I continued taking the Pills until I had used six boxes, and when I felt like a new person, and again enjoying splendid health.

I would strongly advise any girl who is weak or run down to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

5,000 BELGIANS SHOT. Number Of Civilians Put To Death By Germans.

Paris, Oct. 16.—A Havas Agency dispatch from Havre says: "Over five thousand civilians have been shot in Belgium by order of the German military authorities, according to authentic reports received by the Belgian Government. The figure is approximate and unofficial because no local authorities, who fear reprisals, would dare draw up official reports."

The estimates so far made follow: Antwerp, 900; Brabant, 800; Flanders, 100; Hainault, 400; Liege, 845; Limbourg, 40; Luxembourg, 1,000; Namur, 1,800.

Marketing Our Wheat

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—There are a hundred million bushels of wheat for export in the Canadian Northwest, which according to the law and restrictions of the fair Canada of ours, may be sold to anybody but the people who are most willing to buy it.

When Premier Borden came back from England a month ago he announced that ships would be provided to transport this great crop across the ocean and get Liverpool prices, or something just as good. He also announced that the Canadian farmer was at liberty to dispose of his wheat to any neutral country he could lay hands on or words to that effect.

Both these announcements turned out to be hollow blessings, because ships to carry the crop across the ocean were not available, having been chartered or expropriated, most of them, by the Allies for other purposes; and also because no neutral country wanted to buy Canadian wheat except the country nearest us, namely the United States, with which it is the policy of the Conservative Government to have neither truck nor trade on a mutual preferential basis.

Other proposals looking to the purchase of the crop on bloc by the British Government likewise fell through, chiefly because neither the grain growers nor the British Government could see any considerable advantage in such a transaction.

Meanwhile the opening of the Dardanelles draws everyday nearer, which means the release of a great flood of Russian wheat and the glutting of the European and British markets against the Canadian product. Naturally Europe buys the Russian wheat because it is nearer and cheaper. In fact, so far as Europe is concerned, if Canadian wheat doesn't get the market first, it doesn't get the market at all, because the European demand for the fine flour into which Canadian wheat is manufactured is not insatiable. They have their poorer classes over to put up with poorer bread. They are not educated, as they are on this continent, to a high average of taste.

This point of quality is what makes Canadian wheat valuable in the United States, which is a wheat producing, wheat exporting country itself and in no danger of starvation if the Canadian crop is cut off. The only reason why United States millers buy our wheat is because it is a harder, heavier wheat and makes up into superior grades of flour which can be mixed with the inferior flours from the softer American wheats to bring them up to standard. In short, the United States buys that hundred million bushels, if it does buy it, not because it is the best, but because it is the only wheat too good for a nation that developed a palate. That the United States is keen on our best grades of northern wheat is proved by the fact that in spite of freight tolls and custom duties a lot of it keeps dribbling over the line and is sold at Washington, and it is being recalled to the United States duty free because the Canadian farmer would get ten cents a bushel more for his wheat than he does now—that is to say he would get the duty. There is no reason why the United States won't take that duty off except that Canada don't take hers off, too. It is understood that the U.S. still holds out to burn the republic to reciprocity in 1917, the United States continues to welcome mutual concessions which will make food cheaper.

Canada could remove her tariff on American wheat with perfect impunity because Canada is not a wheat importing country. The only thing that prevents is cracker-barrel politics. Canadian wheat must be denuded its nearest and dearest market because the interests and consequently the government protected by the interests, say so. It is being recalled in the present juncture that it was the wheat crowd, and the meat crowd that defeated reciprocity—not the men who produce the wheat and the meat, but the men who roll it and grind it, and cure it and smoke it and freeze it and squeeze it, for monopolizer's profits.

The war seems not to have altered the Borden Government's intention of making a few millers and packers rich at the expense of the masses. The farmers of the Northwest were deliberately encouraged to increase their wheat acreage this year, the prospect being held out of war prices for a bumper crop. Briefly speaking, that was the "patriotism and production policy," launched by the Borden Government. The farmers were told that Russia was all tied up at the Dardanelles and now was their chance to cash in. And the farmers, though not lacking experience of these fair promises before, took them at their word. War-sudden year though it was, they produced several million bushels more wheat than they did in 1914.
