TROUBLE AT THE "PEN"

OVER CONVICTS GETTING SUPPLY OF "DOPE" AND TOBACCO

Also Claimed That Money Was Found On Some of the Convicts—Men Placed In Close Confinement And Investigations Being Made.

That certain convicts in the penitentiary have been supplied with "dope," tobacco and money, and that it has been found in their possession, is the information received by the Whig. It is understood that a quiet investigation is now being held to find out how and by what means these things got in to the men behind prison bars. It is stated that last week "dope" and tobacco were found on two prisoners, Martin and Shannon. It is in the form of a powder, and when it was analyzed by one of the professors at Queen's University was found to contain heroin.

Three other convicts, Alexander Rose a "lifer," Switzer and Noan the latter also serving a life sentence for his part in the dynamiting of the Welland canal, also had some of the forbidden things in their possession. Money was also found on some of the men, and as a result they are now being kept in close confinement as punishment.

It is further stated that an underground system of getting letters in and out of the penitentiary for the convicts has been practised, and that the entire matter is now being investigated with a view of getting at the guilty party or parties.

At the recent investigation at the penitentiary, convicts swore that guards at the "pen" were trafficking in tobacco, and one guard was dismissed as a result of the investigation.

STORY OF GALLANT CANADIAN LEGIONS

From the oldest of our cities, From the ramparts worn and grey, Of our comrades' blood and life, Of our comrades' blood and life, For they heard the voices calling Of their kinsman o'er the sea; "Lend a hand, O brother Britons, For a Briton's liberty!"

Chorus:

Mother England we are going Where our comrades went before, For the bugles they are blowing, And they summon thousands more Where the old red flag is flying O'er the dead and o'er the dying, Foes of freedom still defying, As it did in days of yore.

At the rumor of disaster, At the tidings of retreat, At the cry of fallen cities, And the calms of defeat, Brief the prayer we made to Heaven For the heroes that were gone; Then from sea to sea we sang: "Keep our Legions moving on!"

Chorus:

Mother England, if you need us That is all we care to know! Onward into battle lead us Where the foremost bugles blow! Onward where the shells are crashing, Where the rifle-fire is flashing, And the bayonets are dashing, O'er the trenches of the foe!

Let the skies grow darker! Let there come a sterner fate! While the demons of the Kaiser Hurl on us with hellish hate! From the hearts of our men, From the rifles of our women, For the honor of the Empire We shall give our answer then;

Chorus:

Mother England, we are ready, As our comrades were before; We are true and we are steady, We are Britons to the core! Give the signal, and we'll sail, Forth from every hill and valley, Round the old red flag to rally, Win or die for evermore!

Compensations.
New York American.
It is pleasant to know when the milkman arrives
On his early matutinal labors,
That the clattering hoofs of the crowd
Are certain to wake up the neighbors.

When your trolley brea's down, it is cheering to see
Two fellows, knee deep in the mire,
And hot and exhausted as mortals can be—
Pumping up a recalcitrant tire.

It soothes us to know, when a rain-storm sweeps down
Ere half way to work we've proceeded,
That many another man walking to town
Has got even wetter than we did.

When the chickens scratch up your asparagus plants
It makes you less bitter and sore
When out of the window you casually glance
At the havoc they're doing next door.

When the doctor declares you must cut out cigars
Till your broken-down nerve centres mend,
You smile when he tells you he's put up the bars
Against booze to your intimate friend.

We are not unholding humanity, mind;
The facts were reluctantly stated
It isn't unselfish or noble or kind,
It's just the way people are gaited.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES.

Troops Have Likely Been In Active Fighting.

(Special to the Whig.)
Ottawa, Oct. 22.—For the first time for several months the Militia Department to-day issued an official noon-day casualty list, and it is thought here that the Canadians of the first division have recently been in more active fighting than usual trench defence provides. No further details have been received by the Department here than contained in the official casualty list, which includes the following of the Second Battalion:

Killed in action Oct. 19th, Horace George Pigot, England; died of wounds Oct. 12th; Henry Sorrette, St. Malo, France wounded; Corpl. Harold Cunningham, St. John, N. B., and John Lewis and William Reynolds, England.

Serbian No Weaklings.

Buffalo Express.
The Serbians are no weaklings. Man for man and with some reasonable approach to equality in equipment it is doubtful if there are as good fighters in any army of all Europe. Certainly there are none with the same unbroken series of successes. If they should defeat this German invasion, the consequences for the Teutonic powers may be as serious as the crushing of Serbia will be disastrous for the Allies. Turkey's cause would become hopeless. Bulgaria might suffer little worse than a change in Government and the dethronement of her German king, but the southern frontier of Austria Hungary would be opened to an invasion which might break down the whole German plan of war.

DRAYMAN SELLS WORKHORSE TO WEALTHY WOMAN

Robert Corrigan, Watertown, Makes $200 On Deal For Animal Once Used By Prominent Family of City For Coach Purposes.

Watertown, N.Y., Oct. 22.—Robert Corrigan, a drayman, is $200 richer by the sale of his workhorse to one of the wealthier women of the city.

Early this summer Corrigan decided to purchase a new horse for his business. In his search of the stables of the city he found an animal, an old coach horse once used by a prominent family of the city.

The owner a woman, was out of the city at the time, but members of the family sold the horse to Corrigan for $100. Upon her return this week the woman inquired about her horse. Members of the family failed to tell her of the sale and it was not until a few days ago that she discovered the pet horse drawing a baggage wagon.

Stopping the owner, she inquired about the horse and he told her of the purchase. She offered him $200 for the animal and he accepted. The old coach horse is again back in the stables of the woman.
