THE MAPLES

(By Captain Harwood Steele, A.D.C. to Officer Commanding Second Canadian Contingent, now in France.)

"Sir Robert Borden planted maple seeds on the graves of the Canadians killed in Flanders."—(Newspaper Extract.)

Twenty years hence, when the last trench has crumbled, And Time has lifted Belgium from her knees, The wind that cools her hills and stirs her cornfields Will sing through Maple trees.

And the old peasant, resting by the roadside, Will pause beneath their shade with lowered head, Holding the Groves as dedicate and sacred To our all-hallowed dead.

Since here shall lie, far from the land they died for, Where they had fallen in the battle's heart, Thousands of heroes, nameless but immortal, Forever set apart.

Though they may slumber in a foreign country, Nothing shall break their rest or trouble them, For stately emblems of their great Dominion Will sigh their requiem.

The critic can tell you how to do those things that he is unable to himself. The man who insists on being a slave to work is always a stranger to pleasure.

ARMENIAN REFUGEES FLEEING MASSACRE, RESCUED BY ALLIES.

Allies' warships, particularly along the Syrian coast, have been recently engaged transporting these stricken people to places where they would be safe from Turkish aggression. On left is a young Armenian girl who narrowly escaped death and was rescued by a French battleship. On right is a French marine acting as a nurse to a little Armenian boy rescued.
