ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL

Rev. G. I. Campbell Helped the Red Cross Movement-Rev. D. C. Ramsermon in St. George's Cathedral on movement. Sunday morning, it being his last visit before leaving for England on Saturday for several months' visit.

His sermon was from the text, Titus, rose, Alberta, a graduate of Queen's, II, ii: 'For the grace of God that preached at both services in Cooke's bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men!" He showed that salvation was for men and everyone was able if willing, to become a Christian.

As Mrs. Ripley, of Williamsfield East, says: "Before I had taken Gin Pills, I suffered dreadfully with my back and had suffered for twenty years. I have tried everything but got no relief until I took Gin Pills. I am now 48 and feel as well as I ever did in my life. There is nothing that can hold a place with Gin Pills for Pain in the Back, to which women are subject."

A Splendid Meeting.

Brock Street Hall was well filled Sunday evening at the usual gospel service. The opening hymn, "Well I Know Who Pilots Me," was most heartily joined in by the whole congregation. This was followed by a short address by F. G. Lockett on "Christ Stilling the Tempest," after which the meeting was handed over to Richard Irving (evangelist), who announced his subject as "The Seven Cries of The Redeemer on the Cross," and asked the congregation to join in singing "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." His address was most interesting and full of spiritual power, concluding with the last cry of Christ on the cross, "It is finished." 'Rock of Ages" was then sung, and a mose helpful service brought to t

HE PAYS A VISIT TO CAMPEN

A Whig representative, who had not been in Camden East for twelve years had an opportunity to return for a few days to that village during the past week. In those years many changes have taken place. One of the most noticeable is to see trains of the Canadian Norther village. Although Camden East was served by the Bay of Quinte railroad. the residents can now take the main line trains for either Ottawa or Tor-

In speaking to a number of resi dents the Whig man was informed that the majority of the villagers were not at all in accord with the action of C.N.R. in taking away the station agent. At the present time a caretaker is in charge. In case people want to get on the night train it is necessary for them to flag it. The stove in the waiting room has been taken away which means that when the cold weather comes the passengers will have a cold time of it.

Charles Riley, who was the village shoemaker, has passed to rest. When a very young man Mr. Riley opened a shoemaking store in the village and continued to carry on business until about three years ago. As a shoemaker, Mr. Riley was well *************** known having made boots for men from all parts of the country.

The old store building, used as a ! woollen mill many years ago, has vanished. After the building got beyond use it was pulled down. On the site where the building stood a fine grist mill has been erected. It is looked upon as being one of the best mills in the country.

The tannery, apple evaporating factory and brewery which formerly employed many men are of the past. Although there were two blacksmiths, two tailors, and two shoemakers twenty-five years ago, there are at the present time one blacksmith and one tailor.

Among the buildings which were very noticeable to the Whig man were Warner's Hotel and the building occupied by Robert Guy, the tailor. Upon making enquiries the Whig finds that the building which was formerly the home of the travel* ling men has been closed up for thirty-five years. The building is now going to ruln. This structure was last owned by Henry Hooper but was willed to Miss Sarah Hamilton, Kingston,

The store occupied by Robert Guy was formerly the home of Sir Gilbert Parker, who attended school in Camden. It was owned at one time by the late Charles Riley. Robert Guy has been doing business in Camden East longer than any other man. He settled there about twenty-six years ago and conducted a tailoring business for years. It is only due to old age that he is unable to carry on an extensive business. At the present time he does some cutting and measuring. His daughter does the rest of the work. Mr. Guy is an admirer of the Whig.

CITY COUNCIL TO-NIGHT.

May Have a Lively Time Over the City Engineer.

The City Council is to meet tonight, and a lively debate is expected over the recommendation of the livery wagon at the corner of Fronte- Board of Works that the City Engineer be not re-engaged after the first of March next. A member of the Board told the Whig that the recommendation would not be withdrawn, notwithstanding the criticisms made of its action in not giving the engineer a written statement of his deficiencies Mayor Sutherof the Board, and will leave the chair to express his views.

TOUR CANADIAN MEMORIAL WINDOWS
Big Demand For Them At Home and

At a time when "Made in Can ada" has become the watchword "from Cape Race to Nootka Sound," duct of Canadian industry which in many minds still remains wholly native to England and, in lesser degree, to the other old European countries. This is the making of Stained Glass Memorial Windows. "Stained glass" and "leaded art glass" in the commercial form are well enough known to many as a docal product, but it not generally realized that some of the finest expassing through the outskirts of the amples of Memorial Windows in Stained Glass to be found on this continent originated in the studios of Robert McCausland, Limited, al 141-143 Spadina Avenue, Toronto. This firm was established as early as 1856, so that the "Made in Canada" idea is really much older than many think. Since that date, it has filled commissions not only for almost every town and city in Canada, but has exported to England, Continental Europe, and the United States. Such is the excellence of workmanship and design and the beauty of the "antique" glasses employed that these all-Canadian windows are frequently mistaken, even by connoisseurs, for the product of Old-Country masters. Other interesting facts about
