CRUELTY OF A FATHER PORTSMOUTH DID WELL ONLY NOW TO RECEIVE

TOWARDS HIS DAUGHTER TOLD IN JUVENILE COURT.

Magistrate Imposed Fine of $10 And Costs on Accused—Girl was Kicked and Had to Undergo Treatment at Hotel Dieu.

The story of the cruelty of a father towards his daughter, under fourteen years of age, was unfolded in the Juvenile Court before Magistrate Farrell on Thursday morning, and after the evidence had been taken the Magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs, with the option of one month in jail.

About 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening last the police received a telephone message from a citizen who stated that a man was "murdering his daughter." Constable Jenkins responded to the call, and he found the girl in question lying on the sidewalk near her home in an almost unconscious state. Her story was that her father and mother had been drinking, and that they had ill-used her by kicking her.

The girl was removed to the Hotel Dieu, and was attended by Dr. W. A. McCarthy.

Constable Jenkins notified W. H. Willie, Inspector of the Children's Aid Society, and the latter undertook to investigate the case, and as a result of his investigation, the father of the girl was summoned to appear in the Juvenile Court to answer to a charge of ill-treating his daughter.

The evidence of Constable Jenkins and Mr. Willie showed that the father and mother had been drinking, and that the girl had prepared supper for them. The father and mother did not take to the menu provided, and assaulted the girl, kicking her and otherwise ill-using her.

The father stoutly denied the charge, stating that he had simply given the girl "a box on the ears," as he termed it, for not doing what she had been told to do.

"It is a pretty hard thing if a man has not the privilege of correcting his children in his own house," the accused stated to the Court.

However, the Magistrate was of the opinion that in this case it was not one of a parent endeavoring to correct his child, but of assault.

The father showed every sign of having been drinking when he stood up to answer to the charge, but when asked if he had been drinking he said "no."

The girl, a sweet-faced, healthy-looking miss, was the object of much pity as the story of the actions of her parents were related, but, strange to say, she held no spite against her father and mother, but, on the other hand, declared, though she was not sworn, that her father and mother had only given her punishment which she deserved for having disobeyed them.

She was given over into the custody of Mr. Willie, pending a final settlement of the case, and she was led away she cried bitterly, declaring that she wanted to go home to her mother. It is just a question as to whether she will be allowed to remain at home, as the Children's Aid Society contends that it is not a fit and proper place for her to remain, and this is a matter that the Magistrate will now consider.

WAR SOUVENIRS.

J. Shea, Barrie street, has received from his son Allen, with No. 5 F. C. E., at the front, two very interesting souvenirs. One is a Prussian helmet picked up on the field of battle at Fossebert. The holes made by the entrance of the bullet that killed the owner can be easily seen. The other souvenir is a belt with fourteen cap-badges of different British units at the front.

MACHINE GUNS ORDERED FOR CANADIAN UNITS.

Montreal Star Charges That the Government Cannot Use the Money Subscribed to Buy Machine Guns.

 Montreal, Oct. 28.—The Star publishes the following surprising statement under the heading, "The Machine Guns":

"The very awkward position into which the Government has got itself over the machine gun question suggests that the right thing to do now is either to return the money to the individual subscribers who gave contributions for supplementary machine guns or to ask the individual subscribers what their wishes are."

"It will be remembered that in nearly all the early engagements in the west front it was discovered that the German troops were found to have an immense preponderance of machine guns, at least double or treble the British equipment. The discovery was made, and all Canada was appealed to to subscribe for extra machine guns for Canadian troops."

"At this juncture a Federal Minister, in a speech, asked the people for money for more machine guns. The Star and other papers in Canada took it up. The response was instantaneous and generous. Hundreds of thousands of dollars were subscribed, and everyone supposed it meant more machine guns. It turns out that this is a delusion. The Government's explanation is that an order for all available machine guns was placed long ago, and the individual subscriptions cannot be used as desired; and moreover the issue of machine guns to units is restricted by army regulations. Somebody has blundered."

Guns Not Yet Delivered

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The attention of Major-General Sam Hughes was called to the Montreal Star article, "The machine gun agitation," said he, "arose in my absence, but nevertheless there is no need for any excitement over the matter at all. Machine guns are being made as rapidly as it is possible. Deliveries are to begin within the next few weeks and will be continued as rapidly as possible thereafter."

"Are the wishes of subscribers who stipulate that their contributions are to go to certain stated units to be carried out?" General Hughes was asked. "As far as possible," he answered.

"Do the regulations permit of extra guns over the above the stipulated number being attached to regiments?" the Minister was asked. "There is no instance of record where any battalion has been refused the right to take over more guns than are provided for in the regulations. Some have gone over-strength. The regulations in this regard are subject to change."
