About the latter half of the eighteenth century it had become the rage in fashionable society to indulge in amateur theatricals. Plays were presented at Lugan in Armagh the seat of the celebrated William Brownlow, also at Thomas Connolys Castletown, County of Kildare, and at the residence of the Duke of Leinster, Canton. In 1774 amateur theatricals were inaugurated in the County of Kilkenny. It was at Kilfane in 1798 that the Kilkenny Theatre really originated, under the auspices of Mr. Richard Power, afterwards Sir Richard Power. The company was persuaded to go to Kilkenny and open a public theatre in aid of the charitable institutions of that city. The theatre was opened February 2nd, 1802, and continued for a period of eighteen years, the final performance being given October 28th, 1819. During the theatre season which lasted two or three week; the city was filled with the most influential people in the land. Whole families came annually to make Kilkenny their home during the time of festivity which was called the Kilkenny Carnival. Thomas Moore, the Itish poet, was a member of this

RIGHTS OF INDIANS

To Kill Game At Any Time Under

Discussion Montreal, Dec. 13 .- The Hudson's Bay Company has initiated an action against the game laws of the Province being applied to the Indians and maintaining that the latter have an inherent right to hunt and kill beaver and other wild animals, and reain or dispose of the furs irrespective of any game law of the Province -that, in fact, if the Quebec game laws are intra vires for the public in general they are, in respect to the Indians, ultra vires.

A SPLENDID PLACE

Useful Citizens.

Brockville is a splendid place to visit and when one goes there in an official capacity, the pleasure is intensified. Last week the St. Lawrence River Counties Press Association met there and the members had the best the town afforded. The pressmen had no sooner landed than Mayor Donaldson was on the job to make them welcome. He said so in words and then reinforced it by deeds. He ordered up a battery of autos and proceeded to show the town. And it is some place. It has all the advantages of any modern city. Its water and light plant, is up-to-date and finely located. Just now it chlorinates its water but has ordered a filtering system to cost $120,000. It generates its own electricity but has the stepping-down outfit for outside For The Manufacture Of High Explopower but gets very little of it. The power issue in Brockville, is as lively a subject as in Kingston. Not much was said but it was soon learned that the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario is not highly regard-

Every newspaper man got a new conception of the worthiness and effecliveness of timely devotion to one's own town. Pulling together was the evident slogan of the burg. The ladies of the chapter gave splendid evidence that the best was none too good for themselves and their guests. They showed zeal and goodness of heart in the tempting spread provided. Altogether the visit of the Eastern newspaper men to Brockville, was satisfying and illuminating. The geniality of the Brockville pressmen, though proverbial, was never better exemplified than at Monday's gathering.
