HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Sassafras oil is the surest and easiest remedy to use for getting rid of the red ant that sometimes gets into the house and is so difficult to deal with.

Pearl handles sometimes come loose from silver knives and forks. They may be refastened by the use of melted resin.

EFFECTIVE JEWELRY FOR EVENING WEAR.

Fewer Fads Are Noticeable in Women's Ornaments This Season, However.

Fads in jewelry are as numerous this season as previously, but the ornaments shown, especially those for evening wear, are particularly effective and in harmony with the modes which have been chosen from the daintiest of Victorian and Empire styles. Noticeable among the newest novelties are the cameo settings in rings, bracelets and corsage pins. Old-fashioned settings in gold delicately traced and introducing scrolls are employed and exquisite cameo heads, flowers and fruit designs are widely shown.

Long platinum chains, set with tiny chip diamonds or rubies, are very modish this winter, when fans are so generally worn on all formal occasions. These are most effective ornaments for the evening toilet of either matron or maid.

Platinum effects are very popular for bracelets, while slender bangles are again in demand both in gold and silver. Bands, delicately carved and with gemmed clasps, are shown for wear above the elbow, while friendship bracelets are also featured in a variety of pretty designs.

For evening wear the cuffure may be enhanced with one of the exquisite new bordeaux—platinum old gold set with semi-precious stones, and pearl rope effects being favored. Earrings in antique designs are shown for formal wear only.

GEORGETTE CREPE IS FAVORED FOR WAISTS.

Pretty, Modish Models Are Appropriate for Afternoon Wear.

Georgette crepe is undoubtedly the popular material for dressy waists this winter. The predominating styles with high trimmed collar demand more elaborate lines and modes in the accompanying blouse for afternoon functions, so that lace and velvet-trimmed models with many deft touches are to be worn.

Some of the prettiest models are of plain Georgette crepe, with two-inch ribbon sewn on in stripes at the same distance apart—a charming waist in white with bands of black satin giving an excellent effect. This example also exploited high collar of the ribbon and crepe, with a circular frill and hemstitched chiffon very slightly wired. A rosette and streamers ornamented the collar at the back.

Another very dainty model in flesh-pink Georgette illustrated the popularity of the yoke back and front, and also featured the high neck, long sleeves and vested design. All the hems and outlines were finished with a hand-made silk trimming and tiny butterfly blows of black velvet baby ribbon completed this charming creation. Buttons in colored pearl, of black jet are quite frequently used, while some very exclusive designs favor touches of Chinese trimming, wools, motifs, and hand-embroidery, braid or silk cord, combination of the Georgette crepe and chiffon or net are quite successful. Tulle ruffles and little metallic flowers are also shown.

FASHION DECREES COLORED SPATS.

Black Foot Coverings Are Relieved by Attractive Cloth or Kid.

Among the novelties in footwear provided for present and winter wear are now high spats, in white and fashionable colors, extending several inches above the high-topped boots. These are made from an excellent quality of kid, velvet or waterproof silks. They fasten up the outer side with fancy round, or novelty shaped buttons in black or matching shades.

Although at the first of the season fashion favored all black footwear, it is now authoritatively stated that plenty of "light tops" will be exploited by the most exclusive makers. Already the new lasts are showing combinations of patent or dull kid with the favored grays, greens, purples, browns and ne colors so indisputably popular this season. In many cases if black foot-covering is adopted in the gypsy styles the high spat in white, or a color to match the costume is worn.

Attractive to Youth. For the youthful devotee, the white spat is particularly attractive. Worn with a pretty navy or black costume and white furs, the effect is unusually chic. White gloves in washable chambray are also very modish, and if gray or quietly colored spats are chosen the gloves are often worn.

Sleepytime Tales

GRANDMOTHER'S STORY.

Once upon a time Grandmother was reading while Ned was trying to make a toy train, that he had for a Christmas present, go round the track and Beth was playing with a wonderful doll that Grandmother had hung on the Christmas tree for her.

Suddenly Grandmother lay down her book and with a smile said: "Do you know it is almost New Year's children? That reminds me too, of a New Years party that my mother had when she was a little girl. I don't suppose either one of you want to hear it," and she smiled that sweet smile that all grandmothers have. She didn't have to say any more for in a jiffy Beth and Ned were at her feet ready for the tale which they knew was coming.

"My mother you know," she began, "lived way out in the country where there were few houses, as it was in the West and the places were not built up as are in the East. It was a very lonesome life as she didn't have children to play with and never saw anyone except when her parents drove to church five miles away or when once in a while there was some entertainment in the town hall which she was allowed to attend with her father and mother.

"Her mother felt sorry for the lonesome little daughter and decided one year to give a New Year's party and invite all the children for miles around. It was in the afternoon so the folks could get home early and my mother's mother had cooked and baked for a week before to have enough food for the people who were coming.

"Finally the day came and from early morning until noon teams were arriving all laden with children and their parents and each brought some little present or some dainty food to make my mother happy. There were about twenty children and when it was one o'clock they all sat down to a big dinner, the children at one long table, the parlor and the grown folks in the dining room.

"The children drank toasts to each other and particularly to my mother from glasses in which there was nice fresh sweet cider and then, after dinner they played games, and sang songs until it was time to go home. Some of the children could play a little on the funny organ, in the parlor and they danced Virginia Reel and Money Musk and had a very grand time.

"They decided then that each one of the children should have a New Year's party, one each year, and they kept up the practise for a long time, which made it very much less lonesome for all of them."

Jollyng Dad.

"Father, we need some lace curtains for the parlor."
"Um."
"Also a sideboard and a dining room rug."
"Why do you tell me all this?"
"I want you to decide what you want for a present."

TABLE DECORATIONS.

Whenever an artist decorates a dinner table he usually clings to low effects and uses few varieties of flowers and few colors. Red and green are, naturally, the Christmas colors. Any one who can reach forests far removed from the highway will find red berries and green moss or ground pine in plenty. Those who look ahead in their planning secure fine specimens of the wintergreen vine with its red berries. These sprigs are arranged as a wreath and placed on green moss. The whole is slightly dampened and covered with a glass bowl. Whenever needed for decorations the wreath is taken from under the glass, and feels none the worse for its experience when returned to cover.

You may use the garden hose for rinsing blankets and rugs on the line. Blankets dry without wrinkles. Rugs should first be scrubbed with ammonia and water. Use a brush for that, then rinse.

The sale of alcohol to women is entirely forbidden in France.

Coat of Gray Chinchilla.

having a deep belt, turn-back cuffs and large pockets.

With large pockets, deep turn-back cuffs and a wide belt to add to its attractiveness, this coat of gray chinchilla makes a charming addition to the junior wardrobe. The neck is finished with a notched collar and the sleeves are cut in one piece. A pleated back section adds novelty to the skirt, which is joined to the body at normal waist-line. In medium size the coat calls for 2 1/2 yards 54-inch material.

Very economical cutting is required to use the material to the best advantage. First, fold the cloth carefully, then place directly on the fold, the skirt section, the back and the pocket. Between the skirt and the back, however, come the sleeve, the cuff and collar, while between the back and the belt comes the pocket.

Now, in the narrow strip of space opposite the skirt section place the under-facing, resting the pattern on a lengthwise thread of the goods. The front is laid to the right of the under-facing so that the shoulder rests over the cuff and the lower edge runs almost parallel with the belt.

The belt may be carried entirely around the waist or the front edges may be cut off on either side of the front panel, leaving the unbroken line that is so much desired in modes of all kinds this season.

This coat is very pretty fashioned of broadcloth trimmed with fur or of gabardine trimmed with velvet. Combinations of materials are much favored for children's outer garments this year.

A NEW SASH FOR THE YOUNG GIRL'S COAT.

A rather new and very pretty idea is this softly draped sash of black velvet which controls the flare of a youthful coat. Collar and cuffs are of black velvet also, and the coat is of deep blue broadcloth. Buttons of the material fasten the single-breasted front and trim the flaps under which the velvet sash passes.
