WINTER STYLES.
 Quiet in Color, But Superior in Quality.
 Among the most important details of the modish costume are gloves and foot-gear often carelessly chosen, and therefore the reason for a faulty toilette. Although less conspicuous as to color, the hats and dress shoes for wear this season are noticeably chic in cut and with the materials used for their making with the continued popularity of adopting shoes in black buckskin has been raised. Excellent models in laced or buttoned styles have been in considerable demand, as have calfskin pumps which are considered quite correct for street wear, provided they are topped with a smartly fitted gray or dull colored spat. All models for tailored and morning wear exhibit the Cuban heel, white dressier shoes for afternoon wear feature the Spanish Louis design. Evening shoes are decidedly French-strapped slipper types with high heels and dainty beaded toes winning approval.

Gloves this season are not in the least "faddy," dull gray mocha being among the newest for tailored wear. For all formal wear white gloves are correct, and to complete the sporting costumes fabric gloves in white and gray, and washable capeskin who smart black-stitching are shown.

FURS AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS.
 Something That Will Please in Fashionable Fur Coats.
 There is nothing more acceptable to a woman than a fur coat. If your present to "her" this year is a fur it will be appreciated as nothing else could be.

But make very sure that you are giving her a coat that is made as a fine coat should be made. Style, finish and skins must be of the best. It is not necessary to spend a fortune to obtain the best in furs. Go to a house that has a reputation and you will be sure of getting an article that is all that could be desired.

A wholesale manufacturing furrier of the standing of Walter F. Cummings, of 96 Notre Dame street west, Montreal, is able to satisfy your taste and your pocket. Make up your mind to have the best in furs—the cheaper kind are wasted money. W. F. Cummings will sell you the better kind at a price to suit you.

For Persian Lamb his reputation stands supreme, and he is perfectly safe in entrusting him with your fur order.

CONDITIONS AFFECT STYLES.
 Styles too, are influenced by present conditions. The most charming bodes now being worn feature Russian and French notes in separate coats and suits, while peasant designs and zouave jackets distinguish indoor frocks of authorized design. Fur of course is the trimmings paragon for both indoor and outdoor costumes, but hand is very popular and appears in many designs and modes of application, to enhance the faultless and swag-out of the season's best creations. Cloth buttons are not as much used as those of bone, and novelty designs but pierrat buttons of fur are favorites at present.

MADE FROM AN OLD LAMP FRAME.
 Have you in your collection of relics a wire frame left from a worn-out lamp? If you can answer "yes" to this question the following suggestion will make it possible for you to foot out the frame and put it to good use. After removing the dust get the exact measurements from top to bottom and the size of the open space at the top. With these figures in your mind, or on your memorandum pad, buy sufficient asbestos to cover the entire frame, or buy muslin and lamb's wool to make a padding to be placed around the frame. Then purchase sufficient silk/linen or cretonne to cover the heat-proof frame. At the top of the shade place a doll's head to act as a handle, or if your finer sensibilities will not permit of such a thing use a loop of cording for the purpose. By this time you are anxious to know what is to be done with the covered frame. It is to act as a cozy for your teapot.

Dictates of Fashion.
 Silk mantels are lined with broad-cloth.
 Stocks with jabots continue to be worn.
 Hats have a decidedly mannish fashion.
 Beaver fur has grown into great popularity.
 Ribbon is well used on chic afternoon toilettes.
 Colored cord piping is charming on checked wool.
 Velvet suits are more than ever in fashion.
 Fur capes reaching just to the shoulder are smart.
 Small checked name-velvet makes some very striking suits.
 Many of the evening gowns are trimmed with rows of rosebuds.
 The splendid brocades are used chiefly as trains on evening dresses.

Tape On Salt Shakers.
 Use a piece of adhesive tape to cover the opening in the bottom of the china salt and pepper shakers in place of the annoying little cork.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Mills, Bagot street, have returned from Fulton, N.Y.
 Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Johnston, Montreal, are again with Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailie, Barrie street, for a few days.

ODDS AND ENDS
 Tough steak may be finely chopped, seasoned with salt, pepper and onions and fried in little cakes.
 A nice stew can be made of the pieces of cold beef. Cut them in small pieces and cover with water, boil till tender, add an onion, carrot, potatoes, a little turnip, a spoonful of rice, pepper and salt. Serve with slices of toasted bread.
 Strips of veal, mutton, lamb or lean pork, alone or all together, make a fine pie, or finely chopped up may be heated in tomato sauce.
 Remnants of fowl of any kind can be served with cream sauce, hashed, with a dash of mustard, and served on toast; used as sandwiches. The bones of fowl slowly simmered in water for a long time give the foundation for a rich soup.
 Chop pieces of cold ham finely, season with onion and mustard and use for sandwiches, with scrambled eggs or in hash. Horseradish makes a good seasoning for this.
 Cold potatoes may be fried, hashed, creamed and used in salads.
 Other vegetables may be used in hash or stews or as a vegetable salad.
 Cold beans and corn warmed up in milk make a fine succotash.
 Cold rice can be made into a pudding or used in muffins and griddle cakes.
 Make hash and balls with leftover fish. Chop cold oysters finely and add to poultry dressing. Dry bread and pound all stale bread and use for rolling croquettes and fish in.
 Fry cold oatmeal or wheat in butter and serve with cream and sugar.
 "Waste Not, Want Not," is the motto which should be hung in every kitchen. Every kind of food left over can be utilized in some way.

VELVET IS FAVORED FOR MIDWINTER WEAR.
 Most Model in This Material Have Jumper, or Overblouse, Cut Sleeveless.
 Velvet suits are made with coats quite long, skirts gored, yoked and short, and most of the best models have jumpers or over-blouses, cut sleeveless and low to display the pretty new features of the soft blouse worn with this effective costume. Velvet has always been the favorite material for mid-winter street suits, for the combination of this handsome material with any amount of good fur is sure to result in an attractive out-door costume. As in previous seasons, black is very popular this winter, but shares the favors with several attractive dark shades—namely, bordeaux and Garibaldi.

For Persian green, dark brown and Joffre blue. In colors at least, the literary note is constantly emphasized, and frequently hinted at, in trimmings of braid, buttons and coat ornaments.

THE NORFOLK IDEA IN WALKING SUITS.
 Borrowed from the masculine country club, coat in semi-belted Norfolk style is the latest walking coat for the winter girl. The coat accompanies a comfortable, short skirt, and both are of mixed English sitting in shades of tan and green. The high, buttoned cuff and strapped, flare collar save the coat from too extreme informality of style for town wear.

Sleepytime Tales

THE WOODPECKERS.
 Once upon a time three woodpeckers lived in a Zoo. They had a nice home but they missed the green woods and being able to fly wherever they wanted. They were given plenty of food but none of the nice little bugs that lived in the trunks and branches of trees. They had nothing to peck at, too, and that bothered Mr. Woodpecker so that he grew very cross and sulked on his perch all day.
 It didn't bother the little woodpeckers for they had been born in the Zoo house and did not know anything about pecking for bugs. One day the keeper of the Zoo came and saw Mr. Woodpecker pecking in a corner. "I guess I know what is the matter with the bird," he said and off he went. In a little while a man brought the big branch of a tree and fastened it into the ground so it would start straight up in the air.
 For some time Mr. Woodpecker was sulky but when he saw Mrs. Woodpecker pecking away at the tree branch and getting such a lot of nice bugs to eat, he flew to join her and soon they were both pecking away as contented as could be. Every day they pecked away at the tree and soon had eaten all the bugs that were in the bark. Then Mr. Woodpecker went off and sulked again until the keeper took the old branch out and brought a new one just filled with bugs.
 At last the head keeper said that it was too much work to keep getting new branches, so he had the men go out into the woods and get the biggest stump of a tree they could find of just the kind the woodpeckers liked. They set it up in the bird cage and it stayed there for years and had so many bugs in it that the woodpecker family were supplied with food for a long time.

This will make a pint and will keep a long time in a cold place.

NEW SKATING HATS.
 The new skating hats for this year introduce a shawl end of the hat material. This is brought around the throat like a muffler. One of the best models is of Gainsborough blue velvet with dome-shaped crown and bolero brim turned back. The velvet is shirred from top to brim and the brim is edged with milk. A large silver buckle ornaments the back and the shawl end, 28 inches in length, starts at the very top of the crown. It is of the velvet, is lined and a ball of fur finishes the loose end.
 Another skating hat is of white velvet with low soft crown and narrow bolero brim edged with skunk. The shawl end of velvet starts at the brim, is lined and buttoned about the throat or flies loose, as the wearer prefers.

FARMER BROWN'S HIRED MAN.
 Farmer Brown, while his crew of threshers were "washing up" one morning, noticed among them a Swede who was not engaged in the use of water, soap and towel. "Well, Harris," said the farmer, "aren't you going to wash this morning?"
 "Naw," returned the Swede; "it don't make me dirty to sleep."

Easy & Practical Home Dress Making Lessons
 Prepared Especially For This Newspaper by Pictorial Review
A Seasonable Frock In Cloth.
 It requires only 3 1/2 yards of 54 inch face cloth to reproduce this stylish dress, which is in the new dark reddish purple shade called Regrets. The decorative scheme is simple, being confined to narrow stitchings of soutache braid and a collar of plain satin. The vest may be of silk, organy or lace.
 The back of the waist extends over the shoulders forming a yoke effect at the front. As are all fashionable colors, this one is in two styles so that it may be worn high or low. The skirt is a five-gore model with high waist-line and the back gore made to form a box pleat.
 In cutting the material the back gore is laid along the fold of broadcloth, with the collar and back closely following. The front comes next, but is laid on a lengthwise thread; then comes the belt, laid crosswise of the material, on the fold. To the right of the belt is the shield, unless it is made of contrasting material, with the collar coming last and placed on the lengthwise fold.
 The front and side gores are laid over a lengthwise thread, but along the selvage edge of the cloth. The sleeve and cuff are to the right of the side gore, and the sleeves is perforated for shorter length if desired. If the extension on the cuff is not wanted it can be cut off without spoiling the shape of the cuff in any way.
 The front of the waist and the belt should be braided as soon as cut, but this requires only a little time.
 A round neck-line can be given to the shield by cutting it out along line of single "oo" perforations, but the double "oo" perforations indicate a square neck-line.
 The pockets are an attractive feature of the dress because they are novel both in shape and trimming.
 In any other material than broad-cloth this frock would be equally attractive.
