"Committee of Fifty" Meet.
An enthusiastic meeting of the "Committee of Fifty" was held at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Prof. Mac-Clement presided, and splendid headway was made in the final preparations for the circulation of the petition in the city and county.

Some interesting reports were received at last night's meeting from the different committees. The Publicity Committee is advertising in the local daily and weekly papers, and receiving the active personal support of the ministers of all sects and politics, these being fearless in their presentation of the movement because of its purely patriotic character.

The Public Meetings Committee recommended the holding of a mass meeting on the Sunday previous to the circulation of the petition. Reports received from the different Young People's Societies indicate that a large number of young men can be relied on to help in the circulation of the petition. The final meeting of the committee is being planned for next Friday evening, when full instructions will be given.

Belleville Intermediates Won.
At Belleville an Intermediate O.
H. A. match was played Monday night between teams of the 33rd Battery of Kingston and the Belleville team. The result was a win for the Belleville by a score of 12 to 1.
In the first period the score was 3 to 4 in favor of Belleville, and this was the only period in which the battery was able to score. The match was decidedly one-sided in favor of Belleville. The line-up was as follows:

Belleville—Goal, Phillips; left defence, Simons; right defence, Holloway; centre, Whalen; rover, Finkle; right wing, Symons; left wing, Mitchell.

33rd Battery—Goal, Jeffs; left defence, Moore; right defence, Marshall; centre, Sullivan; rover, Katz; right wing, Knapman; left wing, Sullivan.

Referee—Jack Moxom, Toronto.
Lived at Quesnel.

A despatch in the Whig on Monday night told of a most disastrous fire in the town of Quesnel, B.C. Police Constable Leslie Armstrong, who recently joined the force here, lived there for some time prior to coming to Kingston, and has relatives residing there.

The attacks of Labor interests against the Government will not averse its present position on compulsory military service.

THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.

Capacity houses greeted "The Fatal Card" at the Grand yesterday.
John Mason and Hazel Dashi are in the leading roles. The story bubbles with romance, intrigue and stirring climaxes. A two-reel Universal and a one-reel comedy, along with the Pathe series, complete the picture end of the bill. Heading the vaudeville is Miss Juanita Fletcher, who is more charming and pleasing than ever. She sings "England's Call" and "A Daughter of Mother Macree," both new and pleasing. Jean and Babe Adams, novelty jugglers, have a refined up-to-the-minute offering which pleased, while Claude Wade has some new songs. The same bill will be repeated again this evening and tomorrow matinee.

"Quinney," With English Scene

"Quinney" is coming. It is a comedy of a savory and amusing conter of English life, written by a well-known and well-liked English novelist, who would now be playwright, too, and acted by an "All-English" company especially despatched to Canada with it. To be at the Grand on Jan. 19th, Quinney—his personage—is a dealer in antiquities—and a "chance" in the full sense—of the word in the dialect of New England.
He is concerned in the play with the affection—in his view misplaced—which his daughter lavishes on his foreman; and he is concerned yet more with certain spurious Chippendale chairs which he has innocently purchased. Quinney is accustomed to work his will; his good name in the trade of his dearest possession, Little by little he works out the problem of an unruly daughter and of deceiving wares; and if he fails to get his way with her, he at last keeps his honesty as a dealer. The play unfolds an interesting dramatic narrative; but it is more engrossing for its sketching of salient character and its weaving of atmosphere about a novel environment.

At Griffin's Theatre.

At the Griffin Theatre before a large crowd last night a strong picture was presented in the "Oriental Shop." The prosperous "Orient" had a magnificent shop of golden urns, drapery, etc., and appeared very successful. He was encouraged into the friendly game of cards which developed into gambling. A young man whom he did not care for, and who wished to marry his daughter, who had begged of her father to leave gambling, took the opportunity of bringing the old man into a trap where he was murdered. The young girl in revenge came to America, where she found the man whom it was thought committed the murder.
She posed as a dancer at one of the gardens in New York, and gradually lured her suspected victim into a trap, where her lover, who had unknown to her followed, and during the meeting of the two men fought with knives. The lover who was rejected by her father, was stabbed, and before dying admitted the murder of her father, thus staying the revenge the young lady had against the New Yorker. Three other good reels were also presented.

At The Strand.

One of the most fashionable and highly pleased audiences of the season greeted the presentation of "The Right Of Way," the five-part photoplay, in which that world-famed actor, "William Faversham," is appearing at the Strand the first three days of the week. "The Right Of Way" is by Canada's greatest writer, Sir Gilbert Parker, and is well known to all lovers of literature.
Jane Grey, another Broadway favorite, and a strong supporting cast make the screening of this strong play one never to be forgotten. Other good reels were also shown. The same bill will be shown, again tonight and Wednesday.

Good morning! Have you had Gripp? No, I took Gibson's Red Cross Gripp Tablets, and have worked every day. They cost me 25c.
