CHANGED THE RANGE

AND ONE ROUND CAUSED CASUALTIES IN "A" BATTERY.

D. J. Finney Writes Acknowledging Oddfellows' Gifts, and Tells of What the R. C. H. A. is Doing.

W. J. Clarke, Wellington street, has received a letter in acknowledgment of the parcels sent to overseas members by Catarqui Lodge, I. O. O. F. The letter is from D. J. Finney, with the R. C. H. A. brigade at the front, and reads as follows:

"A few days ago I received the parcels sent to us from the lodge, and have sent them to the fellows they were intended for. Will you please convey to the members of Catarqui Lodge my appreciation of their kindness in remembering us when so far away. You may be sure I often think of the pleasant nights spent in the rooms, and trust it will not be long before some of us are able to enjoy a few more.

"Just at present we are having a fairly quiet time, and apart from the mud we are comfortable in winter quarters. My own bunk is in a hay loft, but most of the troops have bomb-proof dug-outs.

"About ten days ago we had a taste of German gas, but we were well prepared for it, as we had been expecting it for several days. Each man has two smoke helmets, which are always carried, and can be adjusted in about fifteen seconds, so a man has a good chance against a gas attack now.

"We have been very fortunate in not having many casualties. 'A' Battery has had more than we. The day they lost Pepin and Daglaise we had been shelled all day, but as the men kept well under cover we did not lose any. Just before dark the Germans altered their range by about 400 yards, and sent about three rounds along in that direction, and it was one of those that caught 'A' Battery.

"We have most of the men who left Kingston with the batteries still with us. A few have gone back to England sick, but there are lots of new men, as the brigade numbers over 500.

"When in England on leave I saw Bray and Clifford. They are both employed in the Record Office. Clifford was over here, but was invalided back. I guess you have seen Slade, and he will have told you most of the news in Kingston."

THEATRICAL NEWS

To-night "Quinney's." "Like a priceless gem in the midst of tawdry paste jewels, Horace Annesley Vachell's exquisite comedy of an English antiquarian's family life, "Quinney's", shines at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, among the ordinary comedies of the day, said the New York critics.

Here is a play of genre so fine it seems like the work of an old master instead of the product of the most modern of successful contemporary dramatists. Its characters are so real, so sympathetically limned, so convincingly worked out, that one inevitably compares them with the creations of such masters as Dickens and Thackeray. As for the company, which the distinguished London producer, Frederick Harrison, has sent here to present this dramatic light, it could not be improved. It is a perfect cast, at the head of which is the most distinguished character actor of the London stage, Frederick Ross, who enacts the role of Joseph Quinney. Mr. Ross has won a splendid triumph here by his masterly portrayal of the old York-shire dealer in antiquities, revealing the success which he achieved at the Haymarket Theatre, London, in the original production of the play, and has firmly established himself as a favorite with Broadway theatregoers. "Quinney's" will be seen at the Grand to-night.

At the Grand. For Thursday afternoon, Friday and Saturday a programme of unusual excellence has been secured for presentation at the Grand Opera House. "The Famous Players" picture of "The Chorus Lady," with a notable all-star cast, is the feature picture to be shown. A two-reel Universal photoplay, a comedy picture and the "Patrol News," with interesting scenes of the war, will also be included. The vaudeville is excellent, and includes Miss Theresa Rose, who will be seen in a novel musical act, and Nolan and Ryan also have a high-class musical act, which should please the patrons of this popular theatre. This programme will be shown on Thursday afternoon and on Friday and Saturday as usual.

At the Strand. Capacity business again greeted the showing of Sir Gilbert Parker's great play "The Right of Way," in which that well known star William Faversham takes the leading role. The story is one of great strength and pleased the large audiences present at both the matinee and evening shows. It will be shown for the last time to-night. The feature photoplay for the last three days of the week is something out of the ordinary and should prove a big treat to Kingstonians on account of this being such a great educational centre. It is the Williamson Submarine picture, taken under the sea showing miles of adventure and mystery on the ocean's floor. This remarkable picture has amazed scientists, interested students and delighted the regular patrons of the "Movies."

Roof Caught Fire. The roof of the blacksmith shop at the Locomotive Works caught fire at 1 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, and the firemen were called and had half an hour's work. No estimate was given of the damage but it is not expected to be heavy.

It is stated that the Conservatives will put Charles S. Anglin in the field in Catarqui Ward against N. C. Polson, Jr.

Sergt. Martin has been chosen by Capt. Steacy as battery sergeant major for the 5th Battery. This rank carries with it a second class warrant officer rank.

T. L. White has been transferred from the 14th Regiment to the 146th Battalion.

Col. G. Hunter Ogilvie A.A.G. is in Petawawa.

There is a scarcity of telegraph operators in the ranks of khaki, and as a large number are needed for the Divisional Signal Companies, it is desired that all operators be transferred to D. S. companies.

Lieut. F. L. White is attached to the 146th Battalion.

Pte. J. R. Strachan has been appointed signalling sergeant of the 146th.

Lieut.-Col. C. A. Low is addressing a meeting of the clergymen of the city in the Y. M. C. A. building this afternoon to impress on them the urgent need of recruits and the assistance they can give. It has been suggested that in every church in the city on Sunday at least one recruiting sermon be given. Col. Low believes that the donning of khaki is now a sacred duty for every one.

Lieut.-Col. C. A. Low wishes to express his thanks to the chairmen of the sub-divisions and the aidmen who assisted in the compiling of a list of the men of the city who are eligible for overseas service. The services were rendered without hesitation and the 146th Battalion is deeply indebted to these men for their work.
