The Mutual Life Assurance Company

Of Waterloo, Ont. Four things stand out prominently connection with the statement isued by The Mutual Life of Canada or the year 1915, and each of these several features is conducive to good dividends for the policyholders of the Company.

The four points in the statement of The Mutual Life of Canada that favor high dividends are first, the surplus earned-second; the stability of the business or the low lapse rate-third, the increase in the rate of interest earned, and fourth, the ower rat'o of expenditure to income. We may refer to these briefly.

Although there was an additional BUT IT IS LIKELY THAT HE WILL outgo through death claims arising out of the war, the surplus earned during the year amounts to $1,158,2 210.20, an increase of over ten per

The increase in business: There are several notable features in connection with the insurance statement. The lapses are less than in the preceding years by over half a million dollars; while the policies not accepted have decreased by $267,000. These facts are the more significant when we consider that even a year ago this Company occupied the premier place in regard to the stability of its business. It follows that the net inerease in the amount of business is very gratifyment reached a high pitch, while the | ing, amounting to no less than 48 per cent, of the total new business written, which was $13,757,987, the net increase being $6,614,670.
