A Double Service

The citizen who insures his life performs a service to the State as well as to his dependents. Through the contributions of their policyholders the Canadian life companies subscribed over $8,000,000 towards the government war loan, and in 1915 they invested $75,000,000 in municipal debentures, mortgages, industrial and utility bonds, etc., all calculated to promote the general progress of the community.

Unless gathered together and utilized in this way the money represented would have meant nothing to the country's growth.

The funds of the Canada Life, totalling $56,217,000, are invested profitably as well as usefully, the surplus earned in 1915, $1,480,000, being one of the most satisfactory in the company's history. The cash dividends paid policyholders in the year totalled over $2,800,000.

Many Military Matters

"See that lance-corporal! Well he is a Freethinker minister." was a remark heard in front of the Whig bulletin by one speaking of the class of officers and N.C.O.'s who on Tuesday morning were drilling on the market square. It takes all kinds of people for a world and a School of Infantry class, and this last course under the present system, will remain in memory as having been exceptional for the number of exceptional people attending. There are five ministers doing the "right foot, left foot" eventually to become soldiers of the King as well as of the Lord.

The men attending the school have come from all corners of the earth from China, and South Africa, Lieut. F. L. White is registered from Shanghai, China.

Lieut. F. R. Dumley is now one of the strongest advocates of the cause of the Allies and is going over to support those sympathies in a practical way. He was not always pro-British, however. In the South African war he fought for the Boers against the British.

Lieut. R. D. Weller, 15th Belleville Regiment, was through the South African war with the Imperial Light Horse under Gen. Buller.

At the end of next week the last course of the Kingston Provisional School of Infantry will close. In its place will be established an Infantry School of Instruction on the principle of which has been already announced. The to-be-formed Infantry School will be a radical change from the system now in use. It will mean that all cadets of the school will have a special uniform. Several times, different uniforms have been mentioned as those which the cadets will wear but as yet no announcement has been made. The old-fashioned peace-time scarlet jacket has been mentioned and in truth there is a possibility of it being accepted. The authorities have decided that the uniform will be different from that worn by either an officer, N.C.O., or man but with the adoption of a scarlet jacket at this time the cadets would be clothed in a uniform that would differ from any now in existence.

The fact that the pay will be only $1.10 a day will have a detrimental effect on those men who have not a fair-sized personal bank account. As a rule the men of the Government want for its official ranks are those who have made good in civil life. Money is one of the most practical tests of this, and if a man has built up for himself a good-sized bank account by his own ability in business, it is safe to say that he has enough brains to wear the Sam Brown.

The new system will require many more instructors. At the present time the instructors start at the first of the course and follow through to the last and only enough instructors are needed to give lectures that can be heard, or can take the different squads on their field work. Now it will require instructors for each of the six weeks of the course. Probationers can enter at any week.

Comment on the new plan is not being made by officers who prefer to "wait and watch," but those who have tried to ferret out a solution of the problem that is presented by the new order would change this to "watch and pray." As soon as Ottawa gives more information the local officers will work out the details.

Capt. G. G. Stewart, A.M.C., has been detailed for duty in the office of the A.D.M.S., 3rd Division.

Lieut.-Col. W. G. Brown, General Staff Officer, is in Ottawa.

There is a long list of men of the 14th Regiment who wish to transfer to the 146th and other units for overseas service. Since the war broke out the 14th Regiment Guard has been almost completely changed. Hundreds of men have transferred into the different overseas units. Though often spoken of as the "Home Guard," it has proven to be a practical training school for N.C.O.'s. These men who have been on the Guard for some weeks learn in a very practical way what being a soldier means. The discipline is so strict and the work so exactly like that which is required of the men at the front that they are eagerly taken on the strength of the overseas units. In almost all cases they are granted N.C.O.'s positions and have in every case made good.

The attention of the Whig has been called to the fact that there would be more time for drilling of the men of the overseas, units if they did not have to go on guard duty here. There are several good practical reasons why overseas soldiers are put on guard duty. The work is exactly that which they will be required to do at the front. The training in discipline, conduct and soldierly bearing that guard duty gives to a man is just as good as that which he receives on the parade ground.

Capt. R. Ponton, 3rd Divisional Staff, is in Belleville.

The following copy of headquarters communication is published for the information and guidance of all concerned.

"As there seems to be a wide divergence in the practice in the different Divisions and Districts regarding the payment of officers provisionally appointed to Overseas units C.E.F., who are unqualified in their rank the following instructions are to be adhered to in regard to this question:—
 "Officers duly gazetted to the C.E.

F. and now attending schools of instruction already existing (but not special schools for probationers are to be paid as follows: To remain on the pay-list of their own unit the same as if they were serving actually with the unit and to receive the pay of the rank to which they have been gazetted and in addition to only receive such rations or subsistence allowance as may be authorized at the school which they attend.

"Officers whether or not gazetted to any unit of the C.E.F. and permitted to attend special school for probationers will receive pay of $1 per diem 10 cents field allowance and subsistence allowance, if not rationed of 75c per diem. In case of any officers or men in the C.E.F. who are entitled to separation allowance their dependents will continue to receive the rate of separation allowance or special subsistence allowance for wives-65c per diem to which such officers and men were entitled to in the C.E.F. The officers etc., attending probation schools will draw their pay and allowances at the Provisional School and are not to appear on the pay-list of any unit of the C.E.F. and men whatever rank will be treated in the same way.

"Officers and men of the militia not belonging to units of the C.E.F. will draw pay and allowance the same as in normal times of peace.

"With reference to clause 1, if the officer has not been gazetted to the C.E.F., he would come under clause 3, if attending a permanent or provisional school. The existing permanent and provisional schools at which officers and others of the C.E.F. have hitherto attended will cease to exist when the present schools have completed their courses."

In the World of Sport

Bombardier Wells knocked out "Dick" Smith in the third round of their bout for the heavyweight championship of England.

The Northern Senior League will not operate next season owing to so many of its players having enlisted. Other local leagues contemplate taking similar action.

"McGraw knows that I am a great ball player," says Benny Kauff. Hugh Jennings knows that Ty Cobb is a great ball player, but Cobb lets Jennings say it.

"Knotty" Lee, in the event of the Canadian League suspending for the season, will go to New England to organize an eight-club circuit.

Ottawa claims to have lost $3,000 last year; but the Capital City baseball directors are ready to finance the 1916 season if called upon.

Russell Blackburn, the Chicago American shortstop, has been secured by Toronto for the season for $8,500 and two players for him a few years back. He graduated from Providence.

Ad. Wolgast is rapidly rounding into form for his bout with Freddie Welsh, March 6th at Milwaukee. Wolgast is expected to rely again on his famous kidney punch.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, has been signed to meet the winner of the Mandot-Dundee fight in a six-round bout in Philadelphia on March 22nd.

The death is announced at Cowes, Isle of Wight, of Capt. Frank Spencer, aged eighty-six years. He commanded James Ashbury's schooner Cambria, the first English yacht which challenged for the America's cup.

Ottawa Journal: Why all the holler about the C. A. H. A. ban of Ottawa and Montreal amateur hockey teams? It can't be that those clubs care anything about the word sent out by the big hockey body. They claim they don't, but the C. A. H. A. is wondering if all the fuss is being made because the banned clubs feel the pinch of being banned.

Says Secretary Farrell of the Minor Baseball League on the effect of the Federal war on baseball: "In 1913 my office handled approximately 12,000 minor league contracts. In 1914 the number dropped to below 9,000, and last year it dropped below 6,000. In those two seasons nearly half of the little leagues under protection were forced to disband." He looks for a great revival this year.

Toronto Globe: According to "one of the City Hockey League players," whose name the Ottawa Citizen suppresses in giving his story, "Eddie Nagle, the Rugby player and centre of the Aberdeen hockey team, was playing hockey for pay last winter. No attention has been paid to the story in Ottawa, perhaps because they are fed up with that sort of thing, and when challenged the story-teller, whose identity the Citizen hides with suspicious care, will deny it.

In St. Thomas every effort is made to boost baseball. This is the reason why the St. Thomas club lost so little money in the Canadian league last year. The grounds are handed over to the ball club free of charge, the stands were erected by the city, and the ball players allowed free trips to and from the park on the street cars.

There is much ado about the admitted losses of some of the Federal League backers. Phil Ball of the St. Louis team says he dropped $200,000, while Weeghman of Chicago, claims to have lost $500,000. There were eight clubs in the independent league, not all of which were losers. There are sixteen clubs in the American and National and more than thirty in the Class AA circuits. It would be interesting to know just to what extent the Feds. wallowed that galaxy of bank rolls, but of course that aspect of the recent war is not emphasized.

Despite the inference that participation in college athletics was responsible in many cases for the failure of sixty-one students recently suspended from N. Y. University, INFIELDER CHARLIE PICK. Sold by the Baltimore International League to the Philadelphia Athletics, formerly of International League.

Dean Archibald L. Bouton of the University College does not believe that membership on athletic teams has proved detrimental in high scholastic standing. In a statement which Dean Bouton has just made public, an analysis of student participation in athletics for the past year and a half at New York University is cited to show that there is more interest in athletic sports among students in high scholastic standing than among undergraduates who have met with failure in the classroom. The result of investigation has proved to the satisfaction of Dean Bouton that there are five times as many participations in athletics among the students who rank over 80 per cent. in their studies as among the sixty-one students who "flunked out."

The new scale of weights adopted by the New York State Athletic Commission regulates the weight in eight classes. Boxers, to be recognized as eligible in the various classes, must weigh in at the stipulated weight six hours before a contest, and again upon entering the ring. The new scale of weights follows:

Class	Weight
Paperweight	108
Bantamweight	115
Featherweight	123
Lightweight	133
Welterweight	144
Middleweight	158
Commission	175
Heavyweight	over 175

Toronto Star: Capt. James Sutherland of Kingston, president of the O. H. A., made a most favorable impression at the recruiting meeting at Massey Hall and has been requested to repeat his visit to Toronto. He stated that the slogan in hockey circles after the season is over will continue to be "don the khaki." "There are 1,200 hockey players in the Ontario Hockey Association, and of this number 750 men have already joined the soldiers," he said. "No class of men has responded so generously and so completely as the amateur hockey players.

Ottawa Free Press: It looks a dismal summer sportographically speaking, if there is no baseball in the capital this year. There is nothing to take its place, and, beyond a doubt, the great pastime secured a strangle-hold on all classes and sexes since it was first introduced on a substantial scale in 1912. The Canadian league is still undecided what steps it will take this season. Both sentimental and financial conditions are being weighed, and, while we hold the continuance of sport whether amateur or professional is better for the well-being of the country at large during war times, the game cannot make the grade if sentiment stands in the way.
