Eight people were injured when the fast train coming from Montreal, known as No. 13, was derailed near Kingston Mills, about 3 o'clock ou Friday morning.

The injured were all brought to the city, and are now patients at the Hotel Dieu where they are doing

Little Ellen Confray, the Montreal girl, who was travelling with her mother and two other members of the family, received the most serious injuries. It was stated that her left arm had been fractured.

The train was travelling at a fast rate of speed, and the fact that there was not a heavy death list, is nothing more than a miracle. Mrs. Confray and her children were on their way to Hamilton.

The first-class car and the pullmans were thrown from the rails but fortunately did not topple over. The tender of the train left the rails but no damage was

Passengers Surprised.

On account of the train being a few minutes date the engineer in charge was evidently endeavoring to make up for lost time. He made 43 miles, with one stop at Gananoque Junction, in fifty minutes, that the train was going at the rate of over fifty miles an hour.

As the accident occurred so suddenly, it was almost impossible for any of the people who were aboard the train to state what happened The first thing they felt was a severe bang as though there was a collision. Getting from the beds in the pullman they were surprised to find that the train was a wreck. Upon getting from their beds they were informed by the porter that two of the leading cars had gone into the ditch and the pullmans had received a very bad shaking up but were still standing up-right.
