At Brockville police court Joseph Why Tolerate Catarrh?

You have noticed, no doubt, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous amasses you that such objectionable matter could find lodgment in your head. To ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong because it continues to slowly injure the delicate linings of the nasal passages and clog them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils frequently with a solution of warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and contains soothing glycerine to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes.

Scott's is pleasant to take.

DIED IN OTTAWA.

Was Born in Mallorytown Fifty-two Years Ago.

Mallorytown, March 22.—On Tuesday morning the death took place at Ottawa, of a highly esteemed resident. Reference is made to the demise of R. H. Field. He had been ill for over a year of paralysis, and bore his physical suffering with great patience and resignation.

The late Reuben Herbert Field was born at Mallorytown 52 years ago. He was a son of the late Reuben Field, for some years licensee in charge of the Brockville electoral district. The subject of this sketch was educated at the public school at Mallorytown and the Brockville Collegiate Institute. For some years he taught school in different parts of Leeds county. A few years ago he accepted a position in the civil service at Ottawa, being attached to the census department. He was a very capable official. The deceased was married in 1893 to Miss Phoebe M. Lewis, youngest daughter of the late Coleman Lewis, of Addison. She survives with three sons. They are Messrs. Harold, Cameron and Lewis Field, all of Ottawa. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. W. I. Mallory, Mrs. Partridge, both of Mallorytown, and Mrs. Gibson, Yonge Mills.

In religion the deceased was a Methodist and in politics a staunch Liberal. For some years he was secretary of the Unionville fair and was the first secretary of the Brockville fair. The death of Mr. Field is deeply regretted. He was a fine type of man and his friends were numerous.

The remains were interred at Mallorytown, on Thursday afternoon.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Frank Weik Dies—Drawn Into Mill Shafting.

Frankville, March 22.—Frank Weik, Belleville, was killed on Wednesday as a result of being drawn into the shafting of his mill. When the machinery was shut down, the unfortunate man was taken out in a badly mangled condition, and he died shortly after. He leaves a wife and six small children. It seems as if he has been persistently followed by hard luck. A year ago his mill burned, and the present one was recently completed.

A Bill Of $1,000

Pembroke, March 22.—Dr. Sparling's bill against the town for services as Medical Health Officer covers a period of eight years was presented to the Board of Health this week. The Board has for some time past been endeavoring to secure this bill, and the amount, $2,000, is not regarded as excessive, though from every standpoint it would have been much better had it been rendered and paid annually. We notice that the town of Sudbury has fixed the salary of its Medical Health Officer at $600 per year, which is more than twice the amount Dr. Sparling is asking.

IN THE CANADIAN LINES.

Correspondent Says Canucks Have Best Trenches Along the Front.

As the mist and rain descended and the horizon shrank from ten miles to one we journeyed to the trenches in the plain, where a horizon from 200 to 300 yards is all that a man needs. Down there in "the common efforts" certain advantages belong to thick weather, says W. Beach Thomas in The Montreal Standard, describing a visit to the Canadian trenches.

Where the communication trench is a slough you may clamber on to the bank and try to feel as confident as your guide that the enemy will neither see you nor infer you. You take short cuts here and there, trusting that the best in the working party is quite accurate when he assures you that the interval is "dead ground for bullets," though the idiom has an uncanny sound.

To-day a comforting though rather ominous silence is over everything, and when at last we reach the front line trench the crack of a sniper's rifle just round the traverse sounds as loud as a battery.

But the trenches themselves give every confidence. A general who had been through them a day or two earlier had told the Canadians that they were the best in the line. They were certainly the best I had yet seen. Neat drains from No Man's Land, flowed out under the duck-boarding that everywhere served as flooring. Even the siltifer of this stoneless mud-clay had been kept tame by wire and wood; and the millions of sandbags were piled in the newest and most scientific manner.

As I stopped leaning up against "the loafer-burnished wall," while someone else was peering through a spy-hole, I became aware of a sort of rabbit hole below me. The inmate, with the usual quick Canadian hospitality, offered me the freedom of his dwelling. He could not receive the whole of his guest; there was not room for that. I considered the invitation as extending to my head, and that could enter far whole of the "Duch" interior. The bayonet sat low before a tiny stove, and he held in his hand a well-lathered shaving brush. His cheeriness, conspicuous even in this cheery group, was due perhaps to the prospect of a clean shave, as the preface to a snappy lurch, whose fumes already made a pleasant accompaniment to the toilet.

It is difficult at such a moment to understand and feel the hardship and danger of this daily warfare. The men make you forget it, so natural and jolly they are, though each in his own "suppositus cineri doloso" [a paraphrase of Horace, who was thinking of the fire beneath the treacherous lava crust] is treading on a mine. Everyone looks at home. From the next dugout I pass came the gay whistle of "Susanne, Susanne, we love you," and the bayonet sat low before a tiny stove, and he held in his hand a well-lathered shaving brush. His cheeriness, conspicuous even in this cheery group, was due perhaps to the prospect of a clean shave, as the preface to a snappy lurch, whose fumes already made a pleasant accompaniment to the toilet.

New Map of Ontario.

An excellent and up-to-date map of the Province of Ontario has just been issued by the Department of Lands, Forests, and Mines. It has been brought right up to the moment in the matter of detail, giving the layout of the newer portions of the Province that have recently been developed and named. The map is well printed. The color work is not too bright and the printing very clear. In addition to the map, the canvas contains a number of statistics about Ontario. The extent of the Province is given, with its population and chief centers. The map is also facts about the geology, the minerals, the agriculture, the forest resources, the waterpower, and the educational system, which will be useful to people who are making any study of the Province. The map is in every way a splendid one. The rapid growth of Ontario makes it necessary to issue new maps at brief intervals in order to have them accurate. CANADA'S ARTILLERY PRACTISES FOR DRIVE.

Corpl. R. J. Gimblett Writes That the C. F. A. is All Prepared.

A letter has just been received from Corpl. R. J. Gimblett who went overseas with the 5th Field Battery detachment. The letter reads in part as follows:

"The artillery of our division is away back of the firing line and we are doing a few field manoeuvres along the old open warfare principle. Merely as a bit of practice, I guess, for the long-looked-for and much-talked-of big drive of the Allies, which Dame Rumour says will be soon. So, we will be brushed up on the old style, with the latest amendments thrown in. You can readily see that the Canadian Field Artillery will do their share. At least they will be prepared."

"I am attached to one of the batteries for this training. Take it from me that I would much rather have stopped up in action than be here. We have longer hours and plenty of drill. One thing though, you can go to your 'doss' and not worry about being pulled out at all hours to take up ammunition. I will be glad when we get back nevertheless. We were due to go back a few days ago. Very likely we will get a quick shift on a rush call to help stem some attempted advance or assist in some bombardment, two or three hours notice at the best."

"The weather has been changeable lately. For a couple of weeks we have had rain and then some wet snow and cold, snappy nights. However the past couple of days have been ideal, really like spring."

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
