WALDRON'S

THE SPECIAL WHIG

IT WAS A SPLENDID SUCCESS AND MUCH APPRECIATED.

The Largest Edition Ever Turned Out in Kingston—The Delivery of the Paper Was Quite a Task.

The British Whig's Progress and Prosperity Number published on Saturday was the most satisfactory edition of its kind ever published by this paper.

It was the most satisfactory in that it was by far the largest edition ever produced, not only by the British Whig, but in any town or city between Toronto and Montreal.

It set a new standard for special editions. The industrial reviews and preview were of high merit, the result of careful study for weeks by the management.

The general appreciation with which the edition was received by the people of this city shows that when real merit is put into such efforts the people will respond with their commendation.

The city edition had hardly been delivered before people began coming to the Whig Office for extra copies to send to their friends in different parts of the country, and that kept up all the afternoon, and is likely to continue for some time. Those desiring any extra copies will please not delay long, as the 11,000 extra copies printed will not last long. A number are being sent all over the country, and this will be continued as long as the copies last in order to give the edition and the advertisers the widest publicity possible.

The carrier force in the city was reinforced to meet the heavy demand occasioned by this special edition, with its fifty-six pages. With the assistance of the Whig automobile, the boys managed to deliver their papers in time. They found their loads unusually heavy, but the sturdy little chaps made their rounds just the same. The mail men and railroad men on the trains going east and west were almost swamped with the large bundles of Whigs sent out.

The British Whig has the satisfaction of having produced a paper that is highly spoken of by reader and advertiser. The advertiser is an important factor, of course, in preparing such a paper, and he is usually difficult to please, but the merit both in matter and typography in this effort has resulted in making advertisers feel that they were not making a donation, but that they were fully repaid by the efficient service given.

Many were the favorable comments received upon the colored front page, showing the draped flags of the Allies in their true colors, and surrounded by a border of Canadian maple leaves. This was an expensive piece of work, as the artist's services in making such engravings comes high. Added to this, the page had to be run through the press four times in order to get the necessary colors.

The usual week-end, illustrated section on Saturday was also a subject of much favorable comment. The Kingston page was about the best yet produced.

Heard On the Street.

"It was a hummer"; "it was a great paper"; "the best you ever issued"; "it took the cake"; "a grand issue"; "my, but you excelled yourselves"; "I wish my good friend Penze could have seen it"; "a credit to Kingston and a credit to the publishers," were among the many and kindly expressions made by all classes of citizens.

"A splendid number, and a credit to the city," remarked Chief of Police Baillie.

"It was a splendid number," said Canon Grout.

J. E. Johnston, Brock street, said that the number was a splendid tribute to the enterprise of the Whig and a credit to the city of Kingston.

F. Reid, of the firm of James Reid, undertakers, said that it was more than the equal of any Christmas number he had ever seen. "It contained a whole of paper, and was filled from front to back with readable Kingston news."

Capt. J. Donnelly, of the Donnelly Salvage & Wrecking Co., remarked that it must have taken a lot of expense and time, but the result was worth while.

A. Davis & Son, Limited, informed the Whig that the issue was "very fine, very good, indeed."

T. F. Harrison said that they were quite pleased with the issue.

W. Carroll, tailor, Princess street, said the issue was so good that he was sending copies to England. "It was a grand piece of workmanship."

J. A. Macfarlane, when speaking about Saturday's issue, exclaimed, "There was lots of it, and it was well put together."

Joseph Nash, proprietor of the College Book Store, told the Whig that the special edition on Saturday was the finest ever produced in Kingston. "I was more than pleased with it," he said. "The advertisements stood out well, and the Whig is to be congratulated on the splendid showing."

W. W. Gibson, druggist: "Your Saturday's edition was the best ever turned out in Eastern Canada. The paper was a credit to any city. The ads. were well set and the paper was well printed."

William Mack, manager at Lockett's shoe store, was very much pleased with the special number. "I looked it over carefully," he said, "and was very much impressed with it. The work was good. It certainly was a great credit to the Whig, and should help to advertise the city."

The Ganoque Reporter says: The Kingston Whig to-day issues a special "Prosperity Number" of fifty or sixty pages, printed on fine paper and profusely illustrated. The production is characteristic of the Whig's enterprise and efficiency. Among the features are letters from the mayors of nearby towns, describing the beauties and advantages of the places over which they preside.

Prompt Distribution.

One of the features of the Progress and Prosperity Number was the expeditious delivery in Napanee and Ganoque. Large bundles of the papers were rushed to these points early in the afternoon, and were distributed there by an especially selected staff as early as they were distributed in the city of Kingston. The edition was more than merely a city issue, as it endeavored to embrace all the surrounding towns in Eastern Ontario. The page devoted to this effort was the subject of much favorable comment in the towns and villages, whose residents appreciated the broad-mindedness of the Whig in coupling them with such an important issue. Practically every home in Napanee and Ganoque was served with a copy of the big edition before 6 p.m.

THEATRICAL NEWS

To-night Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Al. W. Martin's world's greatest production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at the Grand to-night. Mr. Martin has successfully solved the problem of combining the old and the new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves out nothing worth retaining of either the straight method or the circus method. All the worthy features of the old landmarks are retained, while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed making it more coherent; this with the introduction of a host of high-class specialties thoroughly in keeping with the piece, goes far toward forming an evening's entertainment.

At the Grand.

At the Grand Opera House an excellent programme of photo-plays have been secured for presentation at this popular theatre on Tuesday, matinee and night. Chief among these is a Jesse L. Lasky photo-play presenting the well-known actress, Valenska Suratt, in "The Immigrant," a strong, virile drama full of sympathetic appeal. Among the others who also appear in this picture are Thomas Meighan, Theodore Roberts, Bob Fleming and Hal Clements. The Famous Pathe News, consisting of the current events of the world, and the Paramount News, consisting of the current events of the world, and the Paramount Topical Budget, showing interesting scenes of the war, are on the bill, as well as a two-reel Universal photo-play, and a comedy picture.

At The Strand.

The programme booked to this popular theatre for the first three days of this week is one that should please all lovers of the silent drama. The masterpiece is one of the very latest and strongest produced by the world's greatest producers, the Triangle Film Co., entitled, "The Edge Of the Abyss," and has no less than three big Broadway stars, viz., Mary Boland, Frank Mills and Willard Mack, supported by a strong cast. This picture is highly praised by the New York critics, the settings are exquisite and the photography marvelously beautiful. The comedy end is said to be a riot of fun. It is one of the famous Triangle Keystone's, featuring Syd Chaplin in four reels of joy, captioned "A Submarine Spy," a real U. S. submarine was loaned the producers to enact the wonderful scenes shown in this picture. Four other good reels and the Hope Jones Unit Orchestra round out a bill that will be hard to beat and should please immensely.

Fatty Arbuckle Back Again.

By request we have secured another Keystone comedy, "Fatty's Faithful Fido," featuring Harold Arbuckle; also a two reel western drama, "The Golden Trail," and the ninth episode in "The Diamond from the Sky," entitled "A Runaway Match," at the King Edward to-night and Tuesday. Usual admission.
