FAMILIAR NAMES LOST

ISLANDS AND VILLAGES DISAPPEAR, ONLY IN GEOGRAPHIES.

Seeley's No Longer "Bay"—Refugee, Picnic, Sugar and Many Other Islands Change Their Names Suddenly.

Refugee Island, Picnic Island, Sugar Island, and a dozen equally familiar islands have disappeared; Seeley's Bay, Fairfield East, and other well-known communities throughout Leeds and Grenville counties have been wiped off the face of the map. From this it must not be understood that the islands have by some force of Nature suddenly lost to sight in the waters of the St. Lawrence, or that the villages mentioned have been engulfed by an earthquake, but rather that the Geographic Board of Canada has decreed that they shall no longer exist, at least under the names by which they are now commonly known. By the fourteenth report of this body, which attends to the nomenclature of the country, it is learned that Refuge Island is now Conran Island, that Picnic Island is now Cockburn Island, while Sugar Island, the rendezvous of canoeists, is now to be known by the more artistic name of Mulcaster. Seeley's Bay becomes Seeley and Fairfield East simply Fairfield. These are but a few examples of the changes which the Geographic Board has wrought in its deliberations on the nomenclature of this section of Canada during the past twelve months. Special attention has been paid to the Thousand Islands and many are the familiar names which will be dropped in the official geographies, but still probably retained in local circles. Nevertheless the person who now refers to Easton as Easton's Corners or to DeWattville Island as Gull Island, will law himself open to a charge of inaccuracy or even ignorance.

OBITUARY

The Late John Blakely.

John Blakely, 106 Montreal street, passed away Thursday evening at the age of seventy-two years. The deceased was born in Huntingdon, Que., and at an early age came to Kingston, where he was a well-known sailor. After sailing on the lakes for a number of years, he was employed by S. Anglin & Co., with whom he worked until about eight years ago, when he retired. In religion the late Mr. Blakely was an Anglican, being an attendant of St. George's Cathedral, and in politics a conservative. He is survived by no immediate relatives.

Late James Gray, Colebrook.

One of the best known residents of the county passed away on Saturday last at Colebrook, when death called James Gray, after an illness of a complication of diseases. The deceased was born seventy-seven years ago, and had been living in the one locality for the last eighteen years. During his residence in the district he was a prominent Orangeman, and the members of the Orange lodge took charge of the funeral, attending the service, at which Rev. M. Burmer, Yarker circuit, officiated. The funeral was from his late residence to the Methodist Church, and the remains were interred in the Moscow cemetery on Monday.

The late Mr. Gray was well known as a tile builder, and carried on that trade for years. There is left to mourn his loss, besides two sons and four daughters, his wife, who has been an invalid for several years, and is now quite blind. The sons are living in the western states. The daughters are Mrs. N. Boyce, Colebrook; Mrs. Kitchen, Brockville; Mrs. Ferguson, Brockville, and Miss Annie, at home.

Late James McRory, Portland.

James McRory, a well-known and highly respected farmer, who lived in the township of Portland, and within two miles of the village of Sydenham, died on Sunday afternoon, the last day of April. He was in his eighty-sixth year, and had suffered for the last four months from a broken hip, yet he kept bright and hopeful, but finally his strength gave way.

The funeral services were conducted in his late home by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Read. An instructive and comforting sermon was preached to a large company of relatives and friends. He leaves two sons and three daughters Elmer, with whom he lived; John, who resides in Kingston; Mrs. Alexander Smith, of Elginburg; Mrs. John Moore, of Hartington, and Mrs. Frederick McWilliams, of Yarker.

Fled From the Indians.

Mrs. Adeline M. Byam, daughter of the late Jonathan McCurdy, a prominent United Empire Loyalist and a pioneer of Belleville, and granddaughter of Stuart Barry, a former Governor of Pennsylvania, who died in Toronto recently, numbered among her experiences that of being forced to flee for her life from a band of marauding Indians. It was at her early home in Minnesota that she had to flee with her four small children to Buffalo on account of Indian risings. Her husband was at that time serving in the American Civil war. After the American Civil war was over she went to Toronto with her husband, as their home had been destroyed.

For her relief work in behalf of French war sufferers, Mrs. Edith Wharton, the novelist, has been presented the French Legion of Honor medal.

Chicago has women's political clubs which take up the matter of inquiring into the efficiency of the candidates for office.

Miss Grace B. Finney, head of the circulation department of the public library of Washington, handed over 300,000 books last year.

SATURDAY'S ILLUSTRATED WHIG.

Saturday's Illustrated Whig will be one of unusual excellence, quite in keeping with our endeavor to make each issue a little better than the one preceding.

Among the local pictures, we will show a splendid large scene of the ice jam off Macdonald Park in the winter of 1906. It gives one some idea of what Lake Ontario can do when it takes a notion.

Among the Kingstonians whose pictures are reproduced in this issue are the following:

- Corp. P. Walker.
- Pte. Allan B. Haffner.
- Pte. Howard Salsbury.
- Drummer Norman E. Hastey.
- William G. Craig and Gordon M. Craig, grandsons of the late William Craig, "Lord of Glenburnie."
- Gunner George Self.
- Pte. Arthur Greer.

The Whig also reproduces in this issue nine very attractive pictures of some of Napanee's beauty spots, which will give our readers a very fair idea of the many attractive places in Napanee and vicinity.

The out-of-town pictures are of unusual excellence this week. The biggest cut is one occupying about two-thirds of a page, which gives a bird's-eye view of Paris in war time. It is a remarkable photo, and shows a German dirigible hovering over the city.

Among the other pictures are: Launching a destroyer at Sydney, Australia.

Australian Mounted Infantry leaving for the front.

Fishing on the Red River and the Lake-of-the-Woods.

New York National Guard quelling strike riots.

With the Americans in Mexico.

Harbor of Marseilles, France, where Russian troops landed.

School room and church services in wine cellars in France.

Allied Generals and Premiers in conference at Paris, etc., etc.

News of Troops in the City
(See also page 12.)

It has been decided that a complete field battery of artillery of 134 men will be taken from "C" Battery, R.C.H.A., to Petawawa camp under the command of Capt. W. E. Steacy. The remainder of the men will be left here as a depot so that the recruiting will continue as usual.

The 146th Battalion are adopting strenuous recruiting methods so that the remainder of the men for the battalion will be obtained immediately and allow the unit to go into camp at Barriefield at the full strength of 1,153 men. The firm of Lindsay Piano Co. has generously allowed part of their window to be taken up with a large thermometer which gives the number of recruits and men in the battalion. The number is steadily increasing.

On Friday morning a tent was put up in the Market Square and a recruiting officer will be constantly in charge.

There was a very satisfactory rehearsal of the 146th Battalion minstrel show put on in the City Hall on Thursday evening. There was a full attendance and the complete show was rehearsed. C. G. M. Sergt. W. McPardridge was in charge and by his energy inspired action in every one taking part. On Friday evening next one of the best shows ever put on in the Grand Opera House will be produced. The principals are taking a keen interest in the full company is working strenuously in their efforts to make the show intensely interesting.

SILK SHIRT WAISTS
FEATURE WIDE STRIPE.

Smart New Models Fashioned For Tailored and Sports Wear of Silk.

Among the new favorites for spring are the chic little striped silk blouses—vari-colored stripes on oyster-white backgrounds. Simplicity in design is an outstanding feature of these models, which turn particular attention towards the cut of the sleeve, and sufficient ornamentation in a button or two and their own well-designed lines. There is a contrast supplied by the plain collar and cuffs—sometimes repeated in the girdle, which passes twice around the waist and ties with long ends flying. One smart little blouse for wear with a white silk sports suit was in broad rose and white candy-striped silk. This model emphasized the double-breasted front fastening—crossing over in broad revers—and buttoning with a double-row of pink bone buttons stitched on with white silk twist. The cuffs are wide and collar were of sheerest rose lawn stitched in white and all the seams were hem-stitched, carrying out the same effective combination. The sports hat made to wear with this blouse was in the same wide pink-and-white stripe, and ornamented with a single large white kid poppy.

Another very pretty waist in silk shown by one of the exclusive local shops was an effective and picturesque model of the smock variety, falling loose over the skirt to the hip line, just slightly drawn in by a rich blue girdle of woven silk. The trimmings were of the deep blue also, and the body part of the waist in natural shade, pongee smocked in blue. The vogue of making hats to match was again illustrated in the jaunty little stiff sailor of silk and straw.

THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand

Those who saw the "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" in the legitimate and those who read the book, will not grasp the true message of the author's thought, unless they see it on the screen with Charlotte Walker in the principal character. Miss Walker is shown at the Grand for the last half of the week and fast evening's patronage has been acknowledgment of her popularity. Othello's "The Doctor of the Afternoon Arm"; "A Jitney Driver's Romance," which is very funny and the Topical Travel series, Dan Gracy in a comedy singing offering made a hit. His songs were new and lively and offered in a somewhat different style, while Collins and Hart in a burlesque on strong stunts offered something new and original and at the same time laughable. It is a good bill and should attract capacity houses for the balance of the week.

Musical Comedy Coming.

"Nobody Home," a musical comedy abounding in novelties from scenic and musical standpoints, and with the original cast headed by Lawrence Grossmith, Zoe Barnett, Charles Judels, Maude Odell, Mignon McGibney, Quentin Tod, Nigel Barrie, Carl Lyle, Helen Clarke, Alison McBain and forty others, will be presented at the Grand on Thursday evening, May 11th. There is a chorus of twenty-five pretty girls and an augmented orchestra.

At Strand Theater.

Portrays Siren-Woman

The "vampire" woman is a favorite type for photoplaywrights to choose in writing for the screen. Woman as the siren who lures men to destruction has been a subject for poets and authors ever since old Homer told the story of Circe. The heroine of "The Sphinx," the Red Feather feature, which comes to the Griffin theatre on Friday and Saturday is of the siren-vampire type. "The Sphinx" is a dancer who has a heart of flint and a soul which is "a sea of despair." She lures her victims to their doom with a laugh for their agonies. When the opportunity comes, she finds herself in the possession of a very real, troublesome heart, which torments her with anxiety at the foolish passion of a youth, and which causes her very real emotion when the "one man" comes into her life. This powerful play is the justification of the siren, presenting, at last, her story from her own point of view. The role is splendidly interpreted by Miss Effie Shannon, while Mr. Keley is equally well cast as the "one-man." Griffin's, Friday and Saturday.

Creator's Great Triumph

One of the most interesting events in store for Kingston is the appearance here, May 17th, of Creator and his band. In speaking of this noted organization the Boston Globe says: "The secret of Creator's success is his leading. It represents sheer abandonment, by a passionate nature, to the emotions of the music. Creator is Italian—he throws reserve to the winds, and there you are. The audience watches the wonderful leader even as his men do. There is no show-off; Creator evidently, and beyond the possibility of mistake by even the slightest, feels every motion to which he gives expression. At the end of the concert the audience refused to disperse, and after Creator had been called out half a dozen times in order to get rid of his admirers, he got his band together and repeated 'The Star Spangled Banner,' with an accompaniment of musical fireworks that sent everybody home in an exalted state of mental elation."
