

PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE GREAT SEA FIGHT

1.—A view of part of the deck of a British warship which shared in the great naval battle. Note the holes through the iron cover of the hatchway.
 2.—The scarred mast and upper works of a British warship which took part in the great naval battle.

3.—Looking along the battle scarred side of a British warship which took part in the great sea fight.
 4.—After the fight. Debris on the deck of a British warship which took part in the great battle.

5.—A shell hole in the side of one of the British warships which took part in the great battle.
 6.—Still smiling, officers of the H. M. S. ———, after the great sea fight in which their ship played a truly British part.
 7.—Shell hole in a side of one of the British warships which took part in the great battle.

Photograph: Lance-Corporal W. A. Yolland, Port Hope.

a brilliant manner, to which the doctor made a fitting reply of thanks.

Ellen McQuig, both of Belleville, were quietly married on Tuesday.

reference, with a view to establishing a Ministry of Commerce.

millions of shells.

Nothing great is easy.

—PLATO.