Opportunity, according to a well-known poem, comes but once; while another equally meritorious poem states it is continually knocking at one's door. Both are relatively true of Life Insurance.

The opportunity to insure is yours to-day, but owing to the uncertainty of life, may never come again. If you are absolutely certain that you will live to a ripe old age, in the full enjoyment of your health, the opportunity will no doubt come often; but are you? Our business is to carry the risk on your life.
