THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.
An entire change of programme will be given at the Grand Opera House on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, when the celebrated film star, Marguerite Clark, will be seen in a charming photoplay based on the popular and enchanting story, "Molly Make-Believe." Kingston theatre-goers need no introduction to this familiar star, and in this picture she is said to appear at her best. A two-reel Universal photoplay, a comedy picture, and the Paramount Topical Budget will also be shown. The vaudeville selected for these three days is exceptionally good. Miss Kathleen Carlton Hart, Kingston's most favorite singer, will be heard in an entirely new line of popular songs. Bern Brothers in a hand-balancing and acrobatic act complete the splendid programme for the first three days of next week.

At The Strand.
The programme booked by the management of the Strand Theatre for the last three days of next week is one of special merit and strength and should draw big houses. The feature is one of the latest releases of the famous Triangle Plays in 5 acts, entitled "The Flying Torpedo" featuring John Emerson and Bessie Love. It is a spectacular and timely play on "Preparedness," staged under the supervision of D. W. Griffith, the world's foremost film producer. It is intensely gripping and shows the marvelous workings of a new invention, "The Wireless Torpedo" and how it demolishes armies and navies. It is one of the up-to-the-minute subjects and played to packed houses the entire week that it showed in Shea's big vaudeville theatre Toronto three weeks ago. A 2 act Keystone, "The Village Blacksmith," featuring Hank Mann and Pony Moran, along with other good subjects, complete the bill.

At Griffin's.
Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Payne, the foremost stellar combination in motion pictures, are starred in the big Metro wonder-play, "Man and his Soul," which will be seen here at Griffin's Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. This marvellous feature picture was produced by the Quality Pictures Corporation for Metro, and is easily the best production in which Mr. Bushman and Miss Payne have ever appeared. They are supported by an exceptionally strong cast which includes Helen Dunbar, Grace Valentine, Edward Brennan, Charles H. Prince, John Davidson, and other stage and screen artists.

Lake Ontario Park.
The management of Lake Ontario Park has secured for Monday evening and next week an excellent programme. The vaudeville consists of Frank Clayton in a musical act, playing on several different instruments; also a comedy musical goat and another good act. The pictures will consist of a Pathe news act, showing the latest events in three reels. There will also be several comedy pictures.

BITTEN BY DOG.
Face of Little Cusheadall Child is Scarred.
The little child of Fred Bawder, Cusheadall, was bitten by a dog, which, it is alleged, belonged to John Ahearn, of the same place. Mr. Bawder appeared before Magistrate Hunter Saturday morning and took out a summons, charging Mr. Ahearn with keeping a vicious dog which bit his child, causing bodily harm. Bawder said that Ahearn had refused to shoot his dog. He had his child with him, and its face was badly marked by the dog's teeth.

Plenty of Cotton Bandages
The Canadian Red Cross wish to make it known that a cable from England states that no more bed pads nor rolled cotton bandages should be sent until further notice, as these can now be obtained in England, thus saving cost of shipment.

Good Spray for Roses
The collector of customs, who has a very fine rose bed, recommends the following spray: 4 oz. cassia chips, boil 15 minutes in one gallon of water, strain, and add 4 oz. of soft soap, then add two gallons of water.

Our National Holiday

Forty-nine years ago this day (July 1st, 1867), the confederation of the Canadian provinces was effected. The foundation was laid, strong and deep, of the nation, the position of which is clearer to-day and the future of it so very bright and promising. Our people are given to much celebrating, perhaps too much. Some of them are willing to observe any number of anniversaries in the year. Certain days and epochs are worthy of commemoration. Each has connected with it a significance that cannot be too deeply impressed upon the mind. Our national day has never, however, been regarded with the favor or affection which its importance warranted.

Passing events, and above all the anniversary of our nationhood, command attention. Canada has been giving evidence, as never before, of the growth within it of a spirit and zeal and ambition that mark the existence of a young nation in America. The manner in which it has rallied to the support of the Mother Country is a tribute to conditions of an ideal and commendable character.

There was no obligation on the part of this country to make any sacrifice of life or treasure in the war. But no sooner had Britain, as one of the Allies, become involved in a great conflict on behalf of liberty, honor, independence, and righteousness, than Canada proffered her aid, and, as in the South African war, her troops by their gallantry have won the praises of the world.

One year from to-day will see the close of the half century of confederation, and it should be signalized by a celebration worthy of the name. Let us hope that the war will be over; that the awful slaughter which has attended Germany's lust for power, will be at an end; that peace will brood over the land, and that the Dominion will honor the half century of its existence and consecration to high and noble ideals.

The men who made confederation possible had a vision. They saw beyond their times. They knew, or divined, that the plans to which they lent their countenance, with regard to which there was wonderful unanimity of opinion, had apparently the direction of Providence. These are to be honored, and all who, following in their footsteps, have been content to cultivate the spirit, the fibre, the strength of mind and will and heart, which the care of a great nation demands.

WOMEN BAKERS NEEDED.

To Keep the Price of Bread From Rising in Kingston.

The Women's Emergency Corps was asked whether any women had signed up to do the work of bakers who have enlisted. As was announced in Friday's Whig, several of the local master bakers have been forced to go out of business owing to their inability to secure help. It was thought that perhaps some of the women might have signed up to take the place of the enlisted men, but so far none have done so. Officials stated that some action may be taken shortly, as there are doubtless some women capable of baking bread and keeping down the price.

Change in Train Service.

Commencing July 3rd, Canadian Pacific trains Nos. 37 and 38 will arrive and depart from Toronto Union Station, instead of North Toronto. These are the new trains operating between Toronto and Ottawa.

Corpl. Wainwright Recovering.

Lance-Corpl. Frederick Wainwright has written to his mother, Mrs. Wm. Wainwright, 9 Markland street, stating that he was wounded in the elbow on June 13th, and although the wound is severe and painful, he is getting along nicely.

146th Church Parade.

The 146th Battalion will parade to St. Andrew's Church Sunday morning, July 2nd, at 11 o'clock. Service by the Rev. Dr. Gordon, Queen's University.

Bad Boy Sent Up.

A fourteen-year-old boy from Joyceville appeared before County Magistrate Hunter Saturday morning charged with an unnatural offence and was sent to the Victoria School at Toronto until he is twenty-one years of age.
