When! But it's hot. Old Sol was out with his golden raiment yesterday and created a profound impression throughout the city. The day was oppressively hot, and, although it is an improvement on the rain, a happy medium is desirable. Great numbers of citizens took advantage of the warm weather to go down the river and canoes and skiffs were in great demand. The soda fountains did a rushing business and an unlimited demand for ice cream and soft drinks was made.

PREHISTORIC MEN AND GIRLS

LATTER WORE LOW NECKS AND SHORT SKIRTS.

Witty and instructive Address Was Delivered to the Students of Queen's Summer School By Rev. Dr. Macgillivray—Modern Barbarisms.

"Prehistoric Man" was the subject of an illuminating and instructive address which Rev. Dr. Macgillivray delivered to the students of Queen's Summer School in the physics room of the University Tuesday afternoon. Speaking in the rough, declared the speaker, prehistoric man, first and last, belonged to the age of stone—the age when all human implements were of wood or stone. Previous to the coming of prehistoric man there was the ape-man or the man-ape, the connecting link between higher apes and man.

Prehistoric Hearth. Coming to prehistoric man, the speaker told of the hearth of a hearth in Jersey, at depth of twenty feet. In this hearth were the big stones that had propped up the fire, and there were the ashes. And scattered around were the charred remains of food-refuse. Some of the bones belonged to the woolly rhinoceros, some to the mammoth, some to the horse and some to the reindeer. Amongst the food-refuse were found thirteen human teeth, which belonged to a person between twenty and thirty years of age, and the dental expert said that their roots beat all records. The anatomist stated that this indicated an immensely powerful jaw and massive brow-ridges, a human of average brain and very early type. Those who feasted around that fire left plenty of their knives lying about—well-made flint knives. The legitimate shelter was that here in this shelter was a rendezvous of hunters of the ice-age, who could kill the biggest beasts that roamed the plains, and then carve and cook a luscious steak, lick their chops over roast and marrow, sit around a glowing fire and have a good time, and keep the human race going 250,000 years ago!

Development of Man. The development of pre-historic man was traced in graphic and witty words. The human type advanced until there came the new age of stone. Flint weapons and utensils were polished to a smooth surface. Pottery was invented. Cave shelters and dwellings were in more common use. The men of this age began the domestication of animals, probably first turning the wolf into the dog. Herding and primitive husbandry were begun and roaming and hunting declined. Settled life began and communities appeared.

Conditions became better, and the etchings on ivory and bone and the remarkable sketches and paintings of animals in the caves of the Pyrenees showed that the neolithic man was no mean artist.

Low Necks and Short Skirts. In a rock shelter in Catalonia, in Spain a remarkable group of paintings was found some years ago, representing young women wearing dresses low in the neck and short in the skirt, like a fashion plate of last week, but without shoes, and the hair gathered at the top of the head and quite artistically arranged. The figures were supple and graceful in the silhouette, and about ten inches high. The colors were red and yellow ochre, white chalk and carbon. These drawings were very, very old, probably belonging to pleistocene time, 50,000, 60,000, 100,000 years ago or more.

In one sense the man of to-day was far removed from the primitive conditions of his race. In another sense he was not far removed, and still shared, to an astonishing degree, of primitive ideas, primitive defects and primitive shortcomings.

The Savage Reappears. "The atrocities committed by our enemy in the present war," declared the speaker, "show what a foul beast may lurk beneath the whitest skin, the shapeliest head and the widest knowledge. We have far to go yet to wipe out the beast, and let the ape and tiger die."

To show that prehistoric baseness still existed, the speaker told of the devilish work done by the Austrians in a drug store in the Serbian town of Shabatz, which they captured and sacked. When things quieted down the druggist returned to see whether anything of his shop had been left standing. He found the shelves, with their contents, apparently untouched, but he decided to examine some of the drugs, liquids and powders, only to discover, to his horror, that the poisons had been mixed up with the harmless drugs, and the bottles and packages put back on the shelves. Death was in every one of them, and a skilled hand did it. Nothing primitive or savage could surpass the nameless barbarism and badness of an act like that.

Man had not changed as much as he might wish to think that he had. Prof. MacClement, director of the school, conveyed the thanks of the interested audience to Dr. MacGillivray.

J. T. Curtis, of Ottawa, a student of the school, also said a few words of praise. On exhibition were several articles made by prehistoric man. There was also an excellent piece of pottery exhibited, which was found in Pittsburgh township.

George Timms Improving. Mrs. T. W. Timms, Frontenac street, has received a letter from her son, Trooper Geo. Timms, from Shorncliffe hospital. He enlisted with the 8th C.M.R., but before leaving Canada was transferred to the Royal Canadian Dragoons. About the middle of June he was taken ill with diphtheria, and has been quite sick for some time. His letter states, however, that he is now improving, and, when the letter was written on June 23rd, he stated that he would likely be in the hospital for about a week more.

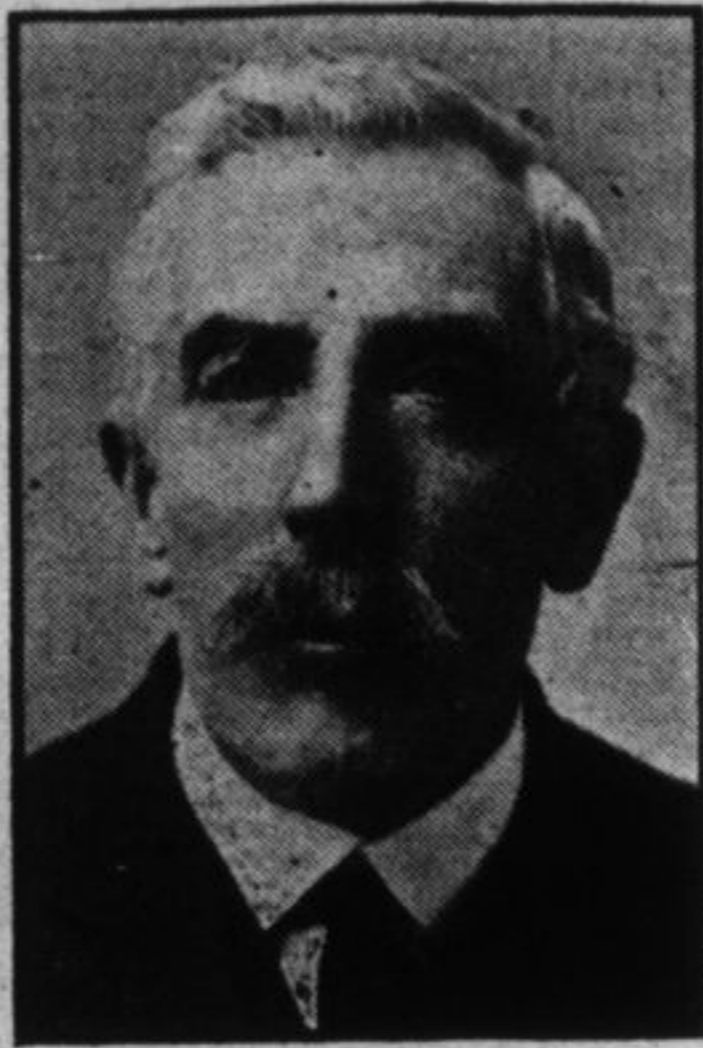

AWARDED THE D. C. M. FOR HIS BRAVERY.

Brother of Pte. Arthur Voryard of the R. M. C., Remembered for Gallant Work.

Pte. Arthur Voryard, of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, who is now at the Royal Military College, has received word that his brother, Pte. William Voryard, whose home is at "Harwood", High Road, North Finchley, has been awarded the D. C. M. for conspicuous bravery.

Pte. Voryard, who is in the Middlesex Regiment, was gassed in a recent German attack, but he continued in the work, of bringing in the dead and wounded for three hours afterwards, under heavy fire. At last he fell unconscious, and did not recover until after his arrival at St. Thomas' Hospital, London. He has three brothers serving in the army.

FIFTY-EIGHT YEARS WITH WHIG Samuel Reid Joined the Whig Staff in the Year 1858.

SAMUEL REID On the 12th of July, 1858, Samuel Reid, Queen street, became an employee of the Whig. That is just fifty-eight years ago, and this genial old printer is still a member of the Whig staff, though not quite as spry as he might wish to be. He still wears the same old sunny smile, however. The Whig staff of this later day holds the employee of the newspaper's earlier days in high esteem, and wishes him much happiness.

OTTAWA CITY LEAGUE WOULD LIKE A GAME.

Capt. "Nick" Bawlf Is Asked To Arrange For Match Next Month.

Capt. Nick Bawlf, 154th Battalion, received a letter this morning from the Ottawa City League Baseball Association, asking him to make arrangements with an all-star camp and all-star Kingston team, to meet the best Ottawa can produce sometime next month.

The Ottawa All-Stars, and who are all amateurs, are to tour Ontario and want games here. It is more than likely the Capitals will be given the opportunity of showing here.

S. E. Trotter, of the City Baseball League, will be asked to consider the proposition.

MODERN DAVID SLEW A GERMAN COMPANY.

Ancaster, Ont., Lad Worked Machine Gun, Causing Great Slaughter.

Hamilton, July 12.—A thrilling story of how Private Alexander Woodworth, an Ancaster boy, slew a whole company of Germans before he was killed himself, is contained in a letter received from the dead boy's chum, E. E. Letson.

Woodworth, in charge of a machine gun, though he was wounded, fought the Germans single-handed. Three times he was hit himself before being mortally wounded. The letter says the gallant soldier practically mowed the Huns down by the score before a bullet drilled him through the heart. He was found with his hand still clutching the trigger of the gun.

HAD GREAT FORTITUDE.

Was Buried in Tunnel Fired by Germans.

Ottawa, July 12.—An Ottawa soldier writing to his friends at home from the trenches in Belgium says: "A wonderful thing happened on our front the other day. The Huns counter-mined one of our tunnels and caught 12 of our men in the 'face.' One man used his head, moved back at once to where the mine broke through so as to get as much fresh air as possible. He then made a bed of sand bags and lay down to wait for any possible chance there might be of being dug out. He had nothing to eat or drink, and after six and a half days the tunnel was opened.

"An officer went in and found that eleven of the men were dead, but could not find the 12th. When he came out of the tunnel he found that the twelfth man had crawled out of a hole on his own steam." "Not only had he a record of the days he was in, but also a lot of valuable information as to sounds of tunnelling that the Boches were doing. He surely had a wonderful vitality."

Street Car Hit.

About 6.30 o'clock on Tuesday evening a street car was hit by a passing automobile at the corner of Barrie and Princess streets. The fender was jerked off the front of the car and parts were strewn over the street. The car was taken to the foot of the street and the passengers were transferred to another car.

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN PUT ON FLESH

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction. Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those single Sargol tablets. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "fat-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol gives to the charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. This people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package. If you find a druggist who is unable to supply you, send $1.00 money order or registered letter to the National Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, and a complete ten days' treatment will be sent you postpaid in plain wrapper.

Archbishop Spratt held confirmation on Monday at Marysville, and on Tuesday at Madoc. He was accompanied by Rev. Father McNeil.

The war of words that is waged on the Spring Hill triangle by the kitchen, dining room and the grocery store, could be avoided if you would put a "safety first" sentinel on guard.
