A YOUNG MAN DROWNED

WILLIAM WELCH LOST HIS LIFE ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

While He Was in Swimming Below Cataract Bridge—Was Good Swimmer and Believed He Suffered Cramps.

William Welch, a well-known taxi-driver, lost his life on Sunday afternoon while swimming off one of the coal wharfs below Cataract bridge. He and a number of young men and boys were in the water, which is very deep, when suddenly Welch disappeared. He was a good swimmer, and it is believed that he suffered cramps. The accident occurred about 1.30 o'clock, and the body was not recovered until three hours later, although a couple of divers were at work and several men were engaged with grappling hooks. The body was recovered by one of the divers. A call was sent to S. S. Corbett as soon as the drowning took place, and as soon as the body was recovered it was removed to Mr. Corbett's undertaking parlors.

A crowd of about two hundred people congregated at the scene of the fatality after the news got abroad, and they waited until the body was recovered, watching the work of the divers and the men handling the grappling hooks. The police were notified, and Constable Thomas Mullinger assisted in the search for the body of the young man.

From what could be learned of the sad affair, it appears that the deceased swam from one wharf to another, and was on his way back to the other side when he went down. The clothing of the young man was found on the wharf.

Deceased was twenty-seven years of age and was unmarried. He resided with his mother at 205 University avenue, and was also survived by two brothers, Frank, bartender at the Colander Hotel, and Alfred, of Hamilton. He was well known around the city, and had a wide circle of friends, all of whom were shocked at his untimely end. For the past four weeks he had been running a taxi to Barrieffield Camp, but previous to his had been operating a taxi for C. H. Finkle & Company. He had been employed by the latter company for four years. The sympathy of a large circle of friends will be extended to the members of the family.

Frank Welch, brother of the deceased, hurried to the scene as soon as he received word of the fate of his brother and assisted in the search for the body.

The body was recovered by Matthew Murphy, the well-known letter carrier. Pte. P. F. Gifford, "C" Company of the 155th Battalion, also worked for the body.

Deceased had been busy at a local garage all morning, and it was very warm, told his mother that he would go for a swim before coming home to his dinner. He went down to the water about one o'clock and half an hour later he was drowned.

CIRCUS TO-MORROW!

Big Show Close at Hand—Going to Meet Them.

The "Coop and Lent" new united monster shows will arrive in Kingston on July 18 and it is a safe bet that the small boy and his sister in large numbers will be waiting by the railroad sidings to see the trains arrive, anxious to see all that is possible of that which has furnished them with wonderful day dreams ever since the pictures were put out and its coming announced.

It is a foregone conclusion that the usual circus, with Willie and Johnnie are used to doing about the house will have to wait, for when will they ever get another chance to see the camels and the elephants, and they may feed them peanuts, or hear the lion's growl and the hyena's laugh and the blood curdling noises of the innumerable other animals in their gilded dens.

Yes! It will be a great day for the small folks, and the big folks, too, for that matter, for the circus is the one amusement institution that the old boys and girls as well as the young ones never tire of. The street parade which leaves the show grounds at 10.30 o'clock tomorrow morning is said to be one of the finest pageants ever presented with a circus and gives a good idea of the wonderful resources of the Coop and Lent organization.

A branch ticket office will be opened at 10.00 a. m. at McAuley's Book Store, where reserved seats may be obtained for both performances without any extra charge whatever.

Footbridge Completed.
Capt. William Leslie reports that the work on the footbridge alongside Cataract bridge has been completed, and will at once be put into service. It is five feet four inches wide except at the drawbridge, where it is a little less.

SERVE CHRIST THROUGH REST

REV. J. D. ELLIS TALKED OF HOLIDAYING FOR MANKIND.

Get Away From Carking Care and Nerve-Racking Duties—A Change of Environment is a Splendid Tonic.

Rev. J. D. Ellis is winning a warm place in the affections of the congregation of Queen Street Methodist Church. He is diligent in service, sympathetic and persuasive in manner, and winning in style. He is eminently good, his whole attitude is that of a thoughtful, helpful pastor. His sermons are strong and comprehensive. He is broad-minded in his views of Christian department. Sunday morning he preached a sermon on "Christ's Summer Holiday," in which he urged a change of occupation and a change of scene for tired, jaded humanity, alert and anxious in stirring times. It was well for all who could to seek quietude and rest for weary brain and nerve-racked system. Life in the open, amidst the beauties of nature, away from the city's whirl and bustle, was a splendid tonic. He did not advocate idleness or sloth, but he did believe in a change of environment. Christ went to the desert to rest, but he served there as he did throughout His pilgrimage on earth. Intellectual effort and nervous strain demanded cessation, and he rejoiced when his people availed themselves of the opportunity to get away. Thin churches had no terror for him under such circumstances. One good brother said to him on Saturday, "I am going six miles into the country with my family and I may not be here for church," and his reply was, "Don't come to church; have worship where you are going, and enjoy the brief respite from carking care." This was his feeling and his advice to worn manhood during the summer. However, this was no license to keep away from church while they were at home. Christ advocated rest and comfort to all His people, but he did not tell His nervous disciples after the murder of John the Baptist to "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile."

TO PROVE HE'S NOT AFRAID

HE HAS BEEN JESTED ABOUT HIS BRAVERY.

Friends Said That He Did Not Dare To Enlist, Despite His Assertions That He Would Like To—Goes to Orangemen's Celebration and Joins Army.

Watertown, N.Y., Times.
Because many of his fellow workmen at No. 4 paper mill had told him he was afraid to join the Canadian army and referred to him in a joking way as a coward, John A. Holmes, of 832 West Main street, took all of these things seriously, and as a result he is now a member of the 75th Canadian Artillery now being recruited in Kingston, Ont., for overseas service. He went to Brockville, Ont., with the Orangemen's lodge Wednesday to attend the celebration in that city. His wife accompanied him. Upon their arrival there Mrs. Holmes said that he left her at the train, and when he returned to meet her at noon she learned that he had joined the Canadian army.

Mrs. Holmes said at her home today that while her husband had been very enthusiastic about joining the army, and that he talked with many about it, they all joked with him and never thought for one moment that he seriously had such a thought. She said that he had been a member of the 5th Field Battery of Deseronto, Ont., for the past twelve years, and had drilled each summer with them. She said he continually talked about joining the army. She said she often asked him in a joking way why he didn't join, if he desired to so badly. Men where he worked also made jesting remarks about him, but said he was afraid to enlist.

While his wife and two children, Charles, aged thirteen, and Phyllis, aged eleven, are heart-broken, Mrs. Holmes said to-day that she would not take any action to have him discharged. She said she believed that something worse might happen if she did so.

Mrs. Holmes said that after her husband enlisted, her friends told her that she could prevent it if she desired to, but she said she would not interfere, and returned home alone from Brockville Wednesday night.

Mrs. Holmes hopes that her husband will never see overseas service. She said to-day that army officers told her that her husband would be in training at Barrieffield camp for at least ten months before leaving for England, and that he would probably be there a year before going to the front. She hopes that the war will be ended by that time. She said her husband enlisted for one year or until the end of the present war.

Mrs. Holmes and her children will go to Kingston August 1st and will spend the month with Mr. Holmes there.

Nurse Going Overseas.
Miss Mary Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson, Moscow, chief operating nurse in the New York Hospital in New York, arrived in the city on Saturday, and will report at Montreal in the course of a few days, from which city she will go overseas with a hospital unit which is being mobilized there.

In Kingston On a Visit.
Misses Gertrude and Christine Lovett, South Windham, Maine, arrived in the city on Monday and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith, King street, for a week. They will then go to Brownsburg, Que., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hooper.

R. M. C. Man Killed in Battle.
Capt. E. P. Henderson, of the Indian army, who graduated from the Royal Military College in 1906, was killed in the great drive now being made by the British on the western front.
