CANADA'S BUFFALO HERD HAS STEADILY GROWN.

Have Fared Well in the New National Park at Wainwright—From Four Little Bison Calves Captured in 1873 the Herd Has Grown Until It Now Numbers 2,077.

The Canadian Government is meeting with signal success in its efforts to preserve the buffalo from the swift extinction which threatened it a few years ago. This is shown in a report on the growth of the herd at Wainwright Buffalo Park, Alberta, just issued by J. B. Harkin, Dominion Parks Commissioner.

The report shows that in April, 1909, the herd numbered 402. Since then it has gradually increased at the rate of about 200 a year, until today it numbers 2,077.

The history of this herd, now the largest in the world, dates back to 1873, when a Peard o'Reille Indian captured four little bison calves—two bulls and two heifers—by cutting them out of a stampeded herd on the Flathead Reservation in Montana. In accordance with a peculiar characteristic, often noticed by old plainmen, these young creatures obediently followed the horses of the hunters who had slain or driven off their mothers.

The Indian in question gave them to the Mission of St. Ignace, where they were kept as pets and became as domesticated as ordinary cattle. When the heifers were four years old each had a calf. From that time on they gradually increased in number, until, in 1884, there were thirteen head, and finding the care of them too great a tax the mission decided to sell them. Ten head were bought for $250 apiece by C. C. A. Allard and Michel Pabio, who were ranching on the reservation, and were shrewd enough to see that specimens of what was even then almost an extinct animal would eventually become very valuable.

The herd increased under their careful supervision, and in a few years it became possible to sell specimens at high prices. Some idea of the average rate of increase may be deduced from the observed fact that half the cows give birth to calves every year, while twin calves are not uncommon. As a rule the bison calf is a very hardy creature. There are instances of the Pabio-Allard calves finding their feet in less than a minute after birth and showing fight within half an hour. In 1906 the Hon. Frank Oliver, then Minister of the Interior, obtained for the Dominion Government an option on the 600 unsold head belonging to Pabio and Allard, and eventually they were all bought for $200,000. The "round-up" lasted two months, and was carried out by 75 cowboys, horsemen picked for their ability from Alberta, and was accomplished with a loss of less than one per cent.

Since it became the property of the Canadian Government this great herd has fared well in the new National Park at Wainwright. The park is becoming a favorite resort of the traveler. It has an area of 150 square miles and is securely enclosed with a high fence of wire.

Canada's Fire Loss. "In war time, and while many interests are urging thrift and economy, the Canadian people are burning up their created resources at a much greater rate this year than last," is the statement which appears in a bulletin issued by the Conservative Commission recently.

During the first five months of 1916 the fire loss in Canada has exceeded that of January to May, 1915, by approximately $3,000,000, or $600,000 per month, continues the bulletin. At this rate of increase our fire loss will exceed that of 1915 by $7,200,000.

"Canada has need of all her financial resources. She is borrowing money to carry on the war, and is paying 5 per cent. interest thereon. The additional fire loss of 1916 would therefore pay the interest charge on the recent war loan of $100,000,000, and would pay $2,200,000 of the principal. Canada's average annual fire loss, of over $23,000,000, would pay 5 per cent. interest on approximately half a billion dollars. Our fire loss is, however, some thing for which we are receiving no value, either financial or patriotic; it is simply a tax, due in great part to carelessness, which Canadians appear willing to pay, and which they, as a whole, are doing little to avert."

Kilts Order Modified. The order with regard to the Canadian soldiers wearing kilts, as announced by the Militia Department a few days ago, has been somewhat modified. The change is that while the department will not put the country to the extra expense of providing kilts instead of trousers for the Highland battalions, if the units or private people are willing to make up the difference in cost, then the battalions may have kilts. However, in no case will the department provide kilts at the country's expense in the future. They cost considerably more than trousers. While a few units may make up the difference in cost to keep the kilts, it is expected that in the majority of Highland battalions the historic dress will be superseded.

Two Days Enough for Him. Ernest Crowley, an ex-member of the Toronto police force, appointed deskman at the Brantford police station, left a note on his desk two days later saying he did not like the job and had quit. This is a record for short service.

People Should Know Who Do Civic Business. Ald. Hugh Nickle believes that the ratepayers should know who are the "city fathers" who attend to the city's business.

Two weeks ago the council could not get a quorum, and on Monday night it was late before the needed quorum could be secured. During the proceedings of council, Ald. Nickle wanted to know if the council could not take steps to have published in the newspapers a report showing the number of meetings attended by the different aldermen. He believed that the people should know who the absentees at the various meetings called.

Mayor Richardson stated that if the council so desired, there was nothing to prevent that body from getting information of that kind published for the benefit of the ratepayers.
