WORKING TWO MONTHS

DETECTIVES MADE ROUND-UP IN "PEN" CASE IN THIS TIME.

Paid Visit To Kingston Off and On During This Period—Two Men Suspected Were Closely Watched By the Sleuths.

The round-up of Guard John Brown and Lewis Martin on a charge of trafficking in "dope" for convicts at the penitentiary, was made inside of two months. The detectives have been in Kingston off and on for several days at a time during this period, but the entire case was made out and the two men accused placed under arrest in the time mentioned.

The round-up comes as a direct result of evidence given at the penitentiary investigation which was held during the fall of 1913. A batch of convicts were sworn at. The chief of investigation, and several of them declared that there were certain guards at the "pen" who were engaged in the "dope" business. The detectives were put on the trail two months ago, in order to see if the guilty parties could be caught.

While the detectives made an occasional visit to the big prison to get information, the bulk of the case was worked from the outside. Guard Brown and Lewis Martin were suspected, and their movements were watched very closely. The chief evidence of course was secured through the registered mail department at the local post office. Evidence was secured regarding who was receiving parcels, and as several parcels were being received by Martin this formed a clue for the sleuths to work on. Feeling satisfied that Brown had a package of "dope" in his possession after leaving Martin's hotel on Tuesday night, the detectives laid out their drag net and landed Brown. Martin was gathered in as a result of the statement made by Brown that he had been given the package of "dope" by Martin.

The penalty of three months on Brown was received with much surprise by citizens generally, as it was believed that the penalty for such an offence was much more severe. However, it was pointed out by J. L. Whiting, the Crown Attorney, that three months was the maximum penalty for such an offence. Magistrate Farrell, in imposing the sentence, stated that he felt that the penalty did not meet the case of Brown, who had been found guilty of trying to get drugs into the convicts. Such a penalty would meet the case had Brown been found guilty of endeavoring to get some of the ordinary luxuries into the convicts. Trying to get "dope" for them was far more serious.

Brown did not manifest any emotion when sentence was passed upon him. He gave every one the impression that he realized that he was up against it, and that he would be given a stiff dose. Brown is married, and has three or four children. He is about thirty years of age.

Martin, whose trial was put off for a day, sat in the prisoners' box during all the evidence which was being taken in the case against Brown, and listened very attentively to the stories told by the witnesses. He was very nervous, and appeared to feel his position keenly.

The case has stirred up considerable interest all over the city. Thursday and Friday the police court room was filled to the doors, and many were unable to gain admittance.

109TH BATTALION

Has Gone From Barrieffield Camp—Only 4,000 in Training.

Barrieffield Camp has lost the 109th Battalion which was authorized last September for Lindsay and during the winter months has been brought together and trained as a unit there by Lieut.-Col. J. H. Fen, formerly commandant of Fort Henry.

The battalion was well up to strength and left the camp grounds with cheers from those being left behind. At the station a very large crowd had gathered and though there was a few minutes delay through the train service everything went off satisfactorily as it allowed that much more time for the soldiers to see their friends and relatives.

The battalion leaving will bring the strength of Barrieffield Camp down to 4,000.

WORKED HERE BEFORE.

Thiel Detective On "Dope" Case Was In Kingston Four Years Ago.

Harry Bressot, the Thiel detective, who assisted in the arrest of Guard Brown and Lewis Martin, in a charge of endeavoring to get "dope" into the convicts at the penitentiary, worked in Kingston four years ago, when a young man named Walker, was placed under arrest for stealing goods from Grand Trunk freight cars. He has been in the business for some years, and has had considerable experience.

Your "Get-Away" Power in Summer is low. Summer brings mental and physical lassitude. The spirit is languid, the liver is lazy. Nature is trying to unload the toxins that come from heavy foods and lack of outdoor exercise. Help Nature to restore natural vigor and vim.
