51/4 yards 44-inch linen, Much work is saved in seam-sewing by placing the sections marked by tripple "TTT" perforations on the lengthwise fold of material as shown in the cutting guide. There are five of these sections, namely, the front and back gores of the skirt, back of the underblouse and jumper and collar section. Both the flat and standing coliar are laid on the lengthwise fold. The plecing for the front and back gores of the skirt are laid along the selvage edge of the linen, then along the upper row are arranged the jumper front, underblouse front and sleeve. The peplum is laid into position between the back of the underblouse and collar sections. Narrow linen braid with a fancy edge makes an effective trimming for the front of the waist, while buttons inish the ends of the belt.
