

Our photographer writes that every day some sick soldier is removed to the hospital at San Antonio. This time it was Sergt. William Dyson, of the 18th, a Spanish war veteran, thirty years with his company; he is suffering from pneumonia.

Many of the militiamen stationed at the border have been victims of the terrific heat, which scorches and blisters. Photo shows comrades removing member of 12th Regiment to hospital, after being overcome by the heat.

Large mouth and teeth of the white shark, which was captured in the ocean off Asbury Park, N.J. The fish weighed 250 lbs., and measured eight feet.

SHARKS KILL TWO AND MAIM ONE. Photo shows Albert O'Hara, of Matawan, N.J., chum of Lester Stillwell, who was killed by a shark in Matawan Creek. O'Hara was hit by the shark that killed young Stillwell and thrown several feet.

The capture of an eight-foot shark by fishermen off Asbury Park, N.J., on Thursday has again been the cause of thousands of bathers to forsake the surf for the safer environs of the beach. The shark, said to be a man-eater and certainly looking the part, is shown here in comparison with a child.

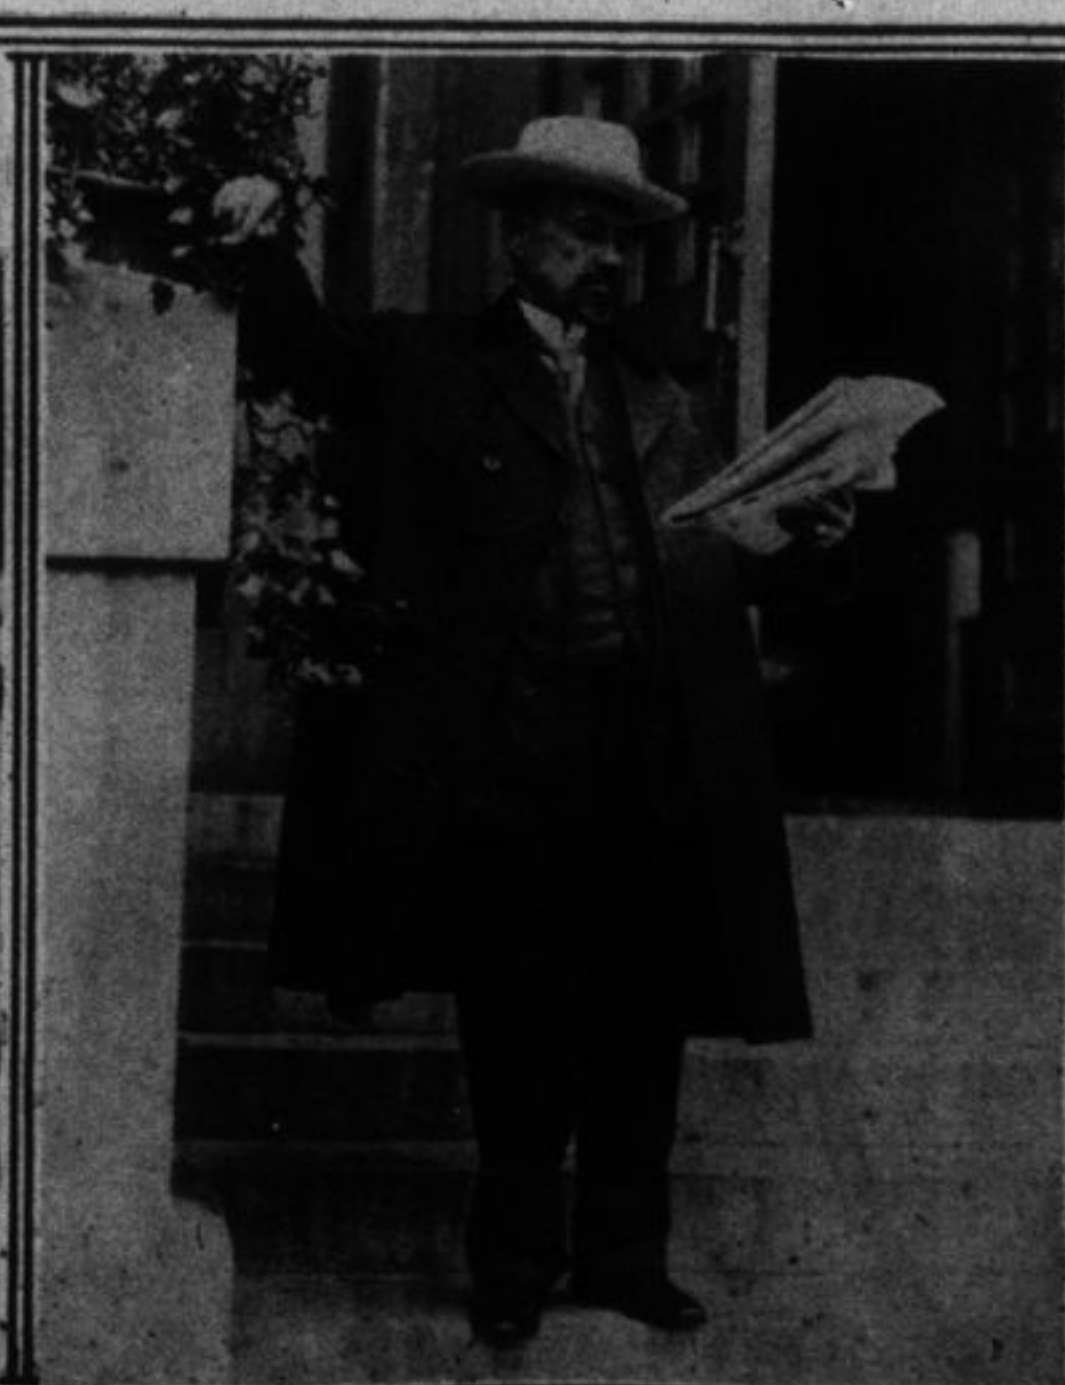

ONE FRIENDLY MEXICAN, AT LEAST. Members of the New York 71st make friends with a little Mexican boy at McAllen.

Every precaution is taken to prevent sniping by the Mexicans in any of the Texas towns where the boys are stationed. Photo shows members of the 2nd Regiment of Texas searching home of Mexican in Madero City, Texas, for weapons.

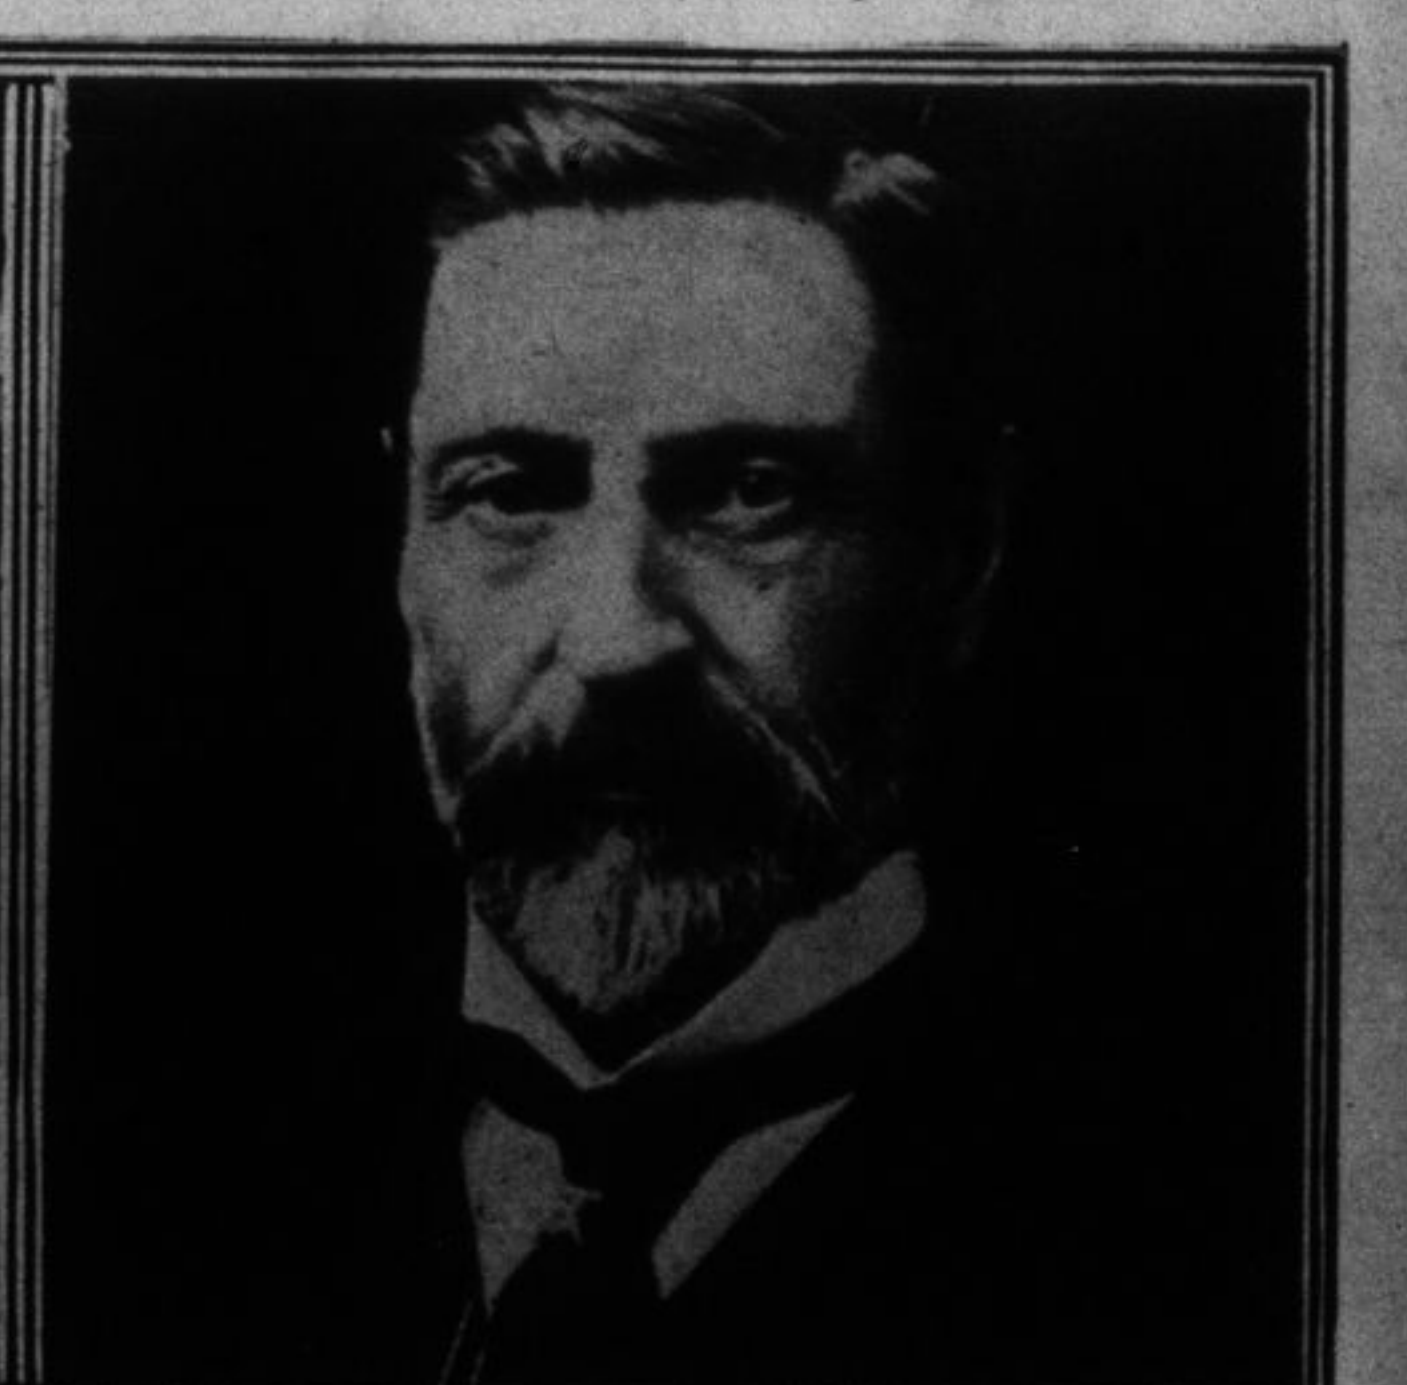

SAVING THE HORSES—One humane person in New York has hit upon a good way to lessen the heat burden on the city's horses. Just off Broadway, where the traffic is always great, he has erected a showerbath, which can be moved along the side of the animal, wetting it complete with a gentle shower from head to tail. This way is far superior to the old, where the water is thrown on the horses by the bucketful.

CIPRIANO CASTRO, former president and revolutionist of Venezuela, who is barred from entering the United States. The immigrant authorities have decided that he is an undesirable element, and he is now detained at the immigration station on Ellis Island, where this picture was taken.

ODD MASCOT OF THE TEXAS 2ND REGULARS; a baby raccoon, which was captured when its mother was killed by the troopers, and it is now the pet of the regiment. The regiment is stationed at Madero City, Texas.

SIR RIDER HAGGARD. A novelist, who is now in Ottawa on an emigration mission. He left England on Feb. 10, and ever since then has been visiting all corners of the earth to find a place where Englishmen can lay their heads after the war. "The superb women in England are in industry to stay," he says. "They won't clear out, and the men will."
