MAYOR WAS ON THE BENCH

MAGISTRATE FARRELL IS ENJOYING WELL-EARNED REST.

"There is Nothing in Drinking But an Empty Pocketbook and a Big Head," said His Worship to One of the Tipplers.

Magistrate Farrell is off on his holidays, enjoying a well-earned rest. In his absence, Mayor Richardson handled the scales of justice at the Police Court on Monday morning.

James Scullion, who limped into the court room, was charged with vagrancy, but as a result of the little talk the Acting-Magistrate had with him it was found that Scullion had purchased a bottle of liquor for a soldier, but had been nipped by the police before he completed the deal, and that he was now out the price of a bottle of whiskey which the police confiscated. He was arrested by Constables Mullinger and Graham.

Scullion stated that he was tempted to sell the liquor to the man in khaki, as he needed some change to buy tobacco. He promised to get out of the city as soon as possible, and he was given a chance.

Michael Ryan was up for being drunk. The hot weather tempted him to take "two too many" as he put it, and the whiskey combined with the heat, put him under. Sergt. Bateson and Constable Arnel looked after him. He wanted to get below Gananque, and said he had the price to pay for his boat fare. He promised to go "straight" to his destination, and His Worship gave him the chance to make good.

Theophilus Saburina, another week-end drunk, said it was his first appearance and hoped it would be the last. The Acting-Magistrate hoped to, too.

"Remember that there is nothing in this drinking but an empty pocketbook and a big head," remarked the Court.

The accused could not deny this statement, as he counted up his small change and reviewed things in general on "the morning after the night before."

TWO BABIES DIE

After a Brief Illness of Cholera Infantum.

The last few weeks have been very hard on babies, and in spite of every effort that has been made to keep them in a healthy state, their young lives have been snatched away. On Saturday two babies died after an illness of cholera infantum lasting only two days in each case.

Lila Jen Getty, the five months' old daughter of James Getty, 45 Concession street, died on Saturday; also John James Appleton, aged six months, son of Robert Appleton, Toronto. The latter child was born in Toronto, and was brought down with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton, to Patrick Kelly's home at Gienburie last week. He became ill on Thursday.

In the evening Lieut. W. P. Keough spoke on the "Imprisonments of Paul."

Individual Eye Care

No two persons' eyes are exactly alike. Glasses that correct one person's vision will probably injure another's.

Each eye must be examined separately. We prescribe glasses only after the most careful examination with scientific instruments.

Every lens we supply is ground specially for each case in our own factory.

You are assured accuracy and prompt service in trusting your eyes with us. Appointments made for any evening.

PTE. JOS. DONNELLY'S DEATH MOST HEROIC.

Son of Kingston Man Died While Aiding Comrades in Sore Straits.

John Donnelly, an employee of the Government Printing Bureau, has received a letter as to how his son, John Donnelly, fell in action in France on June 2nd. Pte. Donnelly was born and educated in Kingston. The letter follows:

"France, July 20.
"Dear Mr. Donnelly—As chaplain of the 42nd Battalion, I want to write you a note about your son, Pte. J. Donnelly, who fell in action early in June. In the midst of your sorrow you must always remember that your boy died a hero's death. He was killed while attempting to carry a supply of bombs to a part of the line which was in desperate straits. During that terrible engagement his splendid spirit and mental bearing did much to uplift his comrades. Our truest sympathy goes out to you in your loss.—(Sgd.)—G. G. D. Kilpatrick (cap.)"

WILLIAM YELLOWLEY DEAD

PASSED AWAY VERY SUDDENLY ON SUNDAY NIGHT.

Ill Only Five Minutes, Cause of Death Being Heart Failure—Was Superintendent of Locomotive Works, and a Clever Inventor.

William Yellowley, superintendent of the Canadian Locomotive Works, passed away very suddenly about 16-40 o'clock Sunday night at his residence, 65 Union street east. Death was due to heart failure, and was altogether unexpected, as he had never complained of his heart. Indeed, he had always enjoyed excellent health, and on Sunday seemed to be even feeling better than usual. In the afternoon he was out in his motor boat, and took great pleasure out of the spin. He spent the evening with his family, and retired shortly after ten o'clock. Previous to retiring he had his youngest daughter, Emily, aged eleven, on his knee, and was laughing and joking with her. He had been in bed only a few minutes when Mrs. Yellowley noticed that his body was twitching as if in pain. She immediately summoned the family, a member of which hurriedly set out for a doctor, but death ensued before medical help arrived. Only five minutes elapsed from the beginning of the attack till the end. Mr. Yellowley never spoke, apparently being unconscious.

The deceased was fifty-seven years of age, and was born in Newcastle, England. When a young man he came to Pittsburg, Pa., where he accepted a position with the locomotive company of that city. His industry and ability brought rapid promotion, and he was holding a responsible position when he came to the Kingston Locomotive Works over fifteen years ago, to accept the position of assistant superintendent. His expert knowledge and his mechanical genius made him a valuable employee of the company, and when the position of superintendent became vacant, Mr. Yellowley was given the appointment. He was equal to the added responsibility, discharging his duties faithfully and well, and at all times showing consideration and courtesy to the employees. He was thoroughly acquainted with the construction of a locomotive, and was reckoned one of the best men of Canada in machine shop practice.

Mr. Yellowley was a clever inventor, and had invented a number of time and labor saving devices. His most notable invention was an inspired by the war. He devised two machines which have materially increased the output of shells. One of the devices is for the banding and fusing of the shells, while the other is for painting them. These inventions have been patented and are now widely used in Canada, in England, and the United States.

The deceased was a motor boat enthusiast, and was a popular member of the Yacht Club. He always had a speedy boat, and took great enjoyment out of the sport. He was an expert in internal combustion gasoline engines, and the engine in his present boat, Emily II, is practically his own construction, so many changes did he make in it. He was able to run his boat as slowly as he liked, and could make it go almost as fast as the best of them. In addition to being fond of boating, he was also an enthusiastic hunter, and invariably spent two weeks each fall in pursuit of game.

Mr. Yellowley was a Methodist in religion, and a man of sterling character and upright life. He was a kind husband and father, and a good citizen. Many will regret his passing.

There are left to mourn his loss a wife, five sons and three daughters. The sons are: Thomas, Toronto; William, Robert, Walter and Charles at home, and the girls are Annie, Dorothy and Emily, at home.

LADIES RECEIVE LETTERS

FROM PATIENTS IN QUEEN'S GENERAL HOSPITAL.

Thanking Them For Comforts — A Christmas Stocking Collection to Be Started by Members of Frontenac Chapter I. O. D. E.

Several members of the Frontenac Chapter, I. O. D. E., have received letters from patients in No. 7 General Hospital (Queen's) to whom comforts were sent. Miss Bessie L. Horsey, Albert street, has received the following letter:

"Just a few lines to thank you very heartily for the small bag of useful articles I received. I am pretty sick — too badly wounded to write—so I am having it written for me. I am in bed with a big bandage around my head covering some severe scalp wounds and a bad laceration on the back of my right hand. However, I'm glad to be here, well cared for instead of being worse off.

"Perhaps you would like to know a few personal items about me. Well I'm nineteen years old. Before the war I was a clerk in London, England. I generally spent my evenings at the Y. M. C. A. where I did a lot of reading. I also have a keen appreciation of music.

"We all long for the end of the war that we may return to our civilian duties. I suppose you are of the same idea across the water.

"Again thanking you for your kindness, I am, yours as ever, J. N. Calvert, No. 2387, 1st London Rifle Brigade."

Miss Dorothy Hawley, William street, has also received a letter which follows:

"I received your nice neat 'handy bag' which I thank you very sincerely for. All the articles are very useful. I'm not in the habit of using much talcum but I'll try to get used to it. Do many of the Canadian girls use it? I suppose you would like to know some thing about me. Well the writer of this letter who is taking care of me will tell you. There is nothing else that I would like you to send me. I am not quite well enough to make a good job of writing this myself. Yours thankfully, Charles Richardson, No. 15,331, 3rd Lincoln, Grimsby, England."

Enclosed is a letter from Dan Nicholson, who says: "Charles Richardson, the patient who received your bag has been here nearly three weeks with a wound in the upper back of his leg. He had a high temperature, poor appetite, and suffered much pain in his hip.

"Capt. Quigley X-rayed him and saw a small piece of shrapnel at the top of the femur and just about in the hip joint. He is about the same now, perhaps a little better. As yet they are undecided whether to run the risk of removing the shrapnel or sending him back to England. Capt. Madden was in charge of him until a few days ago when he was taken to Capt. Archie Kane's ward.

"He was born in Lincolnshire and is twenty-four years of age. He went to school until he was fourteen years of age. Then for eighteen months he went as an apprentice to a baker. Then he was freeman in public works for six years. After that he stayed at home for a year and applied to join the territorial army in that time, as war had been on for four or five months. Since then he has been up at front thirteen months and only missed one day his battalion was in the trenches. He is a very easy patient to handle and deserves your gift."

The Frontenacs are now going to start out on a Christmas stocking collection and are going to try and get large numbers for patients who will be unable to go to their homes for Christmas.
