BITE OF DOG CAUSES DEATH

Allan Robinson, Telephone Wire Chief, Dies of Blood-Poisoning.

TRIED TO STOP DOG FIGHT

LAST FRIDAY NIGHT AND WAS BITTEN ON ARM.

Doctor Noticed Swelling in Arm on Tuesday Night—Incisions Made, But Efforts to Save Life Proved Unavailing.

Allan Robinson, a well-known young Kingstonian, died at 11.45 on Wednesday morning as a result of being bitten by a dog on Friday night last. Reference was made in the Whig Saturday to the fact that while attempting to stop a dog fight after the auto accident on King street on Friday night, when Brig-Gen. Hemming's car was smashed, Allan Robinson was severely bitten in the right arm by one of the dogs, and received medical attention at the General Hospital. The young man was attended by Dr. G. W. Mylks, and all precautionary measures to prevent blood-poisoning were taken. The wound was cauterized and antiseptically treated, and after spending the night at the hospital the young man was allowed to go to his home nearby.

He was accustomed to go to the hospital to have the arm dressed and treated and he was improving splendidly. On Tuesday night, however, when he went to the hospital to have the wound dressed, the surgeon attending noticed that the cut had swollen considerably, and would require immediate attention. Dr. Mylks called Dr. Mundell into consultation and they decided that an operation was necessary. The wound was reopened, and an operation was performed to save the arm.

It was impossible to amputate the arm as the wound was too high, and it would not have been effective in saving the young man's life. It is particularly sad that this young man, who would have been twenty-eight years of age on Friday next, should be taken away.

The late Mr. Robinson was born in Kingston, and had always been a well-known resident of the city. For nearly ten years he had been an efficient employee of the Bell Telephone Company, having started work when he was only a young boy. Officials of the local office state that he applied himself and learned his craft completely, and by dint of hard work had risen to the position of wire chief. His fellow employees stated that he was very well liked by all in the office, and was a great favorite owing to his genial manner.

Deceased was a Methodist in religion, being a member of Brock street Church, and he was also a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows. Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, now of Toronto, he is survived by three brothers, Capt. Robert Robinson, paymaster of the 146th Battalion, Valcartier Camp, and William and Bruce of Toronto, and by one sister, Mrs. J. Morrison, Toronto. His young wife and five small children, Bruce, Allan, Reginald, William and Margaret, are also left to mourn his untimely end.

Allan Robinson previous to going to the Bell Telephone Company, was employed as mail clerk in the British Whig, where he rendered excellent service and was highly esteemed.

Dog Chloroformed.
The dog which bit the late Allan Robinson, and caused his death, belonged to J. Davy, King street. Mr. Davy realized that the dog should be killed, and on Tuesday night he had it chloroformed. The other dog, which belonged to a Mr. Bird, and it is likely that it will be killed also.

CONSCIENCE CAUSES SOLDIER TO RETURN.

Brings Him Back From Calgary—Is Allowed To Go On Suspended Sentence.

All have heard of the prodigal son who went into a far country, and who finally came to himself and returned home. The story has already been told. But there is another story, the story of a young man who left his battalion, the 156th, without leave, went into a far country, and who, coming to himself, returned and gave himself up. The soldier is Pte. Morton Barber, who hails from Plum Hollow. Five months ago he left his unit and went to Calgary. All went well for a while, but his conscience began to trouble him, and at last he was convinced that it was his duty to return and surrender. This he did, paying his own travelling expenses.

He appeared before Lieut.-Col. Hunter Wednesday morning on the charge of being absent from his regiment without leave, and pleaded guilty. In view of his voluntary return and of his good record while a soldier, the magistrate allowed him to go on suspended sentence, first giving him a caustic yet withal kindly lecture, which brought tears to his eyes. Pte. Barber has rejoined his battalion.

The rain of Tuesday was a godsend to the country. It was worth a hundred thousand dollars to this district, as vegetables and corn were drying up.

Numerous cellars were flooded on Tuesday afternoon, as the drains could not hold the tremendous amount of water that fell from the skies.

D. M. McIntyre will be an Ontario representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Oddfellows meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn., next month.

In charge of Lieut. O'Leary, sixteen recruits for the 73rd Artillery came to Kingston on Tuesday to commence training. The battery is filling up its ranks rapidly.

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at St. Catherine's Church Greenfield, Ont., when Miss Jessie C. Laviolette was married to Lieut. J. Leo MacDonald, of "D" Company, 154th Overseas Battalion, now stationed at Barriefield Camp.

The troops from Barriefield, which are to bivouac at Lemoine's Point Thursday and Friday, will leave the camp Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, and will march out King street, arriving in the city about 8.30 a.m.

A delightful concert was given at the Y. M. C. A. tent Tuesday evening. Those who took part were Mrs. Teigmann, Misses Craigen, Rosevear, Jenkins and Hoag, and Andrew Simpson, the accompanist being Sergt. Marchand and R. Hudson. Capt. Fitzgerald presided, and gave an excellent reading.

THE 146TH BATTALION
TRAINS DILIGENTLY.

Not Known When It Will Leave Valcartier Camp for England.

One of the staff sergeants of the 146th (Frontenac) Battalion on leave in the city, stated to the Whig on Wednesday morning that most of the men in the battalion were more pleased with Valcartier than with Barriefield camp. Of course they are further away from civilization, but all are now training hard in preparation for service overseas, and the men realize that they are on no holiday picnic.

One of the chief advantages of Valcartier camp is the dryness. The sergeant said it might rain for an hour there and five minutes after the rain ceased the ground would be dry again, while at Barriefield it would be muddy for some time.

Questioned as to whether he was on his last leave before going overseas, the sergeant stated that it was not known when the battalion would be leaving for England. All the men in the battalion are eager to see action and are training strenuously to be in fit condition when they do reach the other side.

At the present time the battalion is somewhat under strength, and few recruits have arrived from this recruiting area. However, the 146th is no worse off than other battalions, which have a hard time recruiting to full strength.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Earl, jr., was removed from 85 Wellington street to the General Hospital in James Reid's ambulance. Mrs. Earl is from St. Louis, Mo., and was visiting here.
