RUSSIANS NEAR STANISLAU NOW

Captured Railway Station Three Miles East of That City.

ENEMY TO MAKE A STAND ON THE LEFT BANK OF THE BISTRITZA.

Blow Up Railway Bridges Over the River—Further South the Russians Have Advanced Several Miles.

(Special to the Whig) Petrograd, Aug. 10.—The railway station of Chryplin, only three miles east of Stanislaul, has been captured by the advancing Russian army, it was officially announced to-day.

The Austro-Germans, in falling back upon Stanislaul, blew up the railway bridges over the Bistrizta, and are preparing for a stand on the left bank of the river.

Further south, in the region of Wrotsky and the Rivers Blaly, Czeremosa and Sutshaya, the Russians advanced several miles.

MAY TRY TO SHIP LIQUOR IN ONTARIO.

Test Case Likely To Be Taken; Attorney-General's Opinion Asked.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The possibility that liquor may be delivered in Ontario from local manufacturers without having to be shipped to Quebec and back is now being discussed, and it is expected that a test case may be taken when the Ontario Temperance Act comes into effect on September 16th.

The ground on which this effort will be based is that providing for the sale of liquor to a person within the Province by a person outside the Province, and vice versa. The argument is that a bonded warehouse, being in effect Dominion Government territory and solely under the jurisdiction of the Federal authorities, is outside the Province and could be the official in charge of such a warehouse as prosecuted by the Provincial authorities for any actions in keeping with Federal regulations governing his duties.

Therefore, it is claimed, shipments could be made from brewery or distillery into bonded warehouse, and a liquor dealer in Quebec, on receipt of an order for liquor in Ontario, could have that order filled direct from a bonded warehouse in Ontario.

The question has already been drawn to the attention of the Ontario License Board, and J. D. Flavell, the chairman, has asked Hon. J. B. Lucas, Attorney-General, for an opinion on it. Mr. Flavell stated that he would not be surprised to see a test case taken immediately if the act went into force.

TERRIBLE HARDSHIPS OF FLEEING TURKS..

Losses Heavy, Thirst and Destructive Fire of Guns Mowing Them Down.

London, Aug. 10.—The Turkish army which was routed by the British at Kemani, east of the Euphrates, suffered terrible hardships in their march across the desert, according to a Reuters Cairo despatch quoting stories of Turkish prisoners. The despatch says that batches of prisoners continue to arrive at Cairo.

Lack of water was one of the principal causes of the suffering of the Turkish troops. In some cases they suffered so frightfully from thirst that they killed their camels and drank the blood.

The prisoners said the Turkish losses were exceedingly heavy, as they attacked in mass formations in ignorance of the strong defenses of the British. The devastating machine gun fire with which the assault was met was the first indication the private had of the task that confronted them. According to one of the troopers, a Turkish detachment which surrendered first killed their German officers.

"POISONING" CASES ARE BAD DISEASE.

Provincial Police Find Anthrax Not Poison, Responsible For Deaths.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Superintendent Joseph Rogers of the Provincial Police stated to-day that an investigation of a number of suspected cases of cattle poisoning throughout the province, it had been found that the deaths of these cattle had been due to anthrax, possibly the worst communicable disease among cattle, one which is practically always fatal, and which is contracted by human beings as well as cattle.

The disease is recognized by bleeding of the nostrils, and by swelling of the body after death. If cattle which die from anthrax are buried, the disease is communicable for years afterwards from the weeds growing above the burial place, and from the ground itself. In view of this, the only means of fighting its spread is by burning the carcass, and thoroughly disinfecting stable quarters, and everything including the ground over which the body is dragged — with which the animal came in contact before or after death. Particular care should be used by those handling the carcass, as already cases have been known of persons in Ontario contracting the disease all of which proved serious, and some fatal.

THE NEXT BLOW A KNOCK-OUT

Austria Near Collapse—Russia's Great Supply of Men.

At a time when the Germans and Austrians are beginning to feel a scarcity of men, and especially of officers, the Russians in their advance, which at certain points approximates fifty-five miles, have taken three generals, 7,067 officers, 330,000 soldiers, and 504 guns, including over fifty heavy guns, 1,200 machine guns and miscellaneous war booty too great to numerate. At a conservative estimate this represents, including the killed, casualties, missing and losses from other causes, approximately three-quarters of a million of Teutonic-organized effectives, with them still struggling frantically with their ill-fated, but still advancing to a halt, even if but temporarily.

It is impossible for me to state the Russian losses, except to say that from a strictly military point of view they can have no effect whatever on the Russian cause. I believe I am not exaggerating when I say the Russians could bear double this summer's losses for five consecutive years without apprehension of running short of men, while another blow as Brusiloff's would undoubtedly finish Austria, and further reduce Germany's visible supply, which already seems to have shrunk to a point where a future sustained offensive will be difficult if not impossible.

Continuing the front I have reached two conclusions regarding the Teutons. The first is that with one more sweeping movement an optimist may fairly hope Austria will be forced to collapse. The second is that the Germans are not near collapse and though they may lose Kovel, Brest Litovsk, Warsaw and even all Poland, there may well remain a year of bitter fighting. It is true that the Germans have lost some of their arrogance, and their confidence in themselves may be somewhat reduced, but they are still a long way from collapse, at any rate from any military point of view and if such a collapse is coming from internal political causes it is impossible to express any opinion on that here.
