WOMAN FINED IN COURT

FOR SECURING LIQUOR FOR MAN ON PROHIBITED LIST.

Orton Fuller Declared That Maud Hill Got Him a Bottle of Gin to Quench His Thirst—Woman Was Fined $25 and Costs and Fuller $10 and Costs.

For securing liquor for Orton Fuller, a member of the "prohibited list," Maud Hill, living on Queen street, was fined $25 and costs by the court on Friday morning. Orton Fuller, the man on the list, was touched for $10 and costs.

Orton failed to appear when summoned for Thursday's session, but later gave himself up to Constable Arniel. He was given a severe reprimand by the Acting Magistrate for his conduct. His only excuse was that he had a sore hand. Mayor Richardson reminded him that he did not walk with his hands and that this was no excuse.

The accused declared that she did not know that Fuller was a member of the "prohibited list." She said she happened to be going out to get a bottle of gin for herself, so got a bottle for Fuller at the same time, in order to oblige him. Fuller was an old acquaintance. She had lived next door to him two winters ago, and knew nearly all his relatives.

Mayor Richardson said that from the evidence he felt satisfied that the accused knew that Fuller was on the list, and for this reason imposed the fine of $25 and costs. A citizen who got angry when a bailiff called at his home to make a seizure was up on a charge of assault and was found guilty, but was discharged. He is to make arrangements with the bailiff to have a settlement made of the claim.

HUBERT LOVE, QUEEN'S STUDENT IN NORTH ONTARIO.

Buried Under Debris But Crawled to Safety at Smooth Rock Falls—Building Saved by a Miracle.

Hubert Love has written an interesting letter from Northern Ontario to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Love, Lyndhurst. Mr. Love, who is a student of Queen's University, was engaged on government work in the north at the time of the recent fire, when many lives were lost and such heavy damage done to property.

Owing to telegraphic communications being cut off no word had been received until this letter, which relieved the parents' anxiety. Mr. Love says:

"Over two hundred lives near where I am were lost, and many horses, cows, etc., mown down without any warning."

"I tell you that we at Smooth Rock Falls fought a terrible battle to save ourselves and buildings, and by a miracle succeeded in saving our buildings, but lost about sixty thousand dollars worth in the bush."

"However, we were not without our losses. About thirty of us started to rain and at 2.30 a m. an electrical storm struck us, one of the worst that I ever experienced, and at 3.15 a cyclone suddenly burst upon us, toppling over houses and carrying them along as though they were paper."

Buried Under Debris.
"I was sleeping in my tent, and before I could escape I found myself completely buried under a mountain of debris. I had a partition across my tent, making it a little homelike, and this had fallen over on me. My tent was carried yards away and my gramophone picked up and carried rods away."

"Meanwhile the rain was falling in torrents and the wind terrible, so I thought it was up to me to get to a place of safety. Fortunately for me, the foreman's shack was still standing and I managed to get there by lying flat and crawling all the way or I might have been carried away with my tent."

"When the storm had abated a bit I got a lantern and with Mr. Clippa, the foreman at the mill, started out to try and save the books and some things in the tent which is our office. We were able to get a few of the books, but many of them had blown so far away that they could not be found, and many more were destroyed by water. The large tent was a complete wreck."

SOLDIER BROTHERS MEET AT VALCARTIER.

Lieut. E. A. Baker Returns Home, While Pte. Wilbur Baker Goes Overseas.

Two soldier-brothers had a meeting at Valcartier Camp on Thursday. One brother has done his "bit" at the front, and the other is ready to go overseas to do his.

The brother who is coming home has made a great sacrifice, for he has lost the sight of both eyes, while he was directing a working party in a communication trench which was subjected by the Germans to enfilade fire.

Lieut. E. A. Baker, son of John W. Baker, Collins Bay, is the brother home from the front and Pte. Wilbur Baker, of the 146th Battalion, is the brother he met. Wilbur Baker worked with his father on the farm while the other brother was overseas helping to crush the Germans, but after word was received that his brother Edwin had been knocked out by the Hun he offered himself for service and was accepted.

John W. Baker received a telegram Friday morning, notifying him that Lieut. Baker had been visiting his brother at Valcartier, and would be home Saturday afternoon.

Later his ship was wrecked and he lost all his belongings, including some souvenirs he picked up near the firing line in France.

Harry McLeod, of the 46th Queen's Battery, now in France, reports everything going "O.K."

MRS. HAMILTON OF SYDENHAM RECEIVES PARTICULARS

Of the Death of Pte. Frederick Hamilton of the 58th Battalion From Her Son's Chum.

Mrs. Hamilton, Sydenham, received a sympathetic note from Pte. Frederick Adams, of the 58th Battalion, a chum of her son, Pte. Frederick Hamilton, who died of wounds. He says in part:

"It was in the face of the worst bombardment and under the severest shell fire that has ever been my lot to witness, or in fact second to none in the war, that poor Fred received the wound that afterwards resulted in his death."

"It was a small piece of shrapnel that entered his right side just above the hip, and I think it must have pierced his stomach. We had to carry him about a mile to the ambulance where his wound was dressed. He didn't complain of any pain whatever excepting that he was cold, so we put our overcoats over him, and also some clean bags. We all thought that he would recover, but experience teaches us to dread the shrapnel wound. It breaks my heart to think about about it."

He also states that everything was done for him after he was wounded on the 14th of June. The news of his death was not learned until some time later.

HAD MOST ATTRACTIVE LAWN.
Sergt.-Major Instructor Chapman Awarded Five-dollar Gold Piece.

The five-dollar gold piece given by Samuel Turpin, manager of the Kingston Realities Co., for the best kept lawn in connection with the company's houses on Stephen street, has been awarded to Sergt.-Major Instructor A. Chapman, who resides at No. 131. The judging was done Thursday afternoon, and the judges had a hard time of it so attractive and artistic were four of the lawns.

The other three tenants whose lawns reflected much credit on them are: B. Cornish, 129; J. Gibbons, 127; and W. R. Brookes, 128.

Mr. Turpin feels well repaid for his enterprise, and citizens in general are indebted to him for having done his share in helping to make the streets of the city beautiful.

The Realities Co. has forty-two houses on Stephen street, and all are occupied, and the company has thirty-two would-be tenants on its waiting list. Last winter only four of the houses were occupied. The company is now considering the question of building more houses.

RANGE LIGHT DAMAGED.
George Lloyd is Charged With Having Committed the Offence.

George Lloyd, a guard on the G. T. R. bridge at Kingston Mills, was charged before County Magistrate Hunter Friday morning with damaging a range light at Nigger Head, on the Rideau. He was defended by D. A. Givens, and pleaded "not guilty." The evidence of the prosecution, with the exception of that of the complainant, James Keyes, keeper of the lights, was taken. The alleged offence is supposed to have taken place from a skiff, when a party of picnickers were returning home. There were three in the boat, besides the defendant, a man and two girls, and the latter both swore that Lloyd fired off his revolver. One of the girls testified that before firing the shot the defendant said that he intended to have some fun by shooting at the light. The man in the boat, Martin Slattery, swore that so far as he knew, Lloyd did not fire a shot on the return trip.

The case was continued this afternoon when the evidence of the complainant and of the defence were taken.
