

I OWE MY HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Washington Park, Ill. — "I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and romping would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would ache all over and feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say 'Why do you look so young and well?' I owe it all to the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies."

—Mrs. ROBT. STROBEL, Moore Avenue, Washington Park, Illinois.

We wish every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues could see the letters written by women made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

WELCOMED WOUNDED

ARRIVAL IN SWITZERLAND OF CONVALESCING PRISONERS.

Thrilling Reception Accorded to Wounded British and Colonial Soldiers From German Camps—At Every Point of Their Journey They Were Literally Showered With Flowers and Gifts.

JAMES CUSIN, president of the Toronto Swiss Society, gives the following detailed account regarding the triumphant arrival in Switzerland from Germany of a large number of British and colonial soldiers, which he received from his native country recently. The party consisted of 364 English Tommies, 32 officers, a number of Sikhs and Gurkhas, two Japanese, and a large number of Canadians.

The information says: "Having left Constance, Switzerland, this first convoy of English prisoners convalescing coming from German camps, has had from Constance to Chateau d'Oex, a most triumphant trip across Switzerland. The heroes of Yser, Ypres, the Marne, and Vimy, have been welcomed and covered with flowers. In Zurich the reception was enthusiastic. At Bern, the capital, an immense crowd was on the platform of the station and the diplomatic body was represented by Mr. Beau, the French ambassador.

"The number included the English minister, Grant Duff, and most of the members of the British legation, who had left the night before to welcome the wounded soldiers. The officers and the English soldiers in khaki, who were on the train, were all standing at the windows of the car greeting the crowd by waving their caps and shouting hurrahs for Switzerland.

"The cars were literally overflowing with flowers, and Swiss and English flags, foods, cigarettes, and gifts of all kinds. The wounded could not hide their emotion. The English prisoners at Bern incited a lively interest, the colonial troops, especially the Canadians, Australians, and Gurkhas, coming in for special attention.

"Everybody was touched by the good appearance and sympathetic behavior of officers and English soldiers, all cleanly shaved and clad in clean uniforms. Most interesting were their descriptions of the war and their captivity in Germany.

Many of them were sick and unable to come out of the cars, but all of those able to do so walked to the dining-room of the station where they were served with coffee, milk, tea, and other beverages. The reception to the soldiers continued along the trip at Lausanne, Vevey, and Montreux, where it almost reached a delirium. The British soldiers were so touched that, despite the fact that they were more reserved than the French, tears ran down their thin cheeks. They stood at attention when the band played God Save the King, which is set to the same music as the Swiss National Anthem.

"At five o'clock they reached Montreux, where breakfast was served on the terrace of Hotel Swiss, having in front of them one of the most beautiful panoramas of the world, while the orchestra played over and over again, 'Tipperary.' When the train was leaving at six o'clock the Tommies were all waving Swiss flags, while on the platform the crowd was waving Union Jacks with enthusiastic shouts. The pockets of the Tommies were overflowing with chocolates and cigarettes.

"Evelyn Grant Duff, the English minister, made a speech in which he thanked Switzerland for her broad hospitality, referring again to the ties which unite the two countries. He stated that in Switzerland sympathies were not all on the same side, but the subject upon which there was a unanimity of opinion was the treatment of victims of war. He said it would be ever to the glory of Switzerland to show herself the sister of charity to all. In all the cities through which the wounded and the refugees have passed the people have welcomed them with kindness and hospitality. Turning to the soldiers he said, 'The Swiss have given a great welcome to you. The same people regret your departure.'

"All that Switzerland is doing for the interned soldiers is pure charity and good will, none of the generous helpers having any money interests in the matter. Even arguments regarding religion are strictly prohibited.

An Invisible Clock.
A public clock which can be heard but not seen is one of London's curious possessions. It is in the tower of St. Mary Abbot's church, Kensington, and is the only public clock in the immediate neighborhood. It chimes the quarters and the hours, but commits itself no further. It has no dial, no hands, no outward and visible sign of any kind to show that it is a clock. This eccentricity, it is explained, is the result of two causes, one aesthetic, the other financial. When the tower was built in 1397 a clock was suggested as an afterthought, but the architect protested that it would mean the addition of 15ft. to the tower, and the ruin of its cherished proportions. A second point was that the church, having but slender funds, could not afford a clock with a dial. A compromise was arrived at by installing the works of a chiming clock in the belfry without dial or hands.

MOTOR BOAT PARTY WERE IN JEOPARDY.

Boat Sprang Leak in Deadman's Bay—Occupants Rescued by Campers.

A motorboat containing a party from the city sprang a leak while in Deadman's Bay Thursday evening, and the seven occupants, some of whom were children, were in jeopardy of being drowned, as the boat filled almost immediately. The occupants of the sinking boat shouted for help, and a ready response was made by the campers on the shores of Deadman's Bay and on Cedar Island, who safely removed the unfortunate septette, just as the water was almost even with the top of the boat.

The damaged craft was beached, and will be brought to the city for repairs. The accident occurred midway between Cedar Island and the Isolation Hospital.

SCHOOL PROPERTY IN KINGSTON VALUED AT $300,000

Louise School is the Oldest of the Lot, Having Been Built Fifty-five Years Ago—Introduction of Night Classes and Domestic Science.

What is the value of public school property in Kingston? A representative of the Whig got busy on the question on Thursday afternoon and found that the answer presented very interesting statistics. It is estimated that the value of all the school property in Kingston, including the Collegiate Institute, reaches $300,000. The value of the Collegiate Institute alone, is placed at $100,000.

It is of interest to note that Louise school, which is situated at the corner of Johnson and Division streets, is the oldest school building, it having been up over half a century, to be exact, fifty-five years. Four of the rooms have only been in use thirty-two years, they being put up as an addition.

The Collegiate Institute was built in 1893, and has accommodation for 450 pupils in room in the public schools will on an average, give accommodation for forty-five pupils. Following is a list of the schools, with the number of rooms:

Victoria, sixteen rooms; Central, ten rooms; Macdonald, eight rooms; Louise, five rooms; Catewaqui, four rooms; Sydenham, four rooms; Beau, two rooms; Depot, one room; Orphan's Home, two rooms.

It was in 1907 that domestic science was introduced in Kingston for the pupils, under the direction of Miss B. Bowden. The latter, was succeeded by Miss Greene, who went to North Bay Normal School. She was then succeeded by Miss Booth.

Night classes were also started in the fall of 1914, and these are attended by both men and women, their being special classes for the women, consisting of sewing, domestic science and millinery. The classes for the men have not been very largely attended, but the small attendance was due to the war.

Kingston also has four kindergartens, one at Victoria school, Central, McDonald and Frontenac.

SUGAR DROPS; FLOUR RISES.

Sugar May Go Up Again if the Demand Increases.

On Thursday another drop of twenty cents in the price of sugar was announced. The drop in price is attributed to the lack of demand for quantities of sugar owing to the partial failure of the crop. However, the fall crop of fruit should be large, there seems to be no doubt but what the price will rise again, as the price is regulated by the demand.

There is an over-production of sugar in sorbets, which also accounts for the decline. Several local retail grocers were asked on Friday whether the retail price of sugar had changed, but they stated that so far they had made no change in the price. It was intended, however, to lower the price if the decline should warrant it.

A rise of fifty cents a barrel in the price of flour has also been announced. There will be no change in the price of bread, however.

SUMMER MODEL SCHOOL.

At Sharbot Lake Closed Its Session on Friday.

The summer Model school at Sharbot Lake closed its session on Friday, and most of the teachers and instructors have left for their homes. Like all the high and training schools, the attendance of males was much decreased this year, only eight being in attendance, owing to the large number of teachers who have answered the call of their country. Despite the shortness of the session and the heavy studies, the students succeeded in putting on a very successful entertainment in aid of the Red Cross. The proceeds were over $50. The staff of instructors consisted of Principal Hartley, Messrs. Inman, Wright, Ingall and Gratton.

Lack of Men the Cause.
The reason given for there being only one concrete sidewalk built in Kingston so far this season is the lack of men to do labor. The City Council passed a by-law providing for the construction of a number of walks but the work could not be undertaken. The City Engineer has only a limited number of men for several works, and he had to take some of them off the University avenue road paving job in order to proceed with the piling of certain roads.
