CANADA IS TO KEEP 100,000 SOLDIERS During the Winter — Camp Borden May Be Kept Open all Winter.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—Infantry forces are now moving overseas at the rate of about ten thousand a month, and this rate will probably be maintained until autumn. About 100,000 troops will be kept in Canada during the winter, continuing the training until the troop movement recommences in the spring.

There is a possibility that Camp Borden may be kept open during the coming winter, and the troops who are still left there in October put into winter quarters in the permanent buildings at the camp. The question is being considered by the Militia Council, but no decision has yet been arrived at. In favor of the proposition it is urged that the expense will be less than would be the case if the troops were distributed as last winter at Toronto and other central points where convenient quarters can be obtained. It is also maintained that better discipline can be kept and better training secured by keeping the men at Camp Borden. On the other hand it is urged that the men themselves would prefer city or town life for the winter, and that recruiting would be stimulated by their presence.
