LOSS NOT AN AFFLICTION

HOW LIEUT. EDWIN A. BAKER REGARDS HIS CASE.

It is a Handicap, But He Has the Courage and the Will to Face the Future—Big Reception at Collins' Bay.

On Thursday night the members of Prince Arthur Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Odessa, met at the home of John Baker, Collins' Bay to welcome back to their lodge one of their brethren, Lieut. Edwin A. Baker, who had done his "bit" in Flanders and France, suffering thereby the loss of both eyes.

Besides the lodge, many of the Lieutenant's friends from Odessa, Kingston, Bath, Wilton, Napanee, Toronto and elsewhere were present. Dr. G. W. Bell received an invitation in the morning to bring some of the Masons from the city, and D.D.G.M. John H. Birkett, P.D.D.G.M. Abraham Shaw and W.M. Campbell accompanied him.

P.D.D.G.M. Robert Longmore occupied the chair, and after a few preliminary remarks, read the following address of welcome to Lieut. Baker: "When in the year 1914 news was flashed around the world that war had been declared by Germany against Russia and France, and that Germany, who had been preparing for fifty years to launch a tornado of frightfulness, had violated every pledged word, broken every international treaty, invaded a neutral peaceful land, had destroyed property, murdered men for defending their homes, slaughtered peaceful unarmed peasants, outraged women and butchered babies, the pulse of humanity stopped, and peaceful nations gasped in horror. After the first unexpected alarm one thought and purpose filled the minds and hearts of British subjects, i.e., the slaughter must be checked, and the mad nations manacled.

"To accomplish this the young manhood of the Empire were called upon, and Canadians were not backward in heeding the call. Our best and dearest sprang to the defence of the Empire and the Flag.

"You, sir, were one of the first, and were the pride and admiration of all who knew you. You laid your all upon the altar. Your sight has been taken, and your life spared. Without the light of the sun you yet see glories that are veiled from mortal eyes, and though many feel for you in the great loss, we all know the glory you experienced in being permitted to have hands on the offering on the altar of liberty, freedom and justice.

"We, your Masonic brethren, take this opportunity to congratulate you on your honor and to realize they made no mistake in admitting you to the mystic ranks of their Order. We are proud of our pride in your achievements, and reaffirm our pledge to protect, aid and comfort you in all your ways.

"May your life continue to be bright, and may many, yet unborn, emulate your bravery, shown not only in the trenches, but in the hall of shot and shell, but the harder task of performing the dull routine of every day life."

In a short reply—Lieut. Baker thanked his friends for their attention, and stated that he appreciated the words of welcome exceedingly. He paid special compliments to Sir Arthur Pearson, president and founder of the St. Dunstan's School for the Blind in London, Eng. Sir Arthur is blind, and soon after the commencement of the war started his school for the training of soldiers who had lost their sight while in action.

The gritty and determined spirit of the unfortunate lieutenant is well demonstrated by a remark which he made in the course of his reply: "I do not consider the loss of my eyes as an affliction, as some imagine, but merely as a handicap."

D.D.G.M. John H. Birkett and P.D.D.G.M. Abraham Shaw also spoke a few words, in which they paid special tribute to the district lodges. At the conclusion of the addresses refreshments were served, and after the National Anthem had been sung, the people, who numbered nearly a hundred, dispersed.

Throughout the evening Lieut. Baker was very cheerful and conversed freely. He spoke of his work in France, his plans and ambitions, and many other interesting topics to many of his friends, who were immensely pleased at having only a moment's conversation with the returned hero.
