DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

CORONER'S JURY ABSOLVES THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY

In No Way To Blame For Death of David Wellington McMurter, Who Died As Result of Injuries Sustained When Car Struck Wagon.

That the deceased came to his death as the result of his wagon being struck by street car No. 24, and that no blame can be attached to the employees of the Street Railway Co., in connection therewith.

The above verdict was returned by the coroner's jury which inquired into the death of David Wellington McMurter, a teamster for Roddy and Monk, who died from injuries received when his wagon was struck by a street car Thursday afternoon at the entrance to the city quarry on Montreal street.

The case of death. Dr. V. Blakes, who was called to attend the deceased after the accident, said when he arrived he found him too weak to talk. He thought death was due to internal injuries which caused hemorrhages.

The dead man had a wound about two inches long on the left forearm and a few bruises over the small of the back and on left shoulder.

Edward Leon Dennee, a teamster employed by Roddy and Monk, who saw the accident, said that he and the deceased were approaching the quarry field from different directions. They were both driving along quite fast. He saw McMurter turn to go into the field, and he saw the street car hit his wagon.

To Mr. Nickle witness swore there was nothing to prevent McMurter seeing the car if he had looked before he drove on the crossing. He did not see him look to see if the car was coming.

Motorman's Evidence. Herbert Lapante, motorman, said the car he was driving was about fifteen feet away when he saw the team beginning to swing in.

He commenced to ring the bell and reversed the car. The teamster's head was turned in the opposite direction, and the team turned into the quarry gate apparently of its own accord. He did not see the car hit the man. The deceased fell off the right side of the wagon, and it was impossible for the car to hit him.

C. Stewart, conductor, said he was standing at the back of the car when he heard the bell ringing furiously. He saw the horses turning in and saw the driver bounce up and out. The car was going at a medium rate of speed.

car was going at a medium rate of speed.

Near When Accident Happened.

A. E. Little, bill poster, who saw the accident, said he heard the motorman ring his bell and saw the team turn in on the track. He was about twenty-five feet away. McMurter was driving along on the wrong side of the road as he was approaching the quarry entrance.

Coroner Mundell, in committing the case to the jury, said that the death was purely accidental, the railway employees having taken all possible precautions. The jury unanimously decided on its verdict in a very few minutes.

SABA'S SYRIAN WIFE GETS FINAL DIVORCE

Wife Gets Permanent Custody of Her Two Daughters and $5 Alimony.

Mrs. Galeelah Hablab Saba, the Syrian wife of John Saba, a wealthy Alexandria Bay and Dayton, Fla., rug merchant and dealer in oriental goods, has just been awarded her final decree of divorce by Justice Leonard C. Crouch.

Many years ago John Saba married one of his countrywomen in Nazareth, the ceremony being performed by a Methodist missionary, and was not recognized by the Greek orthodox church. Before coming to America, Mr. Saba claimed he had secured a ceremonial annulment of the marriage, returning the dowry his wife brought him and sending her back to her own people.

After coming to this country and locating in Alexandria Bay, Mr. Saba married a Canadian woman of Scotch descent. The couple now have a five-year-old son. Mrs. Saba came to Syracuse and attended the trial, expressing her faith in her husband, even when her oriental rival attempted to prove that Mr. Saba had one more wife than the laws of New York state permitted.

The ceremonial annulment was held to be sufficient in view of the failure of proof by church authorities to prove that such a decree is considered legal and binding in Syria. The trial of the famous case lasted over three days.

LIKES THE WAR GAME

But Will Not Be Sorry When Fritz Puts Up His Thumbs.

"I like it fine over here, but I will not be sorry when Fritz puts his thumbs up," says Corporal D. McCann in a letter from Belgium to his mother, Mrs. J. E. McCann, of Westport. "The Russians and the Italians are doing splendid work at present. I hope they keep it up."

The writer says they have lots of mosquitoes, that the rats are also much in evidence, and that things are very interesting when half a dozen or so of the reds start a fight on the bed the soldiers are sleeping in. When they go to sleep the rats wag their tails in the faces of the men, and it is not at all pleasant.

The writer also speaks about the beautiful flowers they have. The red and white roses are magnificent.

Change of Time. On and after Sept. 11th, S. S. America will leave Kingston at 1.15 p. m. daily, except Sunday, for Cape Vincent, connecting with N. Y. C.
