

Cocoon Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Just plain mulified cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teapoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get mulified cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

FARMER DIES ON COUCH

Inquest Ordered Into An Unsuavory Case Near Spencerville. Brockville, Sept. 13.—Last night at 11.30 James McQuade, a well known farmer residing in the fifth concession of the township of Edwardsburg, in Grenville county, died suddenly. He lived at what is known as Glen Small on a farm and about three and a half miles from Spencerville. The circumstances of the death were such as Dr. C. F. McPherson, of Prescott, coroner for the district, ordered an investigation. Because of the unsuavory reports about doing at the McQuade farm, he deemed an inquest necessary, and seems that the deceased, with his daughter and two men consumed quite a lot of liquor until 11.30 o'clock when the men left. FOCH GIVEN THE CREDIT OF WINNING BATTLE OF MARNE TWO YEARS AGO.

On Second Anniversary of "Turning Point" In War, Details Are Given Of Famous Von Kluck Manoeuvre.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Newspaper men who under the direction of an officer of the army headquarters, visited the Marne battlefield yesterday in connection with the celebration of the second anniversary, viewed the scene where the tide of victory really turned.

Part of the ground visited was that occupied by the troops of the Ninth Army, under General Foch, extending through Forechampenoise to Chateau Mondement, behind which, after it had been taken and retaken four times, Foch carried out brilliant strategy, which not only flanked Von Buelow's army, hurling the German guard into the marshes of St. Gond, but also drove a wedge between the forces of Von Buelow and Von Klausewitz, which compelled a German retreat along their entire line.

Von Kluck Averted Disaster.

The idea has always prevailed that Von Kluck, whose army advanced nearly to Paris, made a strategic blunder in turning southeast and marching across the British front thus leaving the flank exposed to Manoury. Later understanding of what happened makes it clear that Von Kluck did the only thing he could do, and that had he kept on toward Paris he would have left a gap for Desperay's Fifth French Army to enter, and thus break the German line.

Von Kluck had only five corps against Manoury, Desperay and the British combined, while, Foch, with two corps, reinforced later by a third borrowed from Desperay, faced five of the picked corps of Germany, including the Guard.

The headquarters officers indicated that, while every general in the allied line contributed largely to winning the battle of the Marne, it was Foch, who, with inferior forces but brilliant strategy and refusal to acknowledge a suspicion of defeat, caused most trouble to the Germans than even Manoury and the army of Paris.

A PLUMBER SUES CATHOLIC CORPORATION

Claims He Suffered $300 Damages as Result of Misrepresentation.

Some interesting cases will be heard at the County Court, which will be held next month before Judge Madden. E. P. Halligan, who had the contract for installing a boiler in the rectory at Cusheendall and a heating system in the church there, is suing the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation for $300. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of wilful misrepresentation he tendered at a lower figure than he would otherwise have done. He claims that in consequence of this misrepresentation he suffered damages to the extent of $300. The contract price was for $880, of which he received only $580, and in addition he was required to furnish extra material and work to the value of $100.

The defendants allege that the plaintiff did not carry out his contract, and that the heating system was defective. To remedy the defects it was necessary to spend $300.

NOT TO BE ALLOWED TO GO UNCHALLENGED

Committee of One Hundred to Look After Liquor Act Evasions.

(Special To The Whig) Toronto, Sept. 14.—Evasions and attempts to take refuge behind technical interpretations of the Ontario Temperance Act on the part of the liquor dealers will not be allowed to go unchallenged by the Committee of One Hundred and other temperance organizations in Ontario. This was made clear by James Hales, vice-president of the Committee of One Hundred, when spoken to with regard to the report that liquor dealers will endeavor to make direct deliveries to their customers from bonded stores within the confines of the province. Asked if the Board of License Commissioners intended at the first opportunity to make a test case, Vice-Chairman Dingman replied: "We intend to protect the act." Beyond that he would make no further statement.

Already liquor dealers here are preparing to put up their shutters. Some have stopped all deliveries, but will continue to supply customers up till Friday night. It is rumored that many of the hotels of the city will close on Friday night to prevent the possibility of any trouble on Saturday.
