

Hudson Seal

The reasonable in price, good looking, good wearing Fur.

The best substitute for the costly Alaska Seal-skin is Seal Dyed Muskrat. Good judges often find it difficult to distinguish between them.

We purchase these skins raw direct from the trappers and select for this purpose only the fall prime caught skins. We have dressed and dyed this season a magnificent lot of skins for our special order department. We invite you to call and inspect our models now ready.

NO ALE AND BEER VENDOR

THEIR SALE IN KINGSTON SEEMS TO BE UNLIKELY.

Those Requiring These and Porter For Medicinal Purposes Will Have to Secure Them Elsewhere—Whole Province Studying New Temperance Act.

It is unlikely that ale, beer and porter, of the intoxicating variety, will be sold in Kingston for medicinal purposes. The Ontario Temperance Act, which comes into effect at seven o'clock Saturday evening, states that a vendor, on a physician's prescription, may sell a dozen bottles of ale, beer or porter, each bottle not containing more than three half pints, or one pint of distilled liquor. That listens good, says some one, but there's a sad little sequel to this tale, and that is, there is to be no vendor in Kingston, for the present at least. Vendors have been appointed in Toronto, London and Hamilton, and the License Board says others will be appointed later, if it is found that there is a need for them. Thus, if a person requires ale, beer or porter as a medicine, it will be necessary to get a doctor's order and send to Toronto or else be his own doctor and import it from Quebec.

War News Secondary

The whole province is now turning its attention to the new Temperance Act. The war news takes a secondary place, while the public familiarizes itself with the provisions of the act. The thirsty ones who like liquor for its own sake, for the pleasure it brings rather than for the health it gives, are not worrying, because they know that there is an untold supply of thirst quenchers in Montreal and Hull, the destined Meccas of money orders, postal notes and registered letters. But the sickly and other members are constantly increasing, are wondering if they will be able to convince their physicians that a constant and generous supply of liquor is essential if the spark of life is not to become extinguished through lack of fuel. Everything, it seems, depends on the doctor. The druggists are determined to sell only on prescription. They will, if a doctor orders it, give six ounces of liquor to rescue the perishing, or one pint of a mixture containing alcohol mixed with drugs, or one pint of alcohol for bathing purposes—that is, outward bathing, although some will undoubtedly be of the opinion that internal bathing would be much more efficacious.

A Saving Clause

For those who are subject to fainting spells there is a saving clause in the act, which states that a druggist may sell six ounces of liquor when the same is required to avert a serious injury or the fainting of a person, which liquor must be consumed on the druggist's premises or premises adjacent thereto. It is hinted that this clause is likely to increase the number of faintings.

But those who are unable to faint easily will have to turn their attention doctor-ward. The medical profession promises to be busier than ever. The new patients will have a nervous manner and a guilty look, and if asked to show their tongue will exhibit something that looks like a strip of a parched desert. A doctor, when convinced that liquor is necessary for the health of a patient, may give a prescription, or he may administer the liquor himself, a first aid process as it were. He may have liquor in his possession not exceeding one quart at any one time, when visiting in the discharge of his professional duties, and no doubt there will be quite a few accommodating men who will always stand ready to carry the doctor's grip—and to lighten his burden. While a physician can prescribe only six ounces at one time, there is nothing to prevent a very sick man from trying to secure prescriptions from other doctors. For this reason a household may have more than one family physician.

Boom For Dentistry

The dentistry business will likely pick up, too. The new act allows every dentist to keep in his office six ounces of liquor, which he may administer to a patient in case of actual need. This will probably lead some schemers to visit a dental parlor in the hope that he, as well as his tooth, may be filled. Some were banking on the veterinarian, but the act states that while a veteran may have in his possession one quart, it must not be administered to a human, no matter how much of an ass he may be. This barring of the human may cause an increase among those who believe in the transmigration of soul, the highest ambition of the few converts being to become a horse, a sickly horse.

73rd BATTERMAN'S WIFE

Charged Mother-in-Law With Abducting Her Baby.
The Ottawa Free Press says that Mrs. Irene Ault, 53 College avenue, withdrew her charge of abduction preferred against Mrs. Nellie Ault, of Aultsville, in the police court Thursday morning. Mrs. Ault, Jr., charged her mother-in-law with abducting her 22 months old baby. Her husband, Don Ault, who is a gunner in the 73rd battery, which recently left Barrield Camp for Petawawa, is stated to have left the child in the keeping of his mother. It was alleged the mother-in-law refused to give it up.

WAS GIVEN NINE MONTHS

SYLVESTER BRADFORD WAS SENTENCED FOR ROBBING.

Henry Sauva, of Watertown, N.Y., Who Robbed a Drunken Man. Was Allowed to Go on Suspended Sentence and Will be Deported.

Nine months in the Central Prison was the sentence given to Sylvester Bradford, the Montreal young man who pleaded guilty to robbery at 3 local hotels by Magistrate Farrell in the police court on Friday morning. He was rounded up a week ago and has been in jail on remand.

Henry Sauva, the Watertown, N.Y., young man, who pleaded guilty in the police court a few days ago to robbing a drunken man of a watch, was allowed to go on suspended sentence, and will be deported.

William McQuade was charged with assault by his brother, Joseph McQuade. It is alleged that he threw a stone at his brother's little boy and hit him in the back. The boy in question, with his sister and another youngster, told of playing in an old house on Russell street and being chased by the accused, when the stone is alleged to have been thrown, but the accused strongly denied the charges. He said he had chased the children away from the house, as he feared they would be injured playing there. The case was enlarged till Tuesday for further evidence. William Weeks, gathered in as a drunk, was fined $1 and costs.

ARE VERY OBSERVANT

The Inspectors Are Looking Out For Smugglers.

A resident of Cape Vincent, N. Y., makes the observation that the purpose of the federal inspectors walking along the frontier, is concealed by their apparent interest in the protection of fish and that some of the visits of the government men to Alexandria Bay where nets were inspected was a guise to cover the real operation, the prevention of smuggling. Far out on the lake, he said, the government boats are seen cruising day and night. He told of the entry of a number of passengers from Kingston at Cape Vincent recently when a government man stepped into the crowd, put his hand on the shoulder of a foreigner of uncertain nationality and said, "I want you."
