A NOVEL RECRUITING PLAN

LIEUT.-COL. A. G. F. MACDONALD, 154th BATTALION, HAS SCHEME For Taking the Pipe Band and Section Company of the Battalion Through Three Counties.

Lieut.-Col. A. G. F. MacDonald, commanding the 154th Battalion, is going to make one last effort to secure 150 men for his battalion before that unit is ordered overseas.

The trip is best explained by quoting from a letter sent by the colonel to municipal representatives in various parts of the three counties.

"During the recruiting and organizing of the 154th Overseas Battalion, C. E. F. (The Counties' Own), upon a number of occasions the promise was made by myself and officers that prior to the battalion going overseas, an opportunity would be given relatives and friends of the lads in khaki to hear our Highland pipe band, undoubtedly the best pipe band yet organized in Canada.

"A pledge given by us is a pledge to be redeemed, and we are indeed happy to inform you that upon a fixed date the 154th pipe band, accompanied by several officers, N. C. O.'s and men will visit your town and render a select programme of Scotch airs. There will be in all about forty in the party.

al music at each place visited, and where the night is spent to hold a camp fire, at which a set programme by the band, assisted by the 154th Male Quartette, etc., etc., and local talent, including the school children, patriotic songs, together with addresses would occupy profitably and pleasantly some two hours of the evening. The camp fire, also free to the public, might be held in the exhibition grounds, race track or some large square.

"We have two objects in view in making this tour: Keeping a pledge formally given, and to create further enthusiasm in recruiting with a view of securing between 100 and 150 recruits necessary to bring the 154th Battalion up to strength, which must be accomplished before the permission is granted to proceed overseas."

bruck Centre, Vales, Dickenson's Landing to Cornwall; camp fire at night.

FORGET THE IDEA! No Canning Factory for the 155th Battalion.

Belleville residents have somewhere got the idea that the 155th Battalion may come back there for the winter months, but the idea is ridiculed in military circles. The 155th Battalion did splendidly when inspected by Gen. Lessard, and he gave a very direct hint that the next trip of the 155th would be overseas. Belleville had better make the necessary arrangements for trying to recruit if possible an equal to Col. Adams' command.

THREE BROTHERS IN ARMS

LIEUT. POWELL HAS TWO BROTHERS AND ALL ARE WOUNDED

Was a Visitor At Barriefield Camp On Thursday—Sons of Well-Known Ottawa Surgeon.

Major R. E. Porter, headquarters staff, had a very distinguished visitor on Thursday. The visitor was Lieut. W. D. Powell of Ottawa who has two out of three brothers in uniform. One has the Military Cross and one is recommended for the D.S.O.

Lieut. Powell is the son of Dr. Powell, the well-known surgeon of the Capital. This son enlisted with the Canadian Engineers but the terrific bombardment at the Somme caught him as one of the victims and he was sent back to England and subsequently home.

His two brothers have also been on the casualty lists. Lieut. R. W. Powell, who is also in the Canadian Engineers, won his Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry in action, and Major Powell, second in command of the 14th Battalion will soon receive the Distinguished Service Order.

Staff-Sergt. Inst. Reid of the School of Signalling staff has recovered from his recent illness, and has been granted leave to go to his home in Belleville for a few days.

HE FINISHED ON THURSDAY

GEN. LESSARD COMPLETED HIS INSPECTION AT NOON.

Had 155th on Wednesday Afternoon and Took 156th and 154th on Thursday Morning.

The presence of Major-General F. L. Lessard at the camp could be felt in all quarters on Wednesday and Thursday. The little band of staff officers who were judging the ability of the three battalions to go overseas "had the stage."

On Wednesday afternoon Gen. Lessard went to the 155th Battalion lines. The battalion was brought out on parade by Lieut.-Col. M. K. Adams and put through various evolutions as a battalion. The company commanders were then asked for by the general and taking each in turn he made them show what they knew about handling their companies. He took a keen interest in every movement, and had the platoon commanders and even the section commanders out working their units.

In spite of his rank and reputation there was no hesitation, because Gen. Lessard was present, and every word of command was faithfully carried out. They did their best in the same way as they have been doing on the parade grounds every day for the last six months.

After looking over the signalling section, stretcher bearers, machine gun section, etc., he took the car at 5.30 p. m. and went to headquarters. Dinner was served at the headquarters mess with the general as guest, and in honor of the occasion the 155th Battalion band played a number of selections.

Early Thursday morning he started in with the 156th Battalion under Lieut.-Col. Bedell, and had that unit working in various ways until ten o'clock. He was very well pleased with everything, and expressed his admiration for their ability in carrying out orders.

Between 10 a. m. and 12.30 p. m. he had the 154th Battalion. Lieut.-Col. A. G. F. MacDonald was in command, and was more than pleased to hear the general say, "My, that's a steady line of men," after one movement. He made his usual thorough inspection of each unit separately.

In an interview the general expressed himself as highly pleased with not only the camp generally, but the wonderful way in which the soldiers have progressed in their training. He intimated that the next step would be overseas, and this is now the hope of every soldier.

It has been brought to attention that ranks are wearing unauthorized badges and letters on their dress. The company to which a soldier belongs "A," "B," "C," or "D," should not appear on the shoulder straps, neither are the brass letters "M.P." to be worn. Officers commanding units are to cause the necessary instructions to be issued for this practice to be immediately discontinued.

Major McFee, Capt. Hyman and other officers and men of the 155th Battalion attended the fair in Belleville on Thursday. Lieut. McGie and Lieut. Allen have left with their machine gunners and bayonet fighters for exhibition purposes.

MADE "SOME INSPECTION"

MAJOR-GENERAL LESSARD WAS MORE THAN SATISFIED.

Took Each Part Separately and Afterwards Gave an Interview That Expressed His High Opinion.

"Some inspection!" sums up the opinion of the officers after Major-General F. L. Lessard, Inspector-General of Eastern Canadian Forces, has passed on to the next camp. It certainly was some inspection, but the best part of all is the smile on the faces of those officers. They are to-day really proud of their battalions, and know that they have been successful in the months of training.

Day after day the training may be come monotonous in spite of the greatest interest. The inspection came after the men had been drilling hard. Leave has not been granted except in exceptional cases for over three weeks, and some of the men have not been home for three months.

The inspection came, and the units showed up wonderfully well. There is nothing to apologize for nor any cases of "I wish I had thought."

The troops, in the opinion of the general as expressed to the Whig, are in wonderful shape and a credit to the camp. The three battalions went through the grid like clockwork, and have made General Lessard's opinion of Barriefield Camp and its soldiers go up several degrees.

It is rather unfortunate that Brig.-Gen. T. D. R. Hemming, Camp Commandant, was not present to hear his own opinion borne out by that of the Inspector-General. The work of the year has been stiff, but now the next step is overseas, and the men are happy.

An Old English Handbill advertised a public warning about coffee in its early days as a beverage in England. It said:

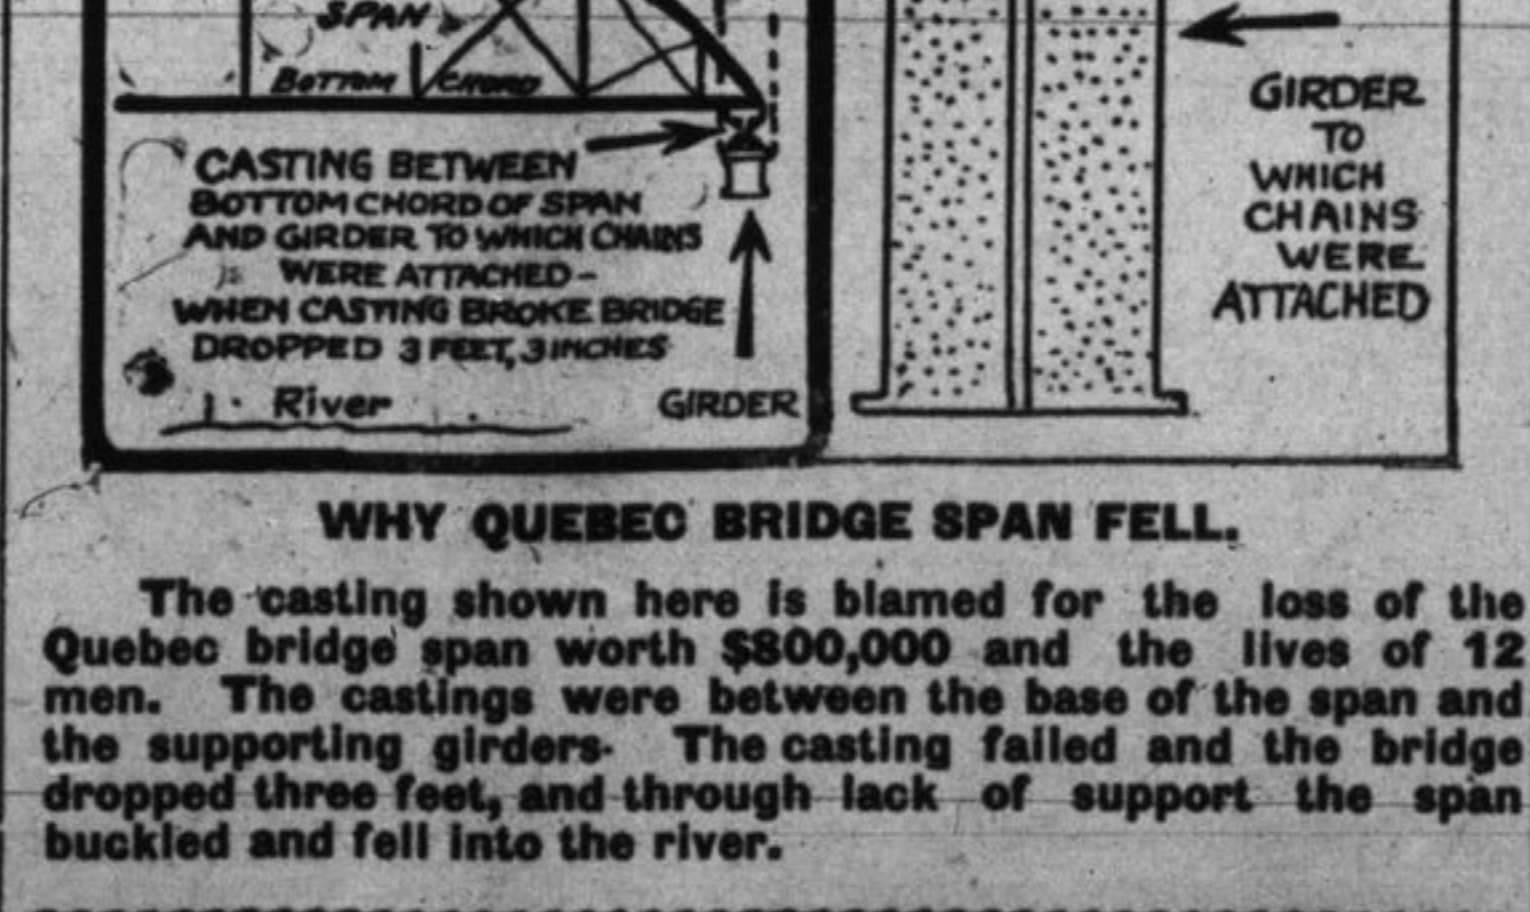

"You are not to drink it after supper unless you intend to be watchful, for it will hinder sleep for three or four hours."

That was 250 years ago. Today it is a well-known fact that sleeplessness, brought on by coffee drinking, is due to the presence of the drug, caffeine, in coffee. It is also known that coffee drinking is a common cause of various other ills.

POSTUM
the delightful pure food-drink was devised especially for people who should not use coffee, but who like a hot beverage with meals. It resembles mild Java coffee in its snappy taste, but contains no coffee, caffeine, nor any harmful element.

Postum is good for old and young, and can be drunk freely at any time of the day with pleasure and comfort.

GREECE AND HER GREED FOR SPOILS

Toronto World.

It is quite probable, as has been reported, that the entente allies are not anxious to have Greece enter the war. Had Greece fought with the other allies against Germany her claims might have been more embarrassing at the council board of peace than they can be as coming from a non-belligerent. Greece wanted Constantinople this many a year, but she has lost her opportunity even of entering a claim. Serbia's rights will be adjusted without Greece having anything to say, and even Bulgaria may be less difficult to handle while Greece remains a peaceful non-combatant. There will be compensations for the Greeks in having escaped the losses which active war has imposed on all participants. And Greece can also be assured of justice in her treatment by the "crusted nations."
