

Hudson Seal
The reasonable in price, good looking, good wearing Fur.

The best substitute for the costly Alaska Seal-skin is Seal Dyed Muskrat. Good judges often find it difficult to distinguish between them.

We purchase these skins raw direct from the trappers and select for this purpose only the fall prime caught skins. We have dressed and dyed this season a magnificent lot of skins for our special order department. We invite you to call and inspect our models now ready.

A 57-YEAR-OLD DESERTER
PTE. WESTFALL GIVEN FIVE MONTHS IN JAIL.
Swore When Enlisting That He Was Forty-five — Explains Absence on Grounds of Personal and Family Sickness.
Pte. C. F. Westfall, who lacks three years of being sixty, was given five months in jail for being absent without leave from his battalion, the 156th. Westfall, who appeared before Lieut.-Col. Hunter Friday afternoon, left Barrieffield Camp on August 16th and was apprehended on September 9th at Trenton, his home town. He attempted to explain his absence on the grounds of personal and family sickness.
According to his attestation papers, Westfall is only forty-five, but he looks much older, and admitted to the magistrate that he was fifty-seven years of age. Asked why he swore that he was only forty-five when he enlisted, he said that the officer who was anxious to secure men for the battalion band put his age down as that, and, desiring to go overseas, he did not protest.
In reply to a question from the magistrate, Westfall said that he was just as ready to go overseas as he was the day he enlisted, and would gladly go to the firing line if his doctor gave him permission. A proviso was attached to the sentence to the effect that if the commanding officer of the battalion desired to have him rejoin the unit before it proceeded overseas, he would be released if the governor of the jail reported favorably concerning his conduct.
