A FINE PLAY PRESENTED

AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE ON THURSDAY NIGHT

"The Black Feather," Was Much Appreciated—Gallery Calls and Late Comers and Goers Cause Annoyance.

The presentation of "The Black Feather" was greeted by a large, enthusiastic audience at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night. The play itself was written for the peculiar eccentricities of character delineation that Albert Brown indulges in, and for the most part is a very capable piece of work.

For a play dealing with the ways of diplomatic circles a strong cast is always necessary, and Mr. Brown has a most capable company with him. Gladys Hopeton, as Countess Wanda von Holtzberg, plays a difficult role with remarkable facility, and assumes the Austrian mannerism and accent cleverly. Sara Perry and Charles Welsh-Homes as Lady Grey and Claxton and Sir George Claxton take their respective roles, she as an old fashioned and narrow minded aristocrat and he as a blustering, blunt old English gentleman in an interesting fashion.

Clemence Randolph won her way into the hearts of the audience and many comments on her charm and grace were passed. Altogether the play is most creditable, and should have the warm support of theatre-going Canadians. One of the disagreeable features of Thursday night's performance was the impolite calling from the galleries of some ignorant persons at crucial times in the play. This offence seems to be becoming more prevalent. Another thing which causes annoyance is the late entrances and early exits of people who certainly have no regard for the pleasures of others. It is to be hoped that these impolite occurrences may be eliminated.

At times success has met their efforts, but generally speaking failure to have the information passed was the result. Recently, however, since the Canadians have been transferred to Johnny Canuck, unaware that the people at home know just about where they are situated, has hit upon the idea of heading their letters, "Somewhere in France," instead of "Somewhere in France" as has been the custom.

"SOMME WHERE IN FRANCE"

How Johnny Canuck Eludes the Censor in His Letters.

One of the things that parents wish to know about their sons at the front is their whereabouts along that great battle-line that stretches from Switzerland to the English Channel. At various times the Canadian troops at the front have attempted to elude the rigid censorship, and satisfy the curiosity of their friends at home.

At times success has met their efforts, but generally speaking failure to have the information passed was the result. Recently, however, since the Canadians have been transferred to Johnny Canuck, unaware that the people at home know just about where they are situated, has hit upon the idea of heading their letters, "Somewhere in France," instead of "Somewhere in France" as has been the custom.

Recent letters from the zone of action have borne this address and it shows the ingenuity of the boys at the front. "Tommy" is always supposed to be resourceful, and this is one of the ways he shows it. A large number of the soldiers are poor spellers and, it might be natural to put an extra "m" in the word "somewhere" thereby giving information as to their whereabouts.

SCHOOL CONTRIBUTIONS

Towards the Purple Cross Work Are Acknowledged.

The following public schools contributed during the winter and spring months in response to the appeal of the Humane Society, the sums placed below to their credit, part of which went to the Franco-British Purple Cross Society and part was applied to the Horse Ambulance donated by the local Humane Society. In some cases part of the money was raised by individual efforts of little girls. One or two schools that have not yet reported will probably do so, now that holidays are over:

Macedonia school	$3.05
Rideau school	1.65
Sydenham school	5.16
Central school	1.56
Frontenac school (individual contribution)	.25
Louise school (individual contribution)	.25
Total	$15.17

It is almost as easy to achieve foolishness as to be born foolish. The straight and narrow path isn't wide enough for some people.

Those New "Bran Foods"

—a new one is born every week—a recognition of the need of food laxatives instead of drug laxatives. The problem of presenting bran to the human stomach in combination with a nutritious, easily digested food was solved twenty years ago by the invention of Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the food that supplies all the body-building material in the whole wheat grain in a digestible form, combined with bran, which is Nature's laxative. A body-building, strength-giving food. Serve with milk or cream or sliced peaches and cream or other fruits.
