

Fall Overcoats

The first chill of autumn calls for a fall overcoat. We are showing some beautiful garments in a variety of new models and fabrics. Swagger sort for young men. More conservative styles for middle aged men. The Chesterfield is the business man's favorite style, while the loose, full back, and the short, form-fitting belted coat with velvet collar appeals strongly to smart young dressers.

Fall overcoats, $15.00, $18.00, and $20.00. The style and quality we offer at each price leave not the slightest doubt of our greater value giving.

THE PUBLISHERS' DILEMMA

THE EVER-ADVANCING COST OF PRODUCTION.

Low Prices for White Paper Not Likely to Return Again—A Higher Rate of Subscription Seems Inevitable.

Toronto Globe. The publishers of daily papers in the Canadian West have been hard hit by the extraordinary increase in the cost of the white paper used in their press rooms, and have been conducting an inquiry as to the reasons for the ever-advancing cost of production. The Winnipeg Tribune, an evening paper, discussing the situation, says editorially:

Mr. Backus, the head of the great news print mills located on either side of the Rainy River at International Falls and Fort Frances, and which mills supply the bulk of the news print consumed in Western Canada, explained the causes of the advance in prices, and expressed the view that while the present situation might be to some extent abnormal, the chances were that owing to other conditions which had developed, the low prices which obtained two or three years ago might never return, or at least not for a considerable period. In addition to this, the demand for news print has of late been so great, especially in the United States, where advertising had largely and rapidly increased, that it was all the mills could do, running day and night, to produce sufficient to fill existing contracts. No new ones were being accepted, and where surplus tonnage was asked it was usually necessary to refuse it, in order that the supply might go round and every newspaper have a reasonable share. Mr. Backus thought the situation might be helped out by publishers limiting the papers to the smallest proportions consistent with reasonable efficiency. He also expressed the opinion that in order to overcome the deficit sustained by means of the greatly increased cost of producing newspapers, publishers should seriously consider the advisability of raising their subscription price. Of course many publishers, both in the United States and Canada, have already done this, and it is undeniable that there exists abundant justification for the others to follow suit. There are, however, a great many newspapers on the continent whose policy an slogan from the outset has, like that of our own newspaper, been 'a cent paper,' who would find it a somewhat difficult task to depart from such a life-long policy. Just what the future has in store for the publishers, and to what policy they may be driven by the force of circumstances, it is difficult to predict.

It is not in Western Canada alone that the publisher must choose between smaller papers and an increased subscription price. Conditions in the east are becoming acute. If the price of paper continues to increase and the shortage of labor becomes more intense the one-cent daily paper will be in danger everywhere. Publishers are doing all they can to postpone the day of decision. The return privilege is being curtailed or abolished, advertising rates are increased, and office economies are practised wherever possible. It is doubtful whether in the long run the big paper which is sold for one cent to the subscriber, and for which in the case of street sales the publisher gets but a little more than half a cent, can survive the startling upward trend of the material and labor engaged in its production.

In Bivouac And Barracks (See also Page 9.)

Hon. F. B. McCurdy, acting Minister of Militia, and Major-General Gwatkins, Chief of the General Staff, were expected at the camp on Friday, but on Thursday night a message said that urgent reasons for going to Niagara demanded their appearance there instead.

The following games will be played at the camp on Saturday at 1.30 p.m.: 154th vs. 154th, football, on 154th grounds; Queen's vs. 154th, football, on 156th grounds; 156th vs. Queen's, baseball, on Queen's grounds; 155th vs. Engineers, baseball, on Headquarters grounds; 154th, baseball, a bye.

Capt. J. Edwards Wounded. It was reported at Barrfields Camp on Friday, that Capt. J. Edwards, of the 21st Battalion, had been severely wounded. Capt. Edwards was a sergeant-major instructor of musketry in Ottawa. When the 21st Battalion was organized he came to the city to conduct a course. Lieut.-Col. W. S. Hughes was so pleased with his work that he was offered a commission, which he accepted. He was appointed machine gun officer of the battalion, and later, when the battalion went to France, he was appointed brigade machine gun officer with the rank of captain.

Aquitted on Bribery Charge. Regina, Sask., Sept. 22.—The trial of G. Ens, ex-M.P.P. for Rosetown, ended last night, when the jury returned to the court with the verdict of not guilty. Ens was charged with having accepted a bribe from liquor men in 1913 to oppose the passing of the bill to banish the bar. He was tried on Tuesday last and the jury disagreed. Yesterday the case was heard before a fresh jury, and a verdict was reached in four hours.

146th Still at Valcartier. The 146th Battalion is still at Valcartier Camp, and is not likely to go overseas for some weeks, as a large number of the men have measles.

Sergeant James Batesman, of the police force, will leave this week-end on his annual vacation. He will visit New York.

THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand. Those who witnessed the programme of vaudeville and photoplays presented at the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon considered it one of the finest. Virginia Pearson was seen in a five-reel photoplay, "Blazing Love," a life story of a wife with her problems told with a striking moral. Charlie Chaplin, in his latest and funniest comedy, "The Count," was all that could be desired. It kept the audience in roars of laughter. The Pathe News completed the photoplay end of the bill. The vaudeville is the best for some time. Minor and Brynne colored, in a singing and dancing specialty, were good, especially the dancing. Vanfield and Rena, in a comedy juggling act, are experts in their line of work. This same bill will be presented to-night and Saturday afternoon and evening.

At The Strand. To say that the patrons of the Strand were highly pleased with the performances yesterday is putting it mildly. The Manetta Duo who have endeared themselves to all who have heard them rendered the excellent style of several popular songs. The masterpiece is a five-part Triangle play "The Phantom" featuring Daniel Keenan. Then comes Fatty Arbuckle in a two-part Keystone comedy "The Waiters' Ball" which is easily the funniest picture ever shown. This bill will be shown to-night and Saturday.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD BOY SENT IN FALSE ALARMS

Had to Stand on His Tip Toes to Reach the Fire Alarm Box.

An eight-year old boy, who loves excitement, was responsible for the false alarms sent into the Fire Department on Thursday. Police Constable Samuel Arnie has been working on the case, and succeeded in locating the youngster who pulled the boxes in order to see the horses run. No action will be taken against the boy, but a general warning has been given that there is trouble ahead for this lad or any other boy responsible for bringing out the firefighters when they are not needed. This little boy had to stand on his tip toes, in order to reach the box.

The suggestion has been made that school teachers address the scholars in regard to the matter, and draw attention to the seriousness of such a practice. The children do not realize the danger and regard it as great fun.

WHOLE WEST SOLID FOR LIBERALISM

London Advertiser (Lib.). Western Canada is to-day solidly Liberal. For more than 1,500 miles east and west, and for an equal distance north and south, a vast empire is declared to a party pledged for honesty and public service, and a party before which lies a clean page for unprecedented accomplishment. The causes of the overwhelming Bowser defeat in British Columbia on Thursday are well known. Chief of them was the old arrogant conservatism and practice of establishing a set of ministers as a dynasty, which jobbed out the country, its resources, its posts, and its credit, and in the face of constantly growing protest still felt its muscles and sought to hold place by brute force. The new sentiment of Liberalism, supported by conscientious Conservatives like Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, called for volunteers to meet the giant. McBride fled before the advancing army. Bowser pressed to the wall, put up a desperate fight; all his henchmen could not save him. Militant reform won the day, as in Manitoba, and later as it will in all Canada.
