Paint Looks Alike When It's New You can't tell much about the quality of paint by looking at it when it is freshly applied. Colors are easy to produce, and the glisten of fresh oil gives even poor paint a temporary beauty. But look at it a Few Years Later! The cheap paint, that started out so bravely, has faded, cracked, and peeled. It is unsightly, and-more important still-has exposed the wood below to the destructive effect of sun, rain, wind and snow. It lies in the fact that B-H "English" Paint is perfectly proportioned to meet Canadian weather conditions. It contains 70% of Brandram's B.B.
