

Fall Suit Blunders!

In selecting that fall suit that you expect to speak so well of, you remember and remember well that there are things more to be desired than the couple of dollars you think you are going to save in buying a 'cheap' suit of clothes.

There's your personal appearance and there's your peace of mind—you don't want the self-consciousness a week or two from now that the 'bargain' you got has got you.

Come here for safety.

There is a dash and style about our garments that appeals to every man who enjoys the appearance of success, and the appearance of success leads to success.

Special Inducements.

We believe we have the best $15.00 suit or overcoat in town. We believe we have the best $18.00 suit or overcoat in town. We believe we have the best $20.00 suit or overcoat in town. Come in and see if you don't believe just exactly as we do.

Livingston's,

Brock Street.
A little out of the way, but it will pay you to walk.

Prepare for the Cold Weather

Some articles you may not need for five or six weeks, but in five or six weeks the prices may be much higher.

ENGLISH EIDERDOWN QUILTS

Filled with pure down, ventilated and fancy quilting covered with down-proof, sateen with plain panels of contrasting colors. A large assortment of pretty patterns at less than present manufacture prices. $6.00 and $7.00.

WHITE WOOL BLANKETS

In single, three quarter and double bed sizes, all pure wool with dainty pink and blue borders. These were purchased months ago and you get the advantage of the low price. $5.00, $6.00, $7.00, $8.00 and $9.00.

GREY WOOL BLANKETS

For extra hard wear, a full assortment of all sizes at $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00.

FLANNELETTE BLANKETS

The best quality in white and grey, with pink or blue borders, all full large sizes at $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 a pair.

Waldron's

THEATRE TUNNEL!

THEATRE TUNNEL!

England and France Will Yet Be Linked Under the Waves.

There seems to be fair promise that, after the war, another of the great engineering feats of the world will be seen in the long-delayed construction of the Channel Tunnel from Dover to Calais.

And if this be accomplished, the stupendous work will rank beside the other wonderful triumphs of man over the forces of Nature.

The Alps have been bored again and again; the latest achievement of the Simplon Tunnel being the greatest. Niagara Falls have been harnessed, and the Suez and Panama Canals cut.

It was only the other day that the shareholders of the Channel Tunnel Company received with a high official their annual report, in which they said:

"The Board has watched with interest the growing movement of public opinion in favor of the tunnel, but has abstained from taking any active part therein."

To ascertain the latest phase of affairs about the tunnel prospects and the views held by people on both sides of the Channel, an Answers man paid a visit to London Bridge, and had the opportunity of a very interesting chat with a high official of the company, who told him that the feeling in France in favor of the work was now particularly strong, and that the railway on the other side of the Channel, which would link up with the English railway, had of late warmly revived the hope of seeing the great work carried through.

It is over forty years ago—namely, in 1874—that the first concession for such a tunnel, to start at Calais, was obtained from the French Government.

In 1875 the Channel Tunnel Company obtained an English Act of Parliament to commence experimental work in St. Margaret's Bay, to the east of Dover.

For years nothing really practical was done, and then at last work was begun in earnest, and by July of 1882 some 2,026 yards of the tunnel had been made, or well over a mile.

It was owing to the intervention of the Board of Trade and a terrific war of opposition to the tunnel that the work was suspended when it was.

But in the year before the outbreak of the war—namely, 1913—the scheme was revived by his Majesty's Government calling for reports on the subject from the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

THEATRE TUNNEL!

THEATRE TUNNEL!

England and France Will Yet Be Linked Under the Waves.

There seems to be fair promise that, after the war, another of the great engineering feats of the world will be seen in the long-delayed construction of the Channel Tunnel from Dover to Calais.

And if this be accomplished, the stupendous work will rank beside the other wonderful triumphs of man over the forces of Nature.

The Alps have been bored again and again; the latest achievement of the Simplon Tunnel being the greatest. Niagara Falls have been harnessed, and the Suez and Panama Canals cut.

It was only the other day that the shareholders of the Channel Tunnel Company received with a high official their annual report, in which they said:

"The Board has watched with interest the growing movement of public opinion in favor of the tunnel, but has abstained from taking any active part therein."

To ascertain the latest phase of affairs about the tunnel prospects and the views held by people on both sides of the Channel, an Answers man paid a visit to London Bridge, and had the opportunity of a very interesting chat with a high official of the company, who told him that the feeling in France in favor of the work was now particularly strong, and that the railway on the other side of the Channel, which would link up with the English railway, had of late warmly revived the hope of seeing the great work carried through.

It is over forty years ago—namely, in 1874—that the first concession for such a tunnel, to start at Calais, was obtained from the French Government.

In 1875 the Channel Tunnel Company obtained an English Act of Parliament to commence experimental work in St. Margaret's Bay, to the east of Dover.

For years nothing really practical was done, and then at last work was begun in earnest, and by July of 1882 some 2,026 yards of the tunnel had been made, or well over a mile.

It was owing to the intervention of the Board of Trade and a terrific war of opposition to the tunnel that the work was suspended when it was.

But in the year before the outbreak of the war—namely, 1913—the scheme was revived by his Majesty's Government calling for reports on the subject from the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and at that point the War Office, and the Board of Trade, such reports to be submitted to the Committee of Imperial Defence for subsequent decision by the Cabinet. And then the war came.

THEATRICAL NEWS

THEATRICAL NEWS

At The Grand.

The Bill at the Grand Opera House the first half of this week is certainly very fine. The capacity house last night manifested great interest.

Theda Bara, in "East Lynne," proved to be one of the best pictures ever presented before Kingston people. A two-reel Universal photoplay "The Red Lie," a comedy picture "A Stranger in His Own Town" and the famous Pathe news were also shown and pleased immensely. The vaudeville is immense. John W. Mangels, "The Talkative Hoop Juggling Jester" certainly lives up to his reputation. He is easily the King of Hoops. The Roma Duo, in a musical and singing act are also good and made a big hit. During their act they rendered with fine effect, "Misereere," "Good Bye, Good Luck, God Bless You," "One, Two, Three, Four" and "Chere, Chere Bin" and received loud applause. The same programme will be shown tonight and Wednesday.

"Everywoman." By far the most interesting production of recent years, the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," with which the public has become through New York press despatches and magazine articles, will be disclosed at the Grand Opera House on Thursday, September 28th, when Henry W. Savage will offer his splendid performance of the epoch-making play. Mr. Savage has declared that he considers "Everywoman" the most important triumph in his career as a producer. The music, which is symphonic in character, is interpreted by a special symphony orchestra carried by the company. It was composed by George Whitefield Chadwick, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston. Nearly one hundred people are employed in the production.

"The Bohemian Girl." The highly spectacular revival of "The Bohemian Girl," to be presented by the Aborn Opera Company at the Grand Opera House for two nights, Friday and Saturday of this week, with a matinee on Saturday afternoon, is said to be duplicating the immense success of its previous seasons. Several factors combined give to Balfe's greatest work a high place in the affections of lovers of opera. Of these the foremost is probably Balfe's genius for melody as exemplified in such delightful and ever welcome ballads as "The Heart Bowed Down," "I Dream I Dwell in Marble Halls," "Then You'll Remember Me," "The Fair Land of Poland," "A Soldier's Life," "Bliss Forever Past," "The Gipsy Ride" and other numbers.

At the Strand. A large and appreciative audience greeted the bill presented at the Strand last evening. The headliner was Douglas Fairbanks in his latest Triangle success in five acts entitled "Flirting With Fate," a comedy drama that is filled with lots of pep and a thousand laughs. A two-part Keystone comedy, "Wings and Wheels," is also very amusing. On the vaudeville end of the bill the Manetta Duo, who have made such a decided hit with Kingstonians, rendered several decidedly fine numbers which were well received. The same programme will be repeated again to-night and to-morrow.

GET DEGREE OF B.A.

Fall Supplemental List Announced At Queen's University. The following B. A. degrees were announced at Queen's University Tuesday afternoon:

- J. E. Cowie, Neudorf, Sask.
- T. M. Creighton, Saskatoon, Sask.
- W. M. Eadie, Toronto.
- Sr. Annie L. Dunn, London.
- J. A. Finlayson, Dutton.
- Robt. Gillies, Port Hope.
- Margaret Jonson, Jarvis.
- W. P. Keams, Chesterville.
- R. C. McCullough, Markdale.
- Sr. Mary McNeill, Chatham, N.B.
- J. A. Ramsay, Ottawa.
- J. B. Skene, Havelock.
- L. D. Stephenson, Scotland.
- Theresa Theriault, Kingston, Vt.
- E. G. Twitchell, Burlington, Vt.
- T. K. Waddell, Metcalfe.
- E. M. H. Ward, Collingwood.
- Muriel Whalley, Arnprior.
- C. Innes, Lloydminster, Sask.

David Lamar, serving a two-year sentence for impersonating A. Mitchell Palmer, formerly a congressman, with intent to defraud the United States Steel Corporation and J. P. Morgan & Co., cannot get release yet.

Press despatches from Vienna say there has been a bread famine there for several days, owing to transportation difficulties.

An Easy Matter

To Get the Right Suit this Autumn

If you have a look through the large collection we have just received.

The woman ready to buy a fall suit may — and probably will — shop carefully through the whole town, but she is very likely to come back to Laidlaw's to Buy for it is doubtful if there is a collection anything near the new range of suits we are now showing.

Suits at $15.00.

Suits at $20.00 to $50.00.

Among the new suits there is distinction in the styles; there is unquestioned quality in the materials. There are skill and thoroughness in the workmanship. And these new suits have been so carefully designed and made as to require the least possible alteration to give them the made-to-order look that is always desired.

Without Charge!

Any alteration necessary will be made by expert dressmakers and this without charge if you select your suit or coat now.

It may be impossible to promise this later owing to rush of work.

John Laidlaw & Son

Hundreds of pairs of French Kid Gloves just arrived.

Fall Shoes For Men

WE HAVE MADE A CAREFUL SELECTION OF MEN'S SHOES FOR FALL.

Young men's shoes, recede toes . . . . . $5.00
Men's Comfort First Cushion Soles . . . . . $5.00

The Lockett Shoe Store