A SPLENDID RECORD

Retnew Liquor History Is An Interesting One.

Retnew, Sept. 28.—John Conolly, who has been license inspector for South Renfrew for twenty-five years, has been appointed inspector for the whole county. Up till the coming into force of the new temperance act, both North and South Renfrew had an inspector. Mr. Conolly was an appointee of a Liberal government, but his record as an official has been good, and this further recognition of him as an efficient officer, is looked upon as a policy which both parties may well pursue.

Since his appointment in 1891 he has prosecuted 784 cases for alleged violation of the Liquor License Act, and obtained 530 convictions, collecting the sum of $15,700. When first appointed there were 35 licensed liquor dealers, which as years went on increased in number. Eventually local option made itself felt until only one shop and nine tavern licenses were in existence when provincial prohibition came into force last week.

RECEPTION GIVEN SOLDIERS.

Campbellford Shows Appreciation of Presence of 235th Battalion.

Campbellford, Ont., Sept. 29.—A splendid reception was given the 235th Battalion by the citizens of Campbellford yesterday, when the battalion, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel S. B. Scobell, marched in from Brighton, a distance of 22 miles. This battalion was met at the town limits by the mayor and council, citizens, band and a score of automobiles, which escorted the soldiers to Exhibition Park, where they are camping for the week. Bells rang, whistles blew, citizens cheered as the boys in khaki marched through the streets. Ninety-seven recruits have enlisted with the battalion since starting on the trek from headquarters at Bowmanville, three weeks ago.

DIED ON THE FIELD OF HONOR

Another Belleville Boy, William Post, Was Killed in Great Somme Drive.

Belleville, Sept. 29.—Another Belleville boy has paid the supreme price, Lance-Corp. William Post, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Post. He was killed in action in the great Somme drive on Sept. 11th. Venerable Archdeacon Beamish, St. Thomas' church, broke the news to the deceased soldier's young widow.

William Post is another of the gallant 8th C. M. R. men who have been so badly cut up in the many engagements. He enlisted in Belleville a year ago and with him went his brother Bert, who was wounded a few months ago. He was transferred to an infantry unit and went to France a considerable time since.

In civil life the late William Post was at one time an employee of the Rolling Mills. At the time of his enlistment he worked for Gilbert's Bakery. He was 31 years of age.

Mrs. Post, who is a daughter of Angus Duminie, is left with three small children, the youngest a baby. Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Post, and family, who live on Front street.

Forms Association.

Port Hope, Sept. 29.—The adjourned meeting of the mayors and representatives of the different municipalities served by the Seymour Power Electric Company, was held, when it was decided to form a permanent organization to be called the Midland Ontario Municipal Association with the following officers: President, Mayor R. A. Mulholland, Port Hope; vice-president, Mayor Duffus, of Peterboro; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Stinson, Lindsay; executive committee, Mayor Conawa, of Oshawa; Mayor Ketchison, of Belleville.

It was decided to have a strong delegation to wait upon the Hydro-Electric Commission to urge upon them to make some concession in reduction in rates, or otherwise, in lieu of the loss in taxes owing to Government ownership.

Pte. Frank Hockey Recovering.

Brockville, Sept. 28.—Writing to a friend in town, Frank Hockey, of Portland, Ont., who spent last winter in town as a member of the 59th Battalion, and was recently wounded, states that he was wounded in three places—in the left leg, above the elbow, and below the elbow, and has been in the hospital five weeks. He states that he is better now and expects to return to the trenches soon. His injuries were caused by a premature explosion of a bomb while he was taking instructions in bombing. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hockey reside at Portland.

Conductor Is Acquitted.

Brockville, Sept. 29.—The crown offered no evidence in the case of Robert Dickson, G.T.R. conductor, when his case was called in the police court on a charge of having received goods stolen from Grand Trunk cars at Napanee. His son, Benson, and Donald Beach, were charged with the thefts and were committed. The younger Dickson has served time on a similar charge. He and Beach were brakenmen.

KITCHENER'S RELIGION.

His Conduct at Cairo Proved a Real Tonic to That City.

Rev. J. H. Molesworth, late incumbent of All Saints', Cairo, writes as follows on Lord Kitchener's religion:

"No one could be long in his company without realizing that he was a man who viewed life seriously. I may illustrate this from the effect he produced on society in Cairo, when he went there to take up his position as British Agent and Consul-General. Cosmopolitan places like the capital of Egypt, which are largely the haunts of pleasure, are often given over to a frivolity which is not seen in cities of commerce and business. There is frequently a relaxing of morals beyond what is witnessed elsewhere, and a general air of undisciplined, and it goes without saying that in such places Sunday and Sunday worship are at a discount.

"It would be foolish to assert that Cairo was free from these vices. But the coming of Lord Kitchener instantaneously wrought a change. He was known to be a man of unwavering devotion to duty, of disciplined life, of resolute purpose, instinctively we all braced ourselves up, and it was as though a tonic had been administered to the place. So far as his work permitted, Lord Kitchener was regular and punctual in his church attendance, and this at once told beneficially upon the Sunday habits of the community.

"He was president of All Saints' Church committee, and I never remember his omitting to take the chair, even when hard pressed by his business.

"Earl Kitchener was indeed a type of that simple, manly, straightforward Christianity which we associate with the best English life, which does not trouble itself indeed about subtle questions and controversies, but rests on the broad facts of revelation, and in simplicity practises its tenets."

No More Gulf Stream?

The Gulf Stream—that famous "hot-water system"—has deserted us and turned westward; at least, so we are told.

As a general rule, after leaving the Mexican Gulf, the stream strikes north along the coast of North America until it reaches Newfoundland, which is also swept by the cold Labrador current from the north. It then proceeds due east, and in mid-Atlantic divides, part of it sweeping along the West Coast of Africa, and part of it warming our western shores.

The probability is that, in view of this strange and unkind behaviour on the part of the Gulf Stream, inhabitants of these isles will have to bear with some chilly weather, while fortunate mortals in other parts of the world will bask in their newly-found heat.

That the stream has a definite effect on our shores is shown by the fact that off the coasts of Britain warmer water is found at a depth of three-quarters of a mile than at a similar depth off the tropical coasts of Africa.

A cold summer of ten years ago was accounted for by the divergence of the stream to the north, and its fondness for this direction was again evinced in the winter of 1908, though a few years ago it made an appearance round the coasts of Australia.

An Unrehearsed Meeting.

Sir Douglas Haig is as strict in exacting the military salute as he is punctilious in returning it.

Recently he was walking up and down the platform of a small railway station "somewhere in France," dressed in plain clothes. A private soldier in uniform was also walking up and down, but took no notice of him.

At length Sir Douglas stepped in front of him and said: "Look here, my man! Do you know who I am?"

"No, I don't!"

"I am Sir Douglas Haig."

"Here," cried the private indignantly, "don't you try to come it. Why, if 'Aig' heard you say that, he'd punch your silly fat head for you."

How's That?

At the conclusion of the assizes at a provincial town the legal luminaries indulged in a cricket match. A certain well-known judge presently occupied the wicket, and so persistently did he display the stone-walling tactics that his opponents despaired of getting him out. After a futile appeal of "leg before," the judge said to the umpire:

"I wonder if I am to be imprisoned here until the next assizes?"

He had hardly spoken when an extra fast ball removed the cross-pieces.

"No, my lord," replied the umpire, with a sly grin; "you are bailed out."

Natural Protection.

India is one of the best-protected countries—naturally—in the whole world. Her shape is a triangular peninsula. Two sides are washed by the ocean and the third is bounded by the mighty wall of the Himalayas.

Probably the land most immune from invasion at this moment is New Zealand. Its nearest neighbor is the sister colony of Australia, over a thousand miles away. Japan is 5,000 miles distant, and "Prisco 6,000 miles. Hardly any conceivable development of flying or submarine craft would suffice to get there.

It Wasn't Catching.

At a local cricket match the fielding of the home team was very poor, catch after catch being dropped in aggravating persistence. Geordie, who bowled mainly for catches, was tried to see catch after catch dropped from his bowling, and when one of the offenders, failing to hold the ball, muttered something about an "epidemic," Geordie angrily retorted:

"Hepedemic be blowed! It canna be a hepademic, cos it's not catchin'."

Major Lord Dudley Gladstone Gordon, Gordon Highlanders, second son of the Marquis of Aberdeen, appears in the list of the wounded.
