COLLEGE ATHLETES KILLED

TWO MORE HAVE GIVEN THEIR LIVES TO THE CAUSE.

Were Prominent in Intercollegiate Sports Either on Track, Field or Ice in Recent Years.

Two very prominent intercollegiate athletes were killed in action during the past week. Lieut. W. Stewart McKeough, of Chatham, was an undergraduate in medicine, of the University of Toronto. He was the champion high jumper (1912-14) of the Canadian Intercollegiate Union, and former captain of the Varsity hockey team. He was company commander in the 15th Battalion. His mother was a Miss Jarvis, of Toronto. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and a very popular young man in University circles.

Capt. D. A. Kittermaster, a graduate of Upper Canada College and the Royal Military College, Kingston (1914), was champion sprinter of both colleges and was star outside wing of the splendid 1913 R. M. C. senior football team. He was adjutant of the 42nd Battalion, Montreal. His father is a high official of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and now resides in Chicago. They were formerly of Windsor, Ont. In England he joined the artillery and received a splendid appointment and has been mentioned for bravery. He has been officially reported wounded.

In the casualty lists appears the name of Lieut. A. S. Horner, the well-known Varsity and Argonaut rugby player. Horner was wounded on September 16th, and died last Wednesday. While at Victoria College Horner was the champion athlete and president of the Athletic Association. He played with the Varsity champion team of 1914, and last year was one of the wing line of the Argos. Big and strong, he was an excellent inside wing player.

Taken to Hospital.

Cadet Baker, Ottawa, who is attending the Royal Military College, was taken to the General Hospital Monday in James Reid's ambulance. He was threatened with an attack of appendicitis, but an operation was not found necessary.

M'GEE MEASURED UP

To The Standard Of His Sporting Life In Battle.

Tom Flanagan in the Toronto Telegram says: The death of Lieut. Frank McGee, fighting at the front in the last great push, recalls the stirring times of hockey in Canada. The dead player was one of the most spectacular, most brilliant—one of the very greatest hockey players this country, the home of hockey, ever saw.

Not a big man, he was never surpassed in Canada for gameness. He flourished as a hockey player in a time of strenuous times. A man who played the great winter game at that time, took his life in his hands, but nobody ever heard of Frank McGee flinching.

As game as a pebble in hockey, it is certain that in giving up his life for the glory of Canada he never quailed. No man ever got McGee in his play without a receipt for it, and there is consolation in being sure that in this last stand he measured up to the standard of his sporting life. Here's to a hero—Frank McGee.

He is gone, as many a keen sportsman, and not one but has fought a fight to glorify not only himself, but also the sport he followed. It is a lesson that must not be unlearned after this war—that sport, clean and upright, is the best training on earth for the life of a civilian or death as a soldier.

STEVE VAIR REJOINS

Was Wounded and Invalided, But Joins 159th Battalion.

Steve Vair, the pride of Barrie, who went over with the first contingent and stopped a chunk of hot Hun lead, has tackled the game again. He was invalided home, but is again in khaki. Last week he joined the 159th Battalion, a Northern Ontario unit, and is now soldiering along with Lieuts. Howard and George Macnamarra, Goldie, Producers, Gordon Keats and the rest of that coterie of pro hockey players who are with the northern battalion. Vair was hit in the shoulder, and the bullet in its course only missed Vair's heart by an inch. He looked like a subject for some of that "doesn't he look natural" talk, but he fooled them all and pulled through, and now his ambition is to go back and get even for the slam he got. On the ice he always handed out a "receipt" for every chop, so his decision to go back and square accounts is no surprise.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

J. H. Dawson Is Enthusiastic Over The Rugby Prospects.

In an interview, J. H. Dawson of Queen's University was very enthusiastic over the prospects for the rugby season here. There will be a league with the camp team, Royal Military College team and one from Queen's University. The first game will be between Queen's and R.M.C. on Saturday next and on Thanksgiving Day Queen's will play the Hamilton Tiger khaki team of Camp Borland. The game is being staged in the Varsity Stadium in Toronto and should draw a large crowd.

Heavy Frosts in Country.

Farmers report heavy frost Saturday night. Stocks of late corn and potato tops were struck down, and the loss will be heavy. The frost was so severe that ice formed on water in the troughs. The flowers at Catarqui Cemetery were stricken and those visiting the city of the dead on Sunday said it was a pathetic sight to see the dead blooms.

BASEBALL BRIEFS.

Frank Gilhooley has joined the New York Yankees, and may get into several games before the season closes, in order to give his leg a test.

Jack Coombs, the veteran pitcher, is a great admirer of Al. Nixon, the little outfielder now with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Nixon was purchased from the Dallas Club in 1914, but was a little green for fast company at that time, and Manager Robinson farmed him out to the Dallas Club, of the Texas League, for more experience.

Speaking of headgear, Clarence Mitchell got a jolt in a Broadway hat store. Mitchell went in to purchase a lid and casually mentioned that he was a member of the Cincinnati Club. The clerk immediately brought out a lot of 6 3/4 hats for inspection.

The Pittsburg Pirates have obtained Pitcher Harold Carlson from the Rockford, Ill. Club by draft. The Chicago Cubs had first choice upon the Rockford Club but cancelled their claim.

Players of the Cleveland team allege that one of the secrets of Detroit's great hitting is that the batter's box has been elevated, allowing the batters to step down on a pitched ball and keep it on the ground or from being hit on the fly. The question might be asked: Why don't other teams playing in Detroit get their hits?

Al Birdwell, former New York Giant, has been signed to manage the Milwaukee team of the American Association next season.

The Pittsburg Pirates have released Pitcher James Scott to the Macon Club, from which team he was obtained recently.

Tris Speaker kept the Cleveland club in the race for two-thirds of the season, but the loss of Speaker could not keep the Red Sox out of it.

SOME RADICAL CHANGES

Likely To Be Made In Baseball Playing Rules.

When the National League magnates hold their annual meeting in New York in December the chances are an attempt will be made to make radical changes in the playing rules. Some already being considered are: Abolition of the spitball, prevention of the use of any foreign substance on the ball by pitchers and changing the foul-strike rule so that either the first or second foul will not be a strike. Some of the magnates, too, are in favor of giving Philadelphia a ground rule making a fair hit ball which bounces over the short and low fence at the Philadelphia ball grounds a two-bagger instead of a home run as at present. It is possible that other parks will be considered for a similar change.
