HOTEL IS BEING CLOSED

BRITISH-AMERICAN TO CLOSE DOORS ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

Cutting Off of Sale of Liquor in the Bar is the Reason—One of the Oldest Hotels in Eastern Canada. The British-American Hotel, the oldest hostelry in this city, will close its doors to guests on Saturday night and in the course of a few days the proprietor, Frank A. Hanley, will hold an auction sale and dispose of the entire furnishings.

Mr. Hanley has been running the hotel under a "standard" license since Ontario went "dry," but states that with the bar trade cut off he cannot make the business pay, and for this reason he has decided to sell out, and at the same time retire from the hotel business. The building is owned by the Kingston Real Estate Company.

Mr. Hanley has been conducting the hotel for the past two years, and has served the people well. He is a man who knows the business from A to Z, and always gave his guests the very best he could, and is popular with all.

Speaking to the Whig on Friday morning, Mr. Hanley stated that with the cutting off of the bar trade he could not make the business pay. He drew attention to the very heavy expense the hotel is under, and with the dropping off of the bar trade it would be impossible to keep it going. He made some money before the Ontario temperance act went into force and does not care to keep on in the business and lose it.

The British-American Hotel is not only the oldest hotel in Kingston, but one of the oldest in Eastern Canada, it having served the public for close on to 20 years. It is known to travellers the world over, and in its day has housed many notable people. For some time the dining-room at the British-American Hotel has been closed, the guests being cared for at the Frontenac Hotel.

The closing of this hotel goes to show just how popular two per cent beer is with the people. Since the "strong stuff" was put on the forbidden list there has been very little trade in this or any of the local hotels. The hotels are now minus the old-time stir; in fact some of the hotel bars and corridors are as quiet as a graveyard. When old King Alcohol ruled they were pretty lively places.

In Bivouac And Barracks

Capt. W. F. Ingsen, artillery instructor at the Royal Military College, has been promoted to the rank of major in consideration of his work in instructing at Petawawa Camp during the past summer.

John Coughlin, late bandmaster of the 156th Battalion, has been appointed bandmaster of the Governor General's Body Guard Band, Ottawa.

Bandsman David Brown, 156th Battalion band, who is now in the General Hospital recovering from a fracture of the leg, received word on Thursday that his cousin, Lieut. A. R. Henshlow, King's Liverpool Regiment, has been killed in action.

Albert Sparks, of the Queen's Field Ambulance Corps, and William Dadsell, of the Canadian Engineers, have enlisted in the Princess Street recruiting depot for overseas service.

Camp headquarters moved to the city on Friday, and load after load of office equipment was changed from the camp to the armouries offices.

Lieut. J. B. Freeland, an ex-R.M.C. cadet, was in the city to-day renewing acquaintances before leaving for overseas to rejoin his regiment. Last July Lieut. Freeland was wounded severely in the left hand while serving in France with a York and Imperial regiment and was given several months' furlough. He is now returning to the front, having recovered from his injury.

WILL MOVE SOON.

Recruiting Depot Moving in a Week to Inside Location.

It is expected that the recruiting depot on Princess street, now next to Rodger's Jewellery store, will move to its new location in the Midland Shoe office about the first of the month. There is nothing in the gateway to stop the steady draft of wind, and the office work in connection with the signing up of recruits is therefore done under difficulties.

It is expected that with a warm and inviting office instead of a cold open-air gateway recruits could be better taken care of. There are also many cases in which the recruiting offices wish to discuss the matter with young men and this cannot be advantageously done outside.

Canadian Casualties.

Killed in action—A. A. Humphrey, Adolphustown; C. T. Rush, Peterboro; Lieut. H. Y. Carroll, Belleville; Lance-Serjt. W. H. Curtis, Peterboro; W. A. Dingman, Belleville.

Died of wounds—Sergt. A. E. Wirtman, Newburgh.

Missing—A. E. Jones, Bowmansville.

Wounded—W. E. Bryant, Renfrew; R. Shorts, Newburgh; A. C. Webster, Lanark; E. Preston, 14 Clergy street west, Kingston; H. Gordon, Cobourg; Lieut. J. M. Longman, Iroquois; R. W. Montgomery, Peterboro; H. G. Rumary, Peterboro; Lieut. E. S. Hoag, Trenton; Gunner J. J. Munten, Gananoque.

Seriously ill—C. F. Abbott, Smith's Falls. Edward Preston is the son of G. E. Preston, Army Service Corps here. Before enlisting he was a clerk in Bibby's, Ltd.

$2,000 For House of Providence. A legacy of $2,000 is left to the House of Providence, Kingston, by the late Robert Gardner, formerly of Kingston, who died in New York on the 14th of October, and whose remains were brought here and buried in St. Mary's Cemetery.

THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.

The programme of vaudeville and photoplays being presented at the Grand Opera House the last half of this week is one of the strongest bills yet presented. William Farnum, the celebrated actor of the Fox Film Company, is seen in a stirring drama, "The End of the Trail." The scenes of this picture are all laid in the snow-clad regions of the Great North-West, and the picture tells a story of the fight made by one man for his home and happiness. A two-reel Universal photoplay, "They Would Not Take Him Seriously," a comedy picture, "Sammye Johnston in Mexico," and the Pathe News was also presented. Marion Drew, in a hoop rolling act performed some very clever work. Padon & Read, in a black-face comedy singing act was also very good. The same bill will be presented to-night and on Saturday afternoon and evening.

"Some Baby."

Next Monday night, Oct. 30th, at the Grand Opera House, "Some Baby," a clever farcial comedy, will be here. It is a three-act play conceived for the purpose of rousing the risibilities, and when you see into what a perfect maze of complications an aged professor of chemistry, his daughter, aged twenty, his sister on the other side of forty, the youthful suitor for the daughter's hand, a retired general of sixty, and a number of minor characters can be involved in, you will understand the reason for the laugh-producing qualities attributed to it. The Elxir of Youth does it all—or the old professor's firm belief that he has discovered this long-sought magic elixir starts the action and keeps the audience on the qui vive up to the final curtain. Grace Merritt heads an excellent acting company.

At Griffin's.

An unusually large and highly delighted audience attended this popular play house last evening to witness a well selected and very entertaining bill. The feature picture, a Famous Player production, was entitled "Little Lady Elleen," with that charming little screen star, Marguerite Clark, in the leading role. It is a real Irish tale of love and loyalty—truly Irish in every essential detail—not a caricature, but wholesome, sweet and winning with the ever present wit and light-hearted frolic that characterizes almost every action of the sons and daughters of the Emerald Isle.

The vaudeville, the Elite Duo, termed novelty musical minstrels, gave a very entertaining and unusual form of entertainment. The Athletic Weekly is of unusual interest. The bill closed with one of those "Musty Surfer" scream comedies and complete an evening of real enjoyment.

The above bill will be shown to-day and to-morrow.

ANOTHER ADVANCE COMING

SHOE REPAIRING PRICES ARE TO GET ANOTHER BOOST.

A Meeting Called For Next Week—Increase Absolutely Necessary in View of Present Conditions.

"Can you put on a pair of half-soles for me to-day?" was the question asked of a local shoemaker on Friday morning. The answer was characteristic of present conditions in this work in the city. It was, "Labor is practically impossible to get at any price and even by paying sixty-eight cents a pound it is difficult to get leather."

The citizens must become accustomed soon to paying record prices for shoe repairing. The price of leather in the last two years has advanced from twenty-five to sixty-eight cents a pound, and there is not now the slightest indication of a let-up. In regard to shoemakers, there are so many overseas employed in military work that advertisements of the most extensive kind are unable to find needed men.

Next week the shoemakers and shoe repairers of the city are to meet and a new schedule of prices will likely be drawn up. At the first of this year a revival was made, but even this advance denies the shoemaker a living under present conditions.

In discussing the probability of lower prices, the shoemaker said that in imitation leather or the new compositions now on the market there is the only chance of salvation. The new composition (and there are several) are on the whole very satisfactory, though the majority will not defy water as will the real leather sole. These should improve in time, however.

Poultry Association.

There was a meeting of the Poultry Association held in the Sons of England hall on Thursday evening to arrange for the big silver anniversary poultry show which is being planned for three days in the armouries. Eight new members have joined the association. The prospects are for a record making show on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the formation of the association.

Joins Free Press Staff.

J. O. Beaudry, late city editor of the Standard, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Ottawa Free Press, and left for the capital on Thursday. He is a promising young newspaperman, and his many friends will watch his career with interest, confident that he will achieve a large measure of success.
