PLEADS GUILTY TO THE CHARGE

William Phillips Unlawfully Aided German Prisoner to Escape.

REMANDED FOR ONE WEEK

BEFORE MAGISTRATE FARRELL IMPOSES SENTENCE.

Phillips Hobbled Into Court on Crutch—Suffering From Effect of a Stroke of Paralysis—He Had No Explanation to Make.

Hobbling into the Police Court room on crutches, William Phillips, river pilot, on Thursday morning, before Magistrate Farrell, pleaded guilty to the serious charge of having on October 30th unlawfully aided a German prisoner, Henry Muller, in escaping from Canada. He was remanded for a week for sentence.

Phillips, who was placed under arrest on Tuesday afternoon, is suffering from the effect of a stroke of paralysis and presented a pitiful sight in the court room. It was all he could do to make his way from the cells to the prisoners' dock.

When arraigned on the charge he said: "Guilty, sir," in a clear voice, but had nothing further to say.

Lieut. James Graham, provost marshal, who is handling the case, and who made the arrest, with the assistance of Constable Earl Jenkins, asked that the accused be remanded to jail for eight days. The Magistrate stated that he would remand the prisoner for a week.

Phillips and Muller were patients at the General Hospital. On Monday afternoon they took "French leave" from that institution. Phillips, who knows the river well from his long experience as a pilot, secured a skiff at a local livery, and set out to take Muller over to Cape Vincent, but owing to a big storm that came up, they were unable to continue their journey, and were compelled to stay on Wolfe Island over night, and also the next morning. The military and police authorities got wind of the "frame-up," and Lieut. Graham and Constable Jenkins went to the island and succeeded in rounding up the much-wanted men. Muller and Phillips were brought back to the city and lodged in the police cells, and later on Muller was taken back to Fort Henry.

In Bivouac And Barracks

Recruiting, while showing a falling off during the past two weeks as compared with the preceding two weeks, is regarded in military circles as fairly satisfactory for this season of the year. It is expected that when cold weather sets in, and it is too unpleasant to hang around street corners, there will be an impetus to recruiting. This has been the experience in past seasons. Labor, too, is not so plentiful in the winter, and rather than remain idle the industrious young man will enlist. One thing that the recruiting officer is up against is the disloyal action of some parents who allow their boys to enlist and then in the spring demand their release on the ground that they are under age. The only way to guard against this would be to require each would-be recruit to present his birth certificate, and it is not improbable that something may be done along that line. It costs the Government about $500 to feed, clothe and train each recruit for six months, and this money is thrown away if at the end of that time an unpatriotic parent secures the release of his boy because he was not eighteen when he enlisted. There is now a militia regulation, which states that a recruit who has spent three months in a unit cannot be released because of his being under age. A test case is now being made of this regulation.

The 230th Battalion, which is being transferred from Ottawa to Brockville, probably Friday, will be quartered in the exhibition building, which has been fitted up to accommodate 600 soldiers in comfort.

Officers commanding units stationed in Kingston have been instructed to detail their mail orderly to call at district headquarters at the following hours, mail or other matter intended for their units: 10 a.m., 2 p.m., 5 p.m.

Lieut. H. Swaine, 21st Battalion, has been granted leave of absence until midnight, Nov. 6th.

Five more recruits have arrived from Ottawa for Queen's Field Ambulance.

Harry Walker, Renfrew, a newspaper man, is with Queen's battery, which reached Kingston on Wednesday from Petawawa.

Lieut. Allan Bland, in the trenches for over nine months and now on leave till January to recover from shell shock, is to take a military course in Kingston.

Senator Corby and W. B. Northrup, M.P., Belleville, are at Ottawa to see if an order cannot be secured from the present chaos surrounding the military situation in that city. The proposal is to recommend that Durham, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Hastings and Lennox and Addington be combined into a single recruiting area with headquarters at Belleville both for the 235th Battalion and another battalion soon to be organized.

Two men for the 75th Battery were secured Wednesday at the Princess street recruiting depot.

MAY RE-OPEN CONTROVERSY AS TO WHETHER MERCHANTMEN MAY ARM.

The London Chronicle Thinks That the Present German Submarine Campaign Means That No Vessels Are to be Warned.

(Special to the Whig.)
Washington, Nov. 2.—The re-opening of the entire armed merchantman controversy between this Government and Germany is certain, if it is proved the British steamer Marina was armed at the time she was sunk by a German submarine, statements of Secretary Lansing indicated to-day. Whether merchantmen have the right to arm for defence is still an open question between this Government and Germany, Secretary Lansing admitted to-day. This question will be dealt with by Germany over the death of six Americans on board the vessel, it was stated. While this Government has maintained the right of merchantmen to arm for defence, Germany has never admitted it. The question first arose when the Lusitania was sunk.

To War No More.
(Special to the Whig.)
London, Nov. 2.—In the opinion of the Daily Chronicle, it looks as if a recurrence of the submarine campaign bore some relation to the agitation conducted in Germany by the Conservatives and National Liberals on behalf of more frightfulness at sea. It is felt in England that Germany has decided to warn no more vessels before sinking them, be they allied or neutral.

THE PRIVY COUNCIL UPHOLDS RULE 17

Ontario Government Had the Right to Abolish Bilingualism in Schools.

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Cables received in Toronto this morning indicate that the Privy Council has finally and definitely vindicated the Ontario Government in the bilingual case, giving judgment holding that the famous rule seventeen, abolishing bilingualism in all Ontario public and separate schools under the direction of the Minister of Education was perfectly valid.

Another finding by the Privy Council, however, holds that the Ontario Government acted wrongly in transferring the control of the Ottawa separate schools from the trustees to a commission.

To-morrow and Saturday afternoons and evenings the management of the Grand has chosen an extremely select programme of entertainment for its patrons. In the feature picture Virginia Pearson appears in "The Tortured Heart," a sympathetic interpretation of an intensely interesting southern romance. Other good screen subjects, the Pathé News, one-reel comedy and two reel photo play, will also be shown. On the boards the Two Nicholson's will be seen in their wonderful act of aerial and ground flexible equilibristics. Another good act will also be shown.

"Hobson's Choice"

Clean in sentiment; rich in characterization; quaint in its dialect and mid-Victorian costumes, and saturated with a kindly humor it was inevitable that "Hobson's Choice" the delightful comedy of English provincial life by Harold Brighouse which we are to see for the first time to-night at the Grand Opera House, should have enjoyed a stupendous success in New York, Boston and Chicago for an entire year, while now it has become the reigning laugh-maker in London.

Ideal Theatre.

Last episode of "Peg O' The Ring" and second episode of "Liberty," the serial of all serials, will be shown at the above theatre to-night, coupled with two other reels, making a bill that has never been equalled in Kingston for a nickel. Come early as we always have to turn people away. First show at 7 p.m.; second show, 8.30 p.m.

WANTED TO CONSULT AMERICAN DOCTORS

Reason Credited to William Phillips For Taking German Across the Line.

That he wanted to get over to New York state to consult a specialist concerning his illness, is the statement credited to William Phillips, and given as his excuse for attempting to get over into the States with the German prisoner, Henry Muller. Phillips has been undergoing treatment in the General Hospital here, but he had an idea that if he could get across the border he might consult some of the noted doctors, and that there would be a chance of his being cured.
