KILLED BY RAT POISON FUMES.
Two Men Dead, Four Others Overcome in Ship.
Boston, Nov. 3.—Fumes from chemicals used to exterminate rats in the hold of the Leyland Line steamship Devonian caused the death of two men, and four others are in a critical condition at the East Boston Hospital. The vessel had been fumigated, and it was supposed that all of the gases had escaped when carpenters went on board to-day to work in the holds, and were overcome. They were brought out by members of the crew wearing improvised gas masks.
The Kingston, Ont., council unanimously decided to hand over to the tuberculosis sanatorium at Prescott to the Military Hospitals Commission at Ottawa.

CARRYING ON NOBLE WORK

ENCOURAGING REPORTS AT ANNUAL MEETING OF ORPHANS' HOME.

Well-deserved Praise Was Bestowed Upon the Management—Children Take Part in a Musical Programme.

Encouraging reports, worthy tributes to the management, and inspiring addresses marked the annual meeting of the Orphans' Home, held on Thursday afternoon, and which was presided over by Mayor Richardson.

That the Home is under able management was amply shown by the reports which were presented, and Superintendent Hunter, Mrs. Hunter, the matron, and the members of the Board of Management well deserved the praise bestowed upon them by all who were present. A feature of the proceedings was the presence of the inmates, fifty-six in number, thirty boys and twenty-six girls, who took a prominent part in the programme, rendering a most delightful programme of choruses, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Wilder.

In opening the meeting, Mayor Richardson stated that the city was proud of the work which was being carried on at the Orphans' Home. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, the members of the Board of Management, and to all who had helped the institution in its noble work. He said the Home had the hearty support and the best wishes of every citizen for future success.

"No material reward would compensate or express the importance of the work you are doing," remarked Mayor Richardson, "but there is one thing sure, and that is, that you will have the commendation of your own conscience."

Reports were presented by the secretary, Mrs. H. C. Nickle; the treasurer, Mrs. (Dr.) Garrett; and the registrar, Mrs. H. Moore, and all were greeted with applause. The reports showed that every branch of the work was being well looked after and that too much credit could not be given to the workers.

The report of the treasurer showed that the cost of maintenance for the year was $7,588.45.

Call For Citizenship.

Following the reading of the reports, addresses were delivered by Canon W. F. FitzGerald, Rev. J. D. Ellis and D. E. D. MacCallum, Canon FitzGerald and Rev. Mr. Ellis spoke particularly to the children, pointing out the many opportunities offered them in their training at the Home, to serve as good citizens.

Dr. MacCallum spoke of the good work being carried on at the Home, and in a general way spoke of the great need in Kingston at the present time for the establishment of a home to care for the feeble-minded children. Special reference to his remarks on this important subject are given elsewhere in this issue.

The meeting was opened with prayer, offered by Canon FitzGerald, and this was followed with the singing of the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past." Two very fine choruses were rendered by the children, "Why Do You Not Wear Khaki" and "The Man Dressed in Khaki." At the close all joined in the singing of the National Anthem.

Report of Secretary.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. H. C. Nickle, for the Committee of Management, gave a very interesting review of the work of the year. The report was as follows:

"The committee of management present their report with great pleasure, as the progress of the Home for the past year has been most satisfactory. A great many children have found a home here, and any wards of the Children's Aid Society, between the ages of three and twelve, have been cared for and sheltered, according to the agreement made with the Children's Aid Society in 1911. We are still fortunate in having Miss Wilder, as teacher, and she has reason to be proud of the progress of the children. An exhibition of their work in writing, arithmetic, composition, ink work, drawing, and manual training, at which an admission fee of ten cents was charged, brought in $10.20, which was given to the Red Cross Society. The boys and girls in the senior class made scrap books for the soldiers, and have also collected $3 in the school for the Red Cross.

"The boys have greatly enjoyed the footballs, and the girls the tennis racquets sent by Mrs. B. W. Robertson. The late Miss McPherson supplied a magazine which is eagerly read by the children. Indeed, the many gifts sent in by kind friends are greatly appreciated. Mr. Stafford Kirkpatrick sent a very generous donation of outings for the children, and Mrs. Harry Richardson's picnic at her home will be a pleasant memory for many a day to come. We are greatly indebted to Miss Ridden, and her assistants, who give their time and skill in teaching the girls to sew and also Mrs. Constantine, who teaches them to knit. An electric washing machine was installed in the spring and greatly facilitates the work of the home. The health of the children has been fairly good, although many of them had measles and chicken-pox. Great care has been exercised in the management of the home by Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, and they are to be congratulated on the excellent report of Dr. Helen McMurchy, which reads as follows:

"An official visit of inspection was paid to the Orphan's Home, Kingston, July 4, 1916.

"The total number of inmates today is fifty-six, thirty boys and twenty-six girls, all of these were seen and were in apparently good health; they were comfortably clothed, and a number had been allowed to run barefoot during the holidays. This they seemed to enjoy. The buildings were found clean, and in good condition. The food appears to be satisfactory. The kitchen, dining-room, play-rooms and dormitories were all inspected and found satisfactory.

"The toilet and bath-rooms are good. The children are bathed once a week or oftener. The ventilation is good; the fire protection seems adequate, and all the work seems to be going on well.

"The government grant for year 1915 was $602.82. We are glad to have Mrs. Hunter back after a very serious illness, and trust that her health will continue to improve. We are very grateful to Dr. McCallum, who has given much of his time to caring for the ailments of the children, to Dr. Sparks, who has attended to their teeth, also Dr. Connell, for his kindness in cases where the skill of a specialist was required. The increased cost of living has affected this institution, and we find ourselves $300 overdrawn. This overdraft includes what was due on the repairs to the boys playroom and to the roof of the old building. At least sixteen of our old boys are serving their king and country, and in their letters pay grateful tribute to the training received in the Kingston Orphan's Home."

Perley's Overseas Appointment Regarded as Capping Climax.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The creation of a new, although only a "period of the war" portfolio of overseas forces and the appointment of Sir George Perley as minister, has shown General Sir Sam Hughes of almost the last authority left to him as minister of militia. There is little now for him to do. Munitions are in the hands of the imperial munitions board and that body is directly responsible to the imperial minister of munitions. Clothing and other supplies are handled by the war purchasing commission, recruiting is practically under the control of the national service commission, the details of the
