FARMER SUDDENLY DIES IN A FIELD

Thomas Davison Expires While in the Act of Plowing in Augusta.

Brockville, Nov. 7.—On Friday last a sad death took place in Augusta Township. The victim was Thomas Davison, a well-known farmer residing on the 6th concession, a short distance west of the Prescott-Spencerville road. He had gotten up at the usual time in the morning of that day and performed his usual chores. After dinner he went into a field to do some ploughing. He worked for a time and it is not known just when he died, as parties passing along the highway saw his lifeless body lying about the centre of the field. Medical attendance was secured from Spencerville, but when Dr. F. A. McIntosh reached the place he pronounced the man dead, heart failure being given as the cause. The deceased was a son of the late Marcus Davison of Augusta. He was forty-five years of age and had spent all of his life on the farm where he died.

Suffered With Heart For Ten Years

Would Nearly Smother. There is nothing that brings with it such fear of impending death as to wake up in the night with that awful sense of smothering. The uncertain and irregular heart action causes the greatest distress of both mind and body.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the only remedy that can give prompt relief and effect a complete cure in cases of such severity.

They strengthen and invigorate the heart, so that it beats strong and regular, and tone up the nervous system so that the cause of so much anxiety becomes a thing of the past.

Mrs. M. O. McCready, Wapella, Sask., writes: "I am not much of a believer in medicines, but I feel that it is only right for me to let you know what your wonderful remedy has done for me, and in a very short time, too. I had suffered terribly with my heart for nearly ten years, could scarcely do my work, and would nearly smother at times. I had many remedies, some only relieving me for a time. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt so much better that I kept on using them, and can truthfully say I feel like a new woman."

"I would advise anyone with heart trouble to use them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

START WORK FOR RENFREW POWER

Dam Being Built at Calabogie—New Industries for Renfrew, Too.

Renfrew, Nov. 6.—Power development work has been commenced by M. J. O'Brien, at Calabogie village, situated at the foot of Lake Calabogie, an expansion of the Madawaska river. It is the intention to build dams and erect a power house for the generation of 5,000 h.p. of hydro-electric energy, which will be transmitted either partially or wholly to Renfrew, a distance of twenty miles.

A dam twenty-eight feet in height will be built on the site of an old mill of the pioneers and beside it will be the power house. Total cost of the whole development will approximate half a million dollars.

After the Severn, the Madawaska is the largest river having its course wholly within the Province of Ontario. Its headquarters are in Algonquin Park, where the forests assure a steady flow of water. Along the Madawaska's course are several large lakes, where conservation of water can be effected if necessary.

Mr. O'Brien, who is removing his head office from Montreal to this place, will establish additional industries in Renfrew, and there are prospects of a big pulp mill on Lake Calabogie, where a large amount of pulpwood is easily available.

At nine o'clock the pretty bride, handsomely gowned in her going away suit of gabardine cloth and tinted pink satin blouse, and carrying a bouquet of white roses, entered the prettily decorated drawing-room and took her place. She wore the groom's gift, a sunburst of pearls. Rev. M. White, performed the ceremony. Afterwards the guests repaired to the dining-room where a dainty breakfast was served and toasts were drunk. The happy couple left by auto to visit Hamilton, Chatham and other western cities. The people of Wilton feel that they have lost one of their most estimable young ladies in the person of the bride who will be much missed. The presents were many and costly including a handsome cheque.

Cobourg, Nov. 6.—Lieut.-Col. Floyd, O.C. of the 139th (Northumberland) Battalion, writes back from West Sandling Camp, England, as follows: "We reached Liverpool after a peaceful voyage on the big liner 'Southland' on Friday morning, October 13. We all had to wear life-belts from the time we embarked at Halifax until we reached our port. The English regiments have no bands and our musicians created a sensation on the docks at Liverpool. From Liverpool to West Sandling was one continuous ovation to the Canadians. People lined the streets, and with flags and cheers gave us a great reception. The different battalions coming over were transferred to English battalions. The 139th will form part of the 36th Reserve Battalion."

My Creed.

Shortly after the death of her brother, Richard Watson Gilder, six years ago, Jeanette L. Gilder wrote the following verses, which she called "My Creed." So far as it knows, this is the only poem Miss Gilder ever wrote in half a century of literary and journalistic activity:

I do not fear to tread the path that I love have long since trod;

I do not fear to pass the gates and stand before the living God.

In this world's fight I've done my part; if God is God He knows it well;

He will not turn his back on me, and send me down to blackest hell

Because I have not prayed aloud and shouted in the market place.

'Tis what we do, not what we say, that makes us worthy of His grace.

He will not turn his back on me, and send me down to blackest hell

Because I have not prayed aloud and shouted in the market place.

'Tis what we do, not what we say, that makes us worthy of His grace.

He will not turn his back on me, and send me down to blackest hell

Because I have not prayed aloud and shouted in the market place.

'Tis what we do, not what we say, that makes us worthy of His grace.

He will not turn his back on me, and send me down to blackest hell

Because I have not prayed aloud and shouted in the market place.

'Tis what we do, not what we say, that makes us worthy of His grace.

INSTANTLY KILLED ON LEVEL CROSSING

Richard Oliver Struck by a C. P. R. Passenger Train at Belleville.

Belleville, Nov. 7.—Saturday evening Richard Oliver, a well-known farmer of Mountain View, Prince Edward county, was instantly killed when he was struck by a Canadian Pacific passenger train at a crossing on the approach to the Bay Bridge connecting this city with Prince Edward.

Mr. Oliver, who was sixty-eight years of age, was driving to Belleville to meet his wife, who had been visiting friends in Sidney township. His horse became startled at a yard engine working east of the road, and a young lady who had ridden across the bridge with him got out, and at his request let down the buggy top. She walked across the tracks and had just reached the end of the road when she heard a crash, and looking around saw that Mr. Oliver had been struck by a train and flung many yards away. The passenger train from the west, which was late, had approached, the victim's attention being taken up with watching the yard engine.

The crossing is a level one and is protected by a bell. In the past there has been an agitation for gates at this point. The C. P. R. and C. N. R. lines at this point are adjacent, and on one right of way.

An inquest will be opened.

NO NEED FOR A SHELTER

WHEN KINGSTON HAS SEVERAL HOMES FOR CHILDREN.

Chief Inspector J. J. Kelso Comes From Toronto and Advises Local Branch to Drop Its Action Against the City.

The action entered by the Children's Aid Society against the City of Kingston for $717, alleged to be due for the keep of wards of the society in local homes and for an order to compel the city to erect and maintain a children's shelter, is likely to be dropped. On Monday, J. J. Kelso, chief inspector of the Provincial Society, came to Kingston to see what the trouble was all about and to arrange for a better understanding between the local branch and the city Council. It did not take Mr. Kelso long to get to the bottom of things and to arrange for calling off the court action which results, because Mayor Richardson, backed by the civic Finance Committee, refused to pay the local branch $717 for the keep of children when the local charitable institutions had agreed to take care of Children's Aid wards in return for the grants made them by the city.

Mr. Kelso addressed the Council Monday night on the matter and hoped for a amicable settlement. He stated that Kingston occupied a peculiar position in having so many homes here, while other places did not have, and being able to arrange for the care of Children's Aid wards. In other places shelters were required as there were not sufficient homes to take care of the children. According to the statutes every municipality was required to provide a children's shelter, but the Government has never forced a municipality to erect a shelter. The act states that a municipality shall supply a shelter, but there is no penalty for not doing so.

If it is correct that the Kingston Orphans' Home and other homes for children are willing to enter into an agreement with the city to care for wards of the Children's Aid, then a great deal of the differences that exist locally can be overcome, Mr. Kelso said. It will be necessary that all wards, good or bad, be taken in, for there are sometimes young girls who go astray and boys who steal.

Mr. Kelso said that he was hopeful if all these children can be taken in, then Mr. Kelso said it would be a mistake for the Children's Aid Society to sue the city.

He asked the Council not to be too hard on the society, for it was simply trying to carry out the law. He was here to try and make peace because he did not believe in going to law when things could possibly be amicably arranged. After talking over matters with the local officers of the society he found that they were ready to meet the city and try and make a settlement. He would, in company with the mayor, visit the children's institutions here and see if they were willing to care for all children who need care.

Mayor Richardson explained that the difficulty had originated from officers of the local society trying to get the city to pay the homes here for the care of wards when the city had its own arrangement with the homes that they would care for the wards. It was necessary to see just where the city stood and the suit was invited. The homes had never refused to take in the children, but he felt that when the Children's Aid institution called for letting the children out to foster homes within a few months, the city was charged by the local society with the care of some children for three and four years. This was in strict contravention of the society's constitution. The City Council did not think it necessary to spend $2,000 where $500 would do.

Mr. Kelso agreed with the mayor that this keeping of children so long in the homes and charging the city was wrong. He advised the Council to do all it could to help in Children's Aid work and, even to take an interest in children in the country district hereabouts, for in time boys in the back places who are criminally inclined will eventually drift to the cities and give trouble to the authorities.

Mr. Kelso also pointed out that in Toronto the parents of wards of the Children's Aid Society were made to pay for their offspring's keep when they were earning. The same might be done here. This relieved the municipality of a good deal of the cost.

SUTHERLAND AND KANE HIGHLY HONORED

Lieut.-Col. Low Slated to Command a Battalion to France.

Writing from England to local friends, Capt. James T. Sutherland, quartermaster of the 146th Battalion, stated that Capt. Kane and himself have been strikingly honored by the military authorities, by being almost immediately after arriving to act as adjutant and quartermaster, respectively, of the Canadian Training Depot at Shoreham in Sussex. When it is stated that nearly all adjutants and quartermasters who go over are given several months to close up the affairs of their battalions, the fact that these two officers were selected so quickly speaks well for the reputation they made in the 146th.

Capt. Sutherland says in part: "Our battalion is the most wonderful the world has ever seen. Every man is a veteran who has been wounded from one to six times, and who, having gone through the casualty stations and been completely restored to health, again takes up their training for France. We are both hopeful of going over with them, and are indeed proud of being connected with such a gallant bunch."

"We have men from all the different parts of Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver, B.C., artillery, engineers, infantrymen, and in fact all the important branches are here. It makes one feel quite humble when one notes the great casualty stripes on the arms of all, and then feels how unworthy one is to be classed with these grand Canadian lads. For my part as lieutenant, I have determined to leave no stone unturned to make these boys comfortable while they are preparing for their return to the battle line in France."

"We are beautifully located overlooking the sea, and it is certainly an ideal spot for the casualties to regain their health and strength."

"We hear that Col. Low is slated for an overseas (France) command, and hope his wish to go to the front may be realized, as he is quite anxious to go. It was quite a tug to have to part with one's former comrades, but orders are issued to be obeyed, and we are in the game to make good and keep up the honor of the old Limestone City."

PARCELS HAVE BEEN SENT.

The members of the society who are serving overseas, are Col. A. E. Ross, Lieut.-Col. Andrew McPhail, Major W. L. Grant, Lieut. Holloway Waddell, Lieut. John Dall and Lieut. J. L. Morrison.

Hard to Describe. Pte. R. Livery, of No. 1 Company, 21st Battalion, who went to the front from Portsmouth, in a letter to a friend, says that the men are doing their best and that the life is hard to describe, as only those who have seen a few months of it can tell what it is like.
