

Ready With Overcoats

Tight and loose fitting coats in fall weights or heavy winter materials if you prefer.

Our OVERCOAT DEPARTMENT

contains to our notion the most wonderful display of overcoats we've ever had the pleasure of showing you.

See our very snappy youngish models at $15.00 to $25.00.

Also the very popular military style, belted back overcoat, $15.00 to $22.00. Don't fail to see this model.

Livingston's,

Brock Street.

A little out of the way, but it will pay you to walk.

MILITARY CIRCLES

Some unusual evidences of the popularity of the heavy artillery branch of the service have been shown during the last day or two in the recruits offering at Montreal for C. Battery, R.C.H.A., which has recruited twenty men within that time. One recruit opened his farm near Sherbrooke in order to go overseas with the heavies. Three ranchers came from the far Canadian West in order to join the artillery.

Among the other recruits sworn in were: Charles Holder, master mechanic, from Buffalo; F. Ellis, Sherbrooke; J. W. Charbonneau, salesman, Montreal; W. J. A. Starr, Montreal; J. Hahson, insurance broker, Quebec; Robert O'Brien, Cornwall and Edgar Judge, who has been four years with the Bank of Montreal.

The 72nd Battery (Queen's) intend to hold a dance shortly in Grant Hall.

A court of inquiry composed of Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, G. S. O.; Major Burpee, 207th Battalion, and Capt. T. A. Kidd, headquarters of Military District No. 2, has been appointed for the purpose of investigating and reporting upon the alleged fraudulent disposal of foodstuffs belonging to the Government and on charge to the 207th Overseas Battalion.

Col. C. Hunter Ogilvie proceeded on leave from 11th to 29th inst.

Sergt. Wallace, Troup, of the 249th Battalion, Renfrew, who is a Joyceville boy, is recruiting around his old home, and he is meeting with good success. He will remain in the district for another week, and would like to take a good string of the young men in and around Joyceville back to Renfrew. Drivers and signallers are in great demand.

MAJOR W. Y. MILLS, who has been appointed to command the Kingston Home Guard.

A cablegram received to-day by Charles Livingston told of the safe arrival in England on Saturday of his son, Lieut. Ross Livingston.

Gen. Hemming has appointed Major W. Y. Mills to the command of the fort and home guard, and he will take office in a few days, when Lieut.-Col. Campbell relinquishes his duties. Major Mills, who is well qualified to fill the position, will shortly be gazetted lieutenant-colonel. He has had much military experience, having been connected for years with the 14th Regiment.

Major Date, who has been in charge of western internment work since the war broke out, is now mentioned as the new commandant of Fort Henry, in succession to Lieut.-Col. Campbell. He is said to be a Montreal man.

A private exhibition of a series of moving pictures entitled "Canada in Khaki" were shown at the Strand before the members of the military staff and their friends. The pictures, which were taken at Barriefield camp last summer by the U.S. Army, of Messrs. N. Y., are very fine, and delighted all who saw them. Every phase of military life was covered, including the last visit of the Duke of Connaught. Three thousand feet of film was shown, but this will be increased to six thousand. On Saturday pictures were taken of the convalescent homes and of Ongwanada Military Hospital. Monday morning a picture was taken of the headquarters staff, and on Tuesday a picture will be taken of the R. C. H. A. in action on Barriefield hill, in conjunction with field artillery. Pictures are also to be taken of munition workers leaving the Locomotive Works and of the students of Queen's. All these pictures will be shown in Kingston and throughout Canada.

Lieut.-Col. Campbell, officer commanding Queen's Highland Battalion, is in Montreal.

The floor of the Armouries is a busy place these days with squads of men going through various exercises.

Company "A" of the 240th Battalion arrived back in battalion headquarters at Renfrew Friday afternoon after trek through the counties of Lanark and Renfrew. About 375 miles were covered. A number of recruits were secured.

The recruiting officers of the 207th Battalion, Ottawa, have adopted a novel recruiting feature, by demonstrating a machine gun in action. This is done in the window at the base recruiting office and is very interesting. Recruiting for the different units in the capital has been greatly improved during the past month.

Lieut.-Col. de Salaberry, of the 230th Battalion has placed the brass band of his battalion at the disposal of the municipality of Brockville to assist at concerts either indoors or out for any worthy cause.

Lieut. R. M. Gray, 3rd Battalion

Canadians, formerly a well-known Brockville banker, wounded in the Somme drive of September, has gone to Glen Calach, Castle Kyles of Bute, Scotland, to recuperate.

Seven recruits were secured last week at the Princess Street recruiting depot as against nine the preceding week.

THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.

For to-night, Tuesday and Wednesday, an attractive bill has been arranged for the patrons of the Grand. Edmund Breese will be seen in the feature picture, "The Weakness of Strength," a story dealing with a man's regeneration, after sacrificing love, honor, and the regard of his fellows in his pursuit after power and wealth. A two-reel Universal feature, a tickling comedy, and the Pathe News will also be shown. In the vaudeville the Two Hacks will present a singing and whirlwind dancing novelty, Leonard Kane, a ragtime singer and eccentric dancer, will also be seen.

At the Strand.

For the first three days of this week an exceptionally high-class programme has been selected. W. S. Hart will be seen in the latest Triangle photo-play, "The Patriot," a thrilling story of Mexican border warfare. Supporting Mr. Hart are George Carpenter and Francis Stone, well-known child actors. Joe Good-boy, the well-known Indian actor and "Rags," the well-known dog performer of the Triangle studio. A Keystone comedy, "The French Milliner," with Fay Tucker; the Selig Tribune and "The House of Discord," with Blanche Sweet, will also be shown. Miss Gertrude Dixon in a banjo novelty act and La Van and La Van in a comedy singing act will round out the vaudeville end of this high-class programme.

At Griffin's.

Marvellous Mary Pickford has been starred upon the screen in characterizations of many picturesque nationalities, but her little Dutch girl in "Hulda From Holland," by Edith Baldwin DeLano, has never been surpassed in humour and genuine appeal to the heart. It is as "Hulda" of the stye country that the foremost star of the motion picture screen will appear at this theatre to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday. In addition to the above wonder photo-play we have as vaudeville Wilson and Whitman, a pair of clever entertainers in a singing, dancing and pianologue act, direct from Loew's, Toronto; also chapter thirteen of that exciting serial, "The Girl and the Game," and one of these genuine laugh producers, a Frank Daniel's comedy. The above bill is beyond a doubt one of the best in point of excellence and variety of entertainment that we have ever presented to our patrons. Our well-known and excellent orchestra will render a choice selection of popular music during the evening's performance.

Secret of the Submarine.

Satusma and Hope fight a revolver duel each hidden behind rocks. Satusma puts the book on a piece of wreckage and starts for shore; places dynamite under Fitzmanice's cabin; lights the fuse. Cleo sees him; she screams; the cabin is demolished and falls over the cliffs to the jagged rocks below. At the King Edward to-night and Tuesday afternoon and evening. Usual admission.

Q. M. SERGT. INCE IS TO BE LIBERATED

Is Not Implicated in Forging of Military Cheques—Other Arrests Probable.

Q. M. Sergt. Ince, of the 235th Battalion, Belleville, who has been held in connection with the forging of military cheques, is to be liberated, probably on Tuesday, as nothing has been found against him. From the first he maintained his innocence. Others are now under suspicion, and it is not improbable that one or more arrests will be made.

A Dominion police officer is now in the city working on the case.

Norman Augusta, aged three months and fourteen days, infant son of James Robinson, No. 2 Colborne street, passed away Monday morning.

The following are among the transfers recently made by James Reid's motor ambulance: Mrs. Oliver from 12 Alma street to the General Hospital; Miss Lillie Guess from the General Hospital to Sydenham, and Mrs. Bajley, 309 Collingwood street, to the hospital.
